THE SUMMER IS SHOT for local school children, who were forced to return to the classroom this week. The photo above was taken at about 12:30 p.m. yesterday at Southern Middle School, as over 700 middle school students were being dismissed and nearly 400 Southern High School students were outside waiting to enter

Southern Middle. Because of the renovation project now underway at Southern High, the split shifting of students and teachers is necessary. Motorists are reminded to be particularly aware of bus traffic, as students are being transported to and from school early in the morning, at midday, and in the evening.

Local Students On SAT Scores

Data recently released by the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) reflect a significant improvement in the combined SAT scores (both verbal and mathematical) of Garrett County junior and senior students. In fact, the combined mean score of 103 area juniors and seniors who took the test last school year was higher than the national average, as well as closely matched to Maryland's median cal score was 478. Although the local school system has only been subscribing to the College Board reporting service for the past three years due to costs, this year's area scores show a steady improvement over the three-year period.

Beginning in 1988, verbal scores of local students were 410 compared to the U.S. average of 428 while mathematical scores averaged 455 compared to a national average of 476. In 1989 verbal score averages for local students remained almost identical (411) to those of 1988, but the mathematical average score improved to 479, exceeding the U.S. average of 476.

DC Lake Group Petitions Against role model for young women. Bridge Plan

A group of Deep Creek Lake property and landowners are currently circulating a petition concerning the Glendale Bridge project urging the Garrett County Commissioners to 'alter their thinking on the proed rebuilding of the Glendale Bridge on its current alignment," according to the peti-

Spokesman for the group, Jan Finkel, a lake property owner, stated, "We hope their decision is not final, and that they will be willing to amend their position

The current plan calls for the superstructure of the bridge to be built over the existing pier, which would close the bridge for nine to twelve months, affecting businesses in the area as well as hampering emergency services and creating inconveniences for residents and tourists.

The petition, which will be delivered to the board of comoners late this week or early next week, states the following reasons for not rebuilding the bridge on its current substructure.

1. Such a closure will bring about irrevocable damage to businesses and services both on the lake and in Oakland, so much so that many people may lose their jobs;

2. People who use the bridge local businesses, property owners, commuters to and from work, and tourists - will be subject to disruption, delays, and detours;

3. Proposed detour routes such as Toothpick and Rock Lodge Roads are clearly inade quate to handle the increased flow of traffic, and are indeed unsafe;

4. Safety, police, rescue and fire professionals will be forced take alternate routes, thereby endangering property and life: 5. The work can be done prop erly on a new alignment for relatively little extra money

($1.6 million), which may be obtained in a variety of ways - an action that would eliminate the previously cited reasons. Finkel stated that approximately 700 signatures had been obtained as of Wednesday.

CLOWNS AND ELEPHANTS GALORE will be rolling into McHenry on Saturday, Sept. 8, as "the Biggest Big Top on Earth" Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Circus prepares for their Saturday, Sept. 8, shows at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The Mental Health Association of Maryland will be sponsoring the circus, which will present two shows on Saturday, the first at 2 p.m., and the second at 7 p.m. Hailed as a "return to the good old days in family entertainment," Carson & Barnes Circus features 24 elephants, a million dollar zoo of exotic and domestic animals (including several big cats), and a host of wirewalkers, acrobats, and jugglers. Pictured above are three graceful pachyderms named Isla, Lilly, and Traci, who will be performing in one of the five rings, and to the right, two of the many clowns to appear are shown here, "clowning around." The big top tent stretches more than a city block long, and the public is invited to watch the erecting of the tent (which is done with the help of several elephants) on the morning of the show. Governor William Donald Schaefer is the honorary chairman of the Mental Health Association Circus Project, which includes circus performances throughout Maryland during the month of September. Tickets, which are priced at $7 for adults, and $4 for children, may be obtained by calling the box office at 1-800-388-9096. Tickets will also be sold at the door the day of the show for one dollar more per ticket.

A Sad State . . .

English, the official language of these United States, is, in both written and spoken form, in a sad, sad state. Granted, those of us who spend most of our time editing copy and writing are more sensitive to the problem, but we fear that the long-range future of the language is gloomy, as things such as grammar, punctuation, and correct spelling are simply being ignored.

In cooperation with the Garrett County League of Women Voters, we published a Voters' Guide last week which contained biographical information about most of the candidates running for office, along with their answers to various questions presented by the League. We hate to tell you about the condition of many of those questionnaires. There were numerous spelling and grammatical errors in over half of them, from candidates at all levels of elected office. Some were handwritten, so sloppily that certain words were totally illegible. Several candidates could not follow directions and allowed their answers to exceed the 50-word limit.

One point we want to emphasize here is that poor grammar and spelling do not necessarily equate with ability in office. Some of our most effective legislators, such as Will Rogers, used poor grammar and words like "ain't." But what irritated us with these questionnaires was that those candidates who do not have a good command of the language should have had someone else check their responses and make corrections before submitting them. They knew that these responses were going to be seen by perhaps as many as 30,000 readers. These questionnaires were much like resumes, which should be written and re-written until they are PERFECT. If a candidate doesn't care about how he presents himself on paper, what does it say about how he will approach the duties that lie ahead in whatever elective office he seeks?

Some of the questionnaires we received were near perfect as to spelling, punctuation, and grammar. These candidates will be more likely to receive the votes of The Republican news staff.

These candidates are certainly not alone, however. Daily we receive news releases from organizations, government agencies, and businesses, undoubtedly written by persons who hold degrees in public relations, that contain the variety of the errors that we have described. Is the problem in the classroom? In the home? Is it too much television and video games? Is it sun spots?

We aren't sure, but we hope the present trend is reversed - and soon.

Letters to the Editor

A recent article in the "Baltimore Sun' quoted a local official as saying the people of Deer Park apparently did not 'growth and development" because they had voted down public water and sewer projects in the past.

After the recent antics of the Sanitary Commission's "hit squad" on Shallmar's water system and their statement about "protecting us from ourperhaps we should all take a closer look at what 'progress' means.

Some of the candidates for county commissioner apntly would like to turn loose what for most of us would be a whole new set of regulations and inspectors. They would, if they have their way, start as down the road to becoming a little "Baltimore County" with more bureaucrats telling us what we can and cannot do on our own property

A man I know of was laid off from his job, and started a small business in his home. He was almost arrested and fined for this. His home is on seven acres of land in Carroll County. In one area of Howard Co. you not allowed to have a basketball net in your drive-

Do we really want this sort of regulation on a county-wide basis to gain a foothold here? You will be told these are extreme cases, but once these laws are in place they can be arnended, a few regulations at a time and the noose of govern ment control tightens on us all.

Would you want some inspector" to tell you what you can and cannot do in your own garage? Perhaps you have a care on your property that doesn't have tags on it. You say it's your sons "hot rod" he is restoring? Too bad! The "inspector" says it has to go!

The list can go on almost for ever once we allow this sort of thing to be started, right down to the size of your woodpile and where you stack it!

How about if you own a farm and want to give your son or daughter a building lot? Not without asking permission from "zoning board" for an exemp tion from their "protective regulations." You say this land been yours for 40 odd years? Not any more!

One candidate says he will allow us as proerty owners as much freedom "as possible Wonder what that means' Another would-be commis sioner says he will support an 'appeals process" to review decisions, made by these

Listen up, guys! I make those decisions now, and I think most voters are like me and want to keep it that way! We already have zoning in some of our towns and the lake area and if people want to live there that's up to them.

I hope the rest of the citizens can see through the "progress" that is being offered by some who are running for office

Of course when we reject them and their ideas, we'll end up being called "backward" and not wanting "modern development" or "government protection" of our property. Sound familiar?

Thanks to The Republican, you can see in their Guide" just who these candidates are and then it's up to us as it should be. I don't agree with all our current commissioners do or have done, but we voters had better "look before we leap." If their stand on this issue is an example of their philosophy of governme it could be a long four years for the rest of us, and we may never regain the freedoms we take for granted now.

Deer Park P.S. No matter who is elected an issue like county-wide zoning should never be started without a vote by the citizens! It's our freedom! And we have to pay salaries of those who "pro tect us from ourselves!

I would like to know why Clifford DeWitt did not complete his term in office and is running for another one. Was it to get David Martin elected?

Why were two of David Martin's friends given jobs in the Courthouse, when others had applications in and were not interviewed?

May I present a dramatization of a political realism that affects us all dramatically? Thank you, sir. All right, everyone, think for a moment THINK FROM NOW UNTIL SEPTEMBER 11th, when you pull that lever that could decide large hunk of your (and your children's) future in this tightly Promises, at least, are cheap and are as old as the elephant the current Ring-master fraudulently rides upon; they cost him nothing when there is no intention to keep them Here's another question you might ask him and yourself be tween now and September 11: Why are so many of the top paying, appointive county jobs held by people who are not really "Garrett Countians?" Could it be the "Circus Masters" have determined that the local 'Rubes" are not qualified to

Let's bring in a new leader and give that person a qualified, competent team committed to serving ALL the people of Garrett County; one that will work together to raise living standards in the ENTIRE community, making our county a better place to live and work. own!

As this an election year I have noticed a number of politically motivated "letters to the editor" in recent weeks. The opportunity to freely express a litical opinion is rare in the world today, and we all should applaud our governmental system for our being able to, as well as to thank our newspapers for the means to do so

Many of the letters I have read recently have been "one issue" criticism of our presen cal incumbents. Whereas there is room for concern in some issues and possibly blame in others, on the whole here in Garrett County we have been well served by our public officers. The "big picture" is encouraging indeed.

I point out a number of items to this end The road system, both state and county, is superior to any in the area - both in construction, and in summer and winter

The local tax rate here has ntinually declined; a matter under control of local government. The assessment has increased, but this is a state mandated factor, and the fact that have had continuing property tax increase is largely a state and not local issue. A "hot" issue of late is the construction of a replacement for the Glendale Bridge. While there is feeling that an entirely new bridge should be built, two separate engineering surveys have concluded that the present projected load. I am inclined to believe the qualified engineers in this matter. The simple fact is that without a higher local contribution we cannot afford an entirely new bridge. There is no public enthusiasm for higher taxes to support this, and since vidently we are unlikely to get higher state participation in the immediate future - and apparently now is when we need to begin work on the structure there is little choice but to go ahead with construction on th

Deep Creek for an extended period of time. This latter situation will no doubt work a temporary hardship on some people, but alternate routes will develop, and it is the apparent price of progress — much as is the difficult traffic situation east of Cumberland on Interstate #48.

Perhaps the current issue directly affecting the greatest number of Garrett Countians is rebuilding of Southern High School. This project also is underfunded, but only last year a bond issue to directly fund this project was defeated in county wide referendum. Therefore the school board and the commisoners must conclude that in the absence of further state funding they have to "make do" with the monies available Many of us feel that perhaps could be better cooper ation between these two bodies but remember that only a few years ago, we the voters of this county, voted to have a separately elected school board that was by definition independent of the county commissioners. Less rhetoric and more accommodation between these two bodies is certainly appropriate, but as all of these officials have been involved in this project since its inception, we ought not to "change horses in the middle of the stream. A recent matter that many of us have forgotten is the Gypsy Moth Spraying program of 1990. Without taking any credit any credit from the fine efforts to implement this by the ASCS Department and the Extension Office, we must remember that the initiative in this matter was taken by our commissioners. Every farmer and land owner who participated surely must appreciate the most effective results of this program - and its most reasonable cost. In fact Garrett County program has been highly praised by state and federal officials for its

Additionally our present officials must also be given high marks for their efforts to maintain a climate wherein such institutions as the Community College is at its highest enrollment ever, the Memorial Hospital has become a fine local medical center, corporations such as Mettiki and Bausch and le to expand and provide new employment, and ew industries such as Garrett Optical with approximately hundred new jobs move into the

I feel that the county as a whole has prospered and progressed in recent years and that ve must look at the "big picture" when we make choices on September 11. However, agree with me or not, remember your privilege to vote

Yours. William G. Savage

To the Editor:

Thank heavens we have man in Garrett County who will place issues on the line and across the board. I am referring to his letter to the Editor in 8/30/90 issue of The Republican by Ronald Rowan.

Is the Democratic party the only party in the county? The on for asking this question why did the Republican party pass up an opportunity to find a candidate to run opposing the incumbent in district 2? Voters. this is the last week before the Primary Election, as concerned taxpayers and registered voters in Garrett County have the choice to make a clean sweep in the Commissioners Office. However, when we go to the polls to vote, it is our responsibility to cast our vote for candidates that are first and foremost qualified, and of high moral standards. In District #1 we have the incumbent and a choice of two other candidates. In District #2 we have only the incumbent. No opposing candidate (whose fault is this?) and in District #3 we have an incumbent and two candidate choices, the Republican, through the efforts of Garrett County League of Women Voters, published a "Voters Guide" issue 8/30/90. This was designed to inform the voters and public of the qualifications of the candidates running for

IT IS HIGH TIME we as registered voters read and study and ask questions about these candidates' qualifications and not just go to the voting polls on election day and pull a lever because we see a familiar name or face. Let us be certain in this election that we know who the best person is for the office they are trying to

It is about time we as voters, which I understand are the working class of people in Garrett County, stand up and be counted on the issues of unfair hiring practices throughout the county. It has been voiced by many persons seeking county employment that it is not the knowledge or skills one has, it is who you are and who you know in the work place.

There has been a call for change. Let's make a change will uphold FAIR HIRING practices on the basis of knowledge and skills and not who knows whom! Not only in the commissioners' office but in Circuit and District court also. As all voters should be aware, the candidate they choose can either make better government for the taxpayers of Garrett County or by the wrong choice, break the

There is a cry going out for change this year. It is also the year for choice. Do your homework, voters. Study the background and qualifications of your choice and then make the right decision. Let us not be found hanging in the balance after November 11.

Madonna Pool To the Editor We the Garrett County Humane Society, Inc., did get an answer to our request for funds for a spay/neuter program. We feel all Garrett County taxpayers should have the privilege of reading it.

Dear Mr. Gregg: Article VII, Section I of the Constitution of Maryland pro-vides the County Commissioners of each county shall have such "powers and duties as now or may be hereafter prescribed by law

Maryland Law Encyclopedia, Volume 6, Page 517, provides that under the Maryland Constitution, the powers and duties of County Commissioners are such as may be prescribed by law. This authority further

'The powers and duties of county commissioners are essentially statutory, and limited, and they can exercise only such powers as statute or the county charter expressly necessary or reasonable implication therefrom, authorizes or permits." I have examined the local laws of Garrett County and the statutory law pertaining to the powers of the County Commisoners and I am unable to find any provision in the law authorizing the County Commissioners to appropriate funds for the Garrett County Humane

It is my further opinion, that should the Humane Society desire the county to appropriate public funds for their benefit, it will be necessary for them to. obtain passage of a law authorizing such appropriation from the General Assembly of Marythan 10 but no more than 25 went - was obtained by the passage of a law authorizing such appropriation from the General Assembly of Maryland and if the purchase of two vehicles, mileage, and expense account of the county clerk was appropriated by the General sembly of Maryland.

And we are wondering how many county vehicles the taxpayers are supporting and why these vehicles are driven for personal use (including for trips out of the state of Maryland) and why are county vehicles driven by persons who are not employed by the county and with unemploy ment in Garrett County the highest in the state why do we have county employees who do not live in Garrett County, and why do we have auditors from out of the county instead of local ones?

Do you suppose the County Commissioners obtained passage of a law authorizing s appropriations from the General Assembly of Mary-

I wonder how the commissioners can justify these expenditures and not want to support a spay/neuter program will save the taxpayers hundreds of thousands dollars and save the lives of hundreds of thousands of innocent animals born then killed because no money is appropriated to stop the slaughter

Personally, I do not know how these persons can sleep. Maybe no conscience or maybe it would take from another raise in salary for the already overpaid bureaucrats.

It is my opinion that it is a moral obligation of the commissioners to save the taxpayers money. According to a letter to Mr. Groves from Mr. Gary Mullick (the Humane Society was given a copy), over $216,000 was spent from 1982-1986 to de stroy innocent animals - this included salaries, utilities, etc., but all because of the animals. A spay/neuter program would also prevent rabies and other diseases. The less stray animals we have, the less rabies and diseases. If one half as many people went to Ocean City and we got rid of one county car we could very easily have money for a program.

I truly believe caring for innocent animals should have priority over partying. In time we would not need the program because with the mother spayed and the father neutered they would not multiply by the thousands.

I cannot understand the commissioners' decision to not help the animals. Could it be they have lost control of power and cannot do what people are ask-For instance, you who read my letter asking for disclosure of yearly salaries, should know that I never received a reply. It has been two weeks and m friend, Colonel (Retired) Richard C. Browning told me he had asked the county clerk in the presence of Mr. Braske what the annual salaries of all the county employees were. Mr. Braskey told the county clerk to tell Colonel Browning what the salaries were. Three months have passed and still no answer Colonel Browning went to the office of the County Commis sioners 9/4/90, and again asked the amount of the county employees salaries. The county clerk also told Colonel Browning if he would put the request in writing he would answer it

In the presence of the "folks in the County Commissioners office Colonel Browning wrote a letter and handed it to the Commissioners. He was assured he would get an answer, but it would take 10 days.

VOTE George Brodak

For County Commissioner

TEN REASONS WHY IT IS TIME FOR THE PEOPLE TO TAKE CHARGE!

EDUCATION

The education of our young people is the single most important issue for the future. Right now, Garrett County teachers have the lowest starting salaries in the state of Maryland! Do the Commissioners review the Board of Education requests carefully to make sure that tax monies are being spent wisely on teaching? Are the Commissioners making sure our young people are getting the best possible educational opportunities?

GEORGE BRODAK WILL SUPPORT EDUCATION!

TAXES

The amount of property tax paid by Garrett County residents has skyrocketed over the past 12 years, but the present County Commissioners would like the people to believe that taxes have not gone up. When he announced that he was seeking an unprecedented fourth term, Ernie Gregg said, "Since taking office, Garrett County has had the largest decrease in property taxes of any jurisdiction in the State of Maryland." Maybe he should look at the facts and remember that he helped raise the amount of taxes you are paying in Garrett County.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

Garrett County has two industrial parks that cost the taxpayers a lot in terms of the money spent and the things we did without because of those buildings. So far, all the Commissioners have done to attract new business is crank up the budget. They have not reached out directly to prospective employers. A businessman understands that you decide — before you build — how to attract new businesses that are profitable and clean. And, he knows it takes hard work — not a bigger budget — to get the job done!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL BRING IN NEW BUSINESSES!

THE OAKLAND BY-PASS

The Commissioners have been talking about a by-pass in the Oakland area for eleven years — and still haven't gotten any further. Instead of a referendum that would let the people decide, in an election, whether the by-pass should be built, the Commissioners have listened to a small minority and done nothing. If the Commissioners really served the needs of the people, they would have held a referendum, the by-pass could have been built years ago — at a much nower cost!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL GET THIS PROJECT MOVING!

GLENDALE BRIDGE

The proposed solution to rebuilding the Glendale Bridge shows very little planning. Two points seem lost in the Commissioners' thinking. First, they assume original piers will last practically forever. Second, they have not pursued ways to build a new bridge while the original bridge stays open! Instead, they are being "penny wise and pound foolish" by not looking at all of the other options. Someday our children will be paying the price for poor planning in the Glendale Bridge project!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL FIND A BETTER SOLUTION!

THE ENVIRONMENT

Instead of taking the lead in protecting the environment and keeping Garrett County beautiful by promoting recycling and conservation, the Commissioners are lagging behind. Where are the innovative programs? Where is the incentive to recycle? Where is the leadership? They have done the minimum that is required. When are they going to realize their responsibility to future generations?

ZONING

The reason for zoning laws is to manage growth in ways that benefit everyone. If the laws are fair and are fairly enforced, they will stimulate economic development and protect the rights of individuals. The current codes in Garrett County are neither, and that is slowing down progress. Now is the time to completely review and revise the zoning codes and enforcement — for the good of the entire county!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL SUPPORT A ZONING REVIEW!

WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

The cost of county government has tripled in the past decade, but the people haven't gotten any more help from the county or the Commissioners. In Garrett County government there are too many people who have forgotten that the job of government is to serve the people. They waste tax dollars and time, and the taxpayers foot the bill! They forget to give a full day's work for a full day's pay!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL CUT GOVERNMENT WASTE!

SOCIAL SERVICES

We have a responsibility to provide services and programs for those who have special needs. County government should take the lead in supporting Senior Citizens' centers. The Commissioners have a responsibility to find ways of supporting programs that help children and families. When government can spend millions on construction without competitive bids — like they did on Southern High — but they cannot fund programs to help people in need, there is something wrong!

GEORGE BRODAK WILL SERVE THE PEOPLE!

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

The future of Garrett County is on the line. The County Commissioners are looking to the past and talking about stability. They are supposed to be looking to the future and planning for the coming decade and the coming century! Garrett County has great potential, but that potential will not be realized until Garrett County elects someone with vision and an eye to the future!

A Proven Commissioner for Garrett County

FACTS TO BE CONSIDERED

Recently many of my supporters, friends and family have asked me to respond to the many statements that have been made about the Commissioners and our office. Some basic facts EMPLOYMENT: Over 3,000 new jobs have been created in Garrett County in the past

GRANTS: Over $10,000,000 in federal and state grants have been received in the past

TAXES: Garrett County had the highest county tax rate in the state 8 years ago. It is now e ninth lowest in the state out of 23 countles

ASSESSMENTS: The State regularly increases our assessments as in every other county, but the difference is that Garrett County has experienced the greatest decrease in the tax rate of any other county. Our $.78 reduction in eight years is unprecedented. VEHICLES: County cars are to be used for county business only. A total of four staff cars have been purchased in the last eight years, excluding Sheriff's Department and Roads Department vehicles.

SALARIES: All elected county officials have their salaries established by the Salary Review Committee appointed by the Delegate, who then adjusts salaries by legislation. All non-union employees' salaries and grade levels were determined by an independent, professional benefits consulting firm in order to provide for an equitable system of compensation that is competitive with other State and local agencies. PROPERTY RIGHTS: The record is clear! The current Board of Commissioners is nitted to defending the rights of property owners, charges to the contrary firmly committee notwithstanding! ECONOMIC BENEFITS: Garrett County average household income has risen by $9,109 or 45.3% in the last six years. Source: Md. Department of Economic and Community

Hopefully this information will help "clear the air" on some of the gross misinformation that has been circulating around the county

Authority: Rob Michael, Treasurer

For twelve long years, Garrett County has witnessed a circus complete with magic and juggling acts. Star of the show is a magician with a bag of loaded tricks ...arrogance, sarcasm, intimidation and double talk! Most famous trick of all is called, "The Disappearing Promises." It is time to drop the tent on this circus and all its side shows along with a strong message that the ringleader must go!

It is time for some fresh air...for new ideas...for new faces and for interested neighbors who want to make Garrett County the best county in the State for everyone/oil companies and brokers who provide more than 65% of Maryland's gasoline had explained their August price increases by saying that the price of oil to the consumer should reflect the replacement cost of that product. However, Goldstein said that logic "doesn't hold water" when one considers that crude oil prices dropped 15¢ per gallon between January 5 and February 23, 1990, while retail prices rose 2e per gallon. "Prices did dant supply," he said. Goldstein said he has contacted 239 wholesaler/jobbers who serve the Maryland marketplace, asking them to provide detailed price and supply data. "Our initial investigation seems to show that jobbers, who traditionally have served the population outside the metropolitan areas, may have been used as an outlet valve during a time of oversupply at the expense of motorists who purchase their gasoline at stations supplied directly by the major oil companies," he said. The comptroller noted that the price offered to jobber/wholesalers in the six monthe preceding the Middle East crisis was as much as 30; per gallon less than that offered to retail dealers. Today, the jobber/wholesaler is paying as much or more for the product as the directly supplied dealer.

Goldstein said he has asked the attorney general to determine if any state laws have been broken or if additional protection is needed. "We are receiving complaints from jobbers and independent dealers who have been forced to close their businesses and lay off employees. These jobbers are reporting difficulties in finding assured sources of supply and are being forced to pay more for their product than companysupplied situations - sometimes in the same competitive

"We need to determine if we are seeing our efforts to disrupt the marketplace by forcing jobbers with lucrative establishments and of business so that major oil companies can begin directly supplying stations in those areas.," he said. "We've not seen this kind of disruption in the marketplace since the oil companies tried to take over the most lucrative retail stations in the early 1970's.

He spends a good deal of time talking to state officials on behalf of Garrett County. Ernie's always been a person that has a sense of purpose to what he does, he knows what he's doing and he's worked very, very hard for Garrett County."

WHAT IT IS, IS A SINCERE THANK YOU FOR MAKING WFRB

GARRETT COUNTY'S MOST LISTENED TO RADIO STATION. SINCE WE CANNOT WRITE YOU A PERSONAL LETTER, AND SINCE WE KNOW THAT THE REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER REACHES PRACTICALLY EVERY HOME IN GARRETT COUNTY, WE HAVE DECIDED ON THIS METHOD OF COMMUNICATION. We would also like to inform you that WFRB AM has expanded its programming by presenting a very controversial talk show at 12:05 p.m., Monday through Friday. You may hate him, you may love him, but you will listen to him. RUSH LIMBAUGH is the nation's most listened to talk show host. He is now on nearly 300 stations, and what he deals with will make you sit up and take notice. Subjects such as the Middle East crisis, the equal rights movement, abortion, animal rights, promiscuity. No subject of current interest is outside his domain. He tells it as he sees it, along with a generous sprinkling of humor, fun and satire.

If you crave for something different in radio programming, then be sure to catch RUSH LIMBAUGH, Monday through Friday, only on WFRB AM 560. He may be right, he may be wrong, but he will stimulate your thought processes to the limit.

Again, thank you for making WFRB Garrett County's number one, and most listened to, station.

Rams Regroup Despite Low Numbers, Youth, Split Shifts

Despite a topsy-turvy practice schedule because of the split-shifting of Southern High School's students this year, the loss of several key players to graduation, possibly the toughest schedule ever, and on-25 players on the roster, Southern Coach Tom Woods seems optimistic about the Rams' chances this season. The Rams will open their 10-game slate at home this Friday evening against Berkeley Springs.

Because of the split shift of students, the Southern varsity will be composed entirely of juniors and seniors, with the exception of two sophomores, C.J. Getson and Jeremy Bosley. There are six sophomores on the varsity roster, but they will have to practice with the junior varsity now that school has started and the split shift is in

While we would like to have at least 30 players." Woods said, "we have sort of a unique situation this year with the players we have. For the first time in my career, every single player on the varsity really can play ball. So far there is no one on the roster that we wouldn't feel comfortable about putting into a game. Now, if we get four or five injuries, we are going to have real problems because we simply have no depth

Another advantage is that everyone will get in a lot of playing time, which is what most of them lack right now," he continued. "We have an excellent group of juniors who have been very successful as jayvee players. They are untested on the varsity level, but we believe they will continue to be successful there. After the first three games we should have a pretty good idea of the calibre of team we really

"Our overall team speed, both on offense and defense, is vastly improved over last year," Woods said. The kicking game will include

Getson as punter, Brett Glotfelty as place kicker for kickoffs, and Skipper for extra points and field goals.

Among the bright spots for Coach Woods this year has been the leadership he has received from his seniors. "These boys have been just outstanding at practise," Woods said. "They have worked their tails off and that has encouraged the younger players to work hard, too. We started our summer practices pretty slow, but we finished with the best August we've ever had."

That summer schedule ended on a high note for the Rams Saturday when they scrimmaged Fort Hill, possibly the area's strongest team, to a 2-2 tie.

'That was a real shot in the Others expected to see a lot of arm for our confidence," Woods playing time on offense are said. Westmar and Beall have been replaced by defending state champion Allegany and a strong team from Landon School, an all-boys school located near Baltimore Musselman returns with its usual outstanding team after going 12-1 last year and losing the state title game in the final minute. "Then you throw in teams siderable time on defense will like Tucker County, Hampshire, Kevser, and Northern waiting to upset us at the end of the season and you have a very tough schedule," Woods said.

The Rams will be the favorite in their opener against Berkeley Springs, another young team that is currently

The Indians' multiple-set offense is led by senior quarterback Mark Clem (6-0, 175) and senior tailback Jason McClintock (5-9, 165).

'They are a big-play oriented team that passes about 50 percent of the time," Woods said. "They are very unpredictable and, in order to get ready for them, you have to prepare for so many different formations. They use 5-2, 4-4, and 6-2 defensive fronts, which can present a lot of problems for a young offense like ours."

Woods said he considers the Indians' team size to be average, their speed to be better than average, and their kicking game to be outstanding.

"Their advantage is the fact that this will be their third game and our first," he said. 'You can always tell when a team has played at least one game because they settle into the game a lot quicker. We have to make sure that we don't get off to a lousy start and let them score on some big plays."

However, Vent says the Cavaliers are "better than their record indicates and a lot better than they were last year.'

Vent scouted the Cavaliers the past two weeks and said that they are much bigger than in the past.

"Because of our lack of size, we are using a new philosophy this year," Vent said. "We have to use our speed and be extremely aggressive on defense. We just can't let other teams pound on us because we don't have the size or the depth to take it. We will have to strike quickly and with a lot of force. Offensively, we will probably throw a little more. Chad Sines, who started for us as a freshman, has seen it all and is a real veteran. Plus we have some good receivers, especially Doug Brenneman."

Vent noted how pleased he was that his team would be "back home" this year and have "first class" facilities to work with. "I want to thank everyone who was involved with this project," he said. "It is just a super job and now both county high schools have some of the finest facilities around. Hopefully we can respond with a win Friday night.

To The Voters Of Garrett County:

The Office of Clerk of the Circuit Court is a public institution recognized the Constitution of Maryland and has existed in the State since 1658.

Only six Clerks of Court have served Garrett County Since its founding in 1872. I am the sixth, having been appointed by the Hon. Fred A. Thayer, Chief Judge, on July 2, 1990, after thirteen years experience as Deputy Clerk of Court, first with Richard L. Davis, then with Clifford C. DeWitt. All six Clerks have been working deputy clerks and have risen through the ranks to bring their experience to the elected office.

The duties of the Clerk's Office are many; they are varied and technical, governed by the Maryland Constitution, Maryland statutory and common law and by the MARYLAND Rules of court. A working knowledge of these resources is essential.

For Circuit Court, the Clerk's duties include:

Processing the filing of all lawsuits and all major criminal charges
--Claims for damages of $5,000.00 or more.

--Appeals from District Court and administrative agencies.
--Domestic Relations: Divorce, Custody, Support, Alimony, Adoption & Paternity. --Mortgage foreclosure, mechanics liens, injunctions.
--Criminal charges filed by the State's Attorney, criminal indictments and criminal appeals filed from District Court.

2. Providing staff assistance to Grand Juries and all Circuit Court trials, both jury and non-jury.

3. Recording all judgments of the Court, all liens and all Court documents, both local and out-

4. Prepare annual office operating budgets sent to Comptroller of The Treasury.

In addition the Clerk's duties to the public include: 1. Recording and maintaining land records; deeds, mortgages, deeds of trust, leases, plats, land

2. Maintaining corporation records, partnership records, agency records and commissions.

3. Taking applications for passports.

4. Issuing marriage licenses and business licenses.

5. Performing civil marriage ceremonies.

As Garrett County grows, so grows the volume and complexity of the Office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court. -The Maryland Administrative Office of the Courts reports that Circuit court case filings in Garrett County reached a total of 1.063 in 1989-90, up from 645 in 1977-78, when I began as a Deputy Clerk. This represents a 56% increase Trials, both jury and non-jury, have now reached 197 for the past fiscal year, up 42% in the last five years.

Business licenses are issued by the Office of the Clerk of the Court. This year the office issued 947 business licenses, an increase of 40%.

-Deeds, mortgages and financing statements are filed and recorded in the Office of the Clerk of Court. The office recorded 6,480 of these instruments last year, up 41% in number since 1977. The revenue from recording these documents reached $854,596.17; thus, the office paid over $540,311.95 to Garrett County and $314,284.22 to the State of Maryland this year.

The Office of the Clerk of the Court collected and disbursed to this County, to the State of Maryland and to local municipalities more than 1.41 million dollars in fiscal 1990, an increase of 170% since

The Office of the Clerk of Court issued 763 marriage licenses and performed 391 marriage ceremonies in fiscal 1990.

The Office of the Clerk of Court requires a person that is experienced, capable and qualified. I believe that the 13 years I have served under Richard L. Davis and Clifford C. DeWitt have qualified me for this office. I solicit your support and vote on September 11, 1990. Pull Lever 7-H

Question from a concerned voter:

"Commissioner Gregg, I am a member of the Rescue Squad and we stand by for the Fire Department. I am concerned about new condos such as those going up in McHenry because they do not have sprinkler systems and some have spiral staircases. Would you favor changes in regard to the 200 condomination of the condomination of zoning in regard to this?"

Well! That does not come under zoning but is up to the Building Code Inspector!

Commissioner Gregg was not asked who was in charge of sprinkler systems or spiral staircases. He was asked for his opinion. He did not give one. Instead, he ignored the question and with sarcastic arrogance turned on the voter and asked these completely irrelevant questions: "Would you want us to require sprinkler systems in every house in Garrett County and do you think the people would be willing to build 20-foot driveways for every house for fire trucks?" First: He tries to leave a false impression concerning a salary increase for all the county employees in the Courthouse seems to imply that the law requires the increases provided in his Bill 937.

Second, he says that the law was heavily publicized. It ild be, but it was not publicized up here. He knows that recommendations are only that and e law was passed in 1989. It was not published up here. I never heard of the law until three weeks ago when somebody from Cumberland mailed a copy to me. Then I had to write to Annapolis for a copy which was then sent to me properly signed by the Governor.

Again, I have to state that the bill plainly provides for ncreases for nearly every employee in the Garrett County

The bill provides for County Commissioner increases as follows: Increase for each Commissioner Increase in 1991 to present $20,000, for year 1992 to $23,000, in 1993 to $25,000, and in 1994 to $28,500.

Treasurer salary is to be raised to $22,000 and then to $24,000. State's Attorney salary to $50,000 by 1994; Assistant State's Attorney, $25,000; Sheriff, $28,000 to $35,000.

We find other increases in Edwards' bill. He is very liberal with the taxpayers, money.

- •Member, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, serving on the
- administrative board. ·Member, Oakland Civic Club.

Brenda is not a newcomer to politics. She has been elected to serve the people of Garrett County on four different occasions. She was elected to the Republican Central Committee twice and is presently serving as Chairman. She was elected twice as Delegate to the Republican National Convention; in 1976, Brenda was endorsed by President Ford; in 1988, she was endorsed by President Bush. She has been the only woman elected to serve as Delegate from the 6th Congressional District.

BRENDA BUTSCHER — ON THE ISSUES —

- •Would practice an "Open Door" policy between you, the
- taxpayer and the office of County Commissioner.
- Would show fairness in the service of county roads.
- •Would adequately fund the Board of Education. Would work to protect and preserve the rights of private - property owners. Would say "NO" to salary increases for county commissioners. $28,000 annually, plus benefits and retirement, is out of line
- with county employees and taxpayers who must account for their time on the job. •Would represent senior citizens to the fullest extent.
- Would promote and actively seek new industry and business in the County.
- Would support an aggressive gypsy moth spray program. Would support a long overdue recycling program.
- Would insist on better planning for bridge and road building
- Would support better building codes to protect volunteer firemen and rescue squad members.
- •Would support a Battered Spouse program.
- •Would ask for legislation to limit county commissioners to two terms in office.
- •Would ask for legislation for a member of the Board of County Commissioners to serve as an ex officio member of the Board of Education. This should put an end to the bickering and fighting between the two boards and put the children's education as top

HONEY FACTS

Honey is a wholesome, natural food. It gives sweetness plus flavor. It may wisely be substituted for sugar or molasses. It is an energy-giving food, especially easily digested. It contains small amounts of mineral. It possesses slight laxative properties. It may wisely be used for constipation or overweight. It keeps indefinitely if stored in a warm, dry place. It is obtained in comb, extracted and granulated form.
Granulated honey is as pure as other forms.

HONEYED HAM AND APPLES

Brown a rather thick slice of cured ham in a baking dish, pour 4 tablespoons of honey over the ham and stick 3 whole cloves in the ham. Place cored apples halved, or pineapple, on ham and bake in a moderate oven. In place of the fruit, sweet potatoes or carrots may be used, and pork chops may be substituted for the cured ham.

CANDIED SWEET POTATOES OR CARROTS

Place raw or partly cooked sweet potatoes or carrots in a baking dish and add honey and butter enough to keep vegetables from becoming dry. Cook until vegetable is tender, basting from time to time.

A HINT TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT

Substitute honey in recipes for sugar or molasses. 1 cup honey = 1 cup sugar

1 cup honey = 1 cup molasses or syrup

Allow 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon soda to each cup honey in baked products. Reduce liquid in recipe 1/4 cup for each cup honey. Granulated honey is used the same as strained honey. Spices that blend well with honey are nutmeg, cloves, ginger, cinnamon, cardamom, coriander seed and aniseed.

Our Living Legacy Did you ever wonder what makes grandparents so special? Grandparents represent an especially unique combination of qualities. They possess insight and patience, born of many years of the trial and error of child rearing. They have learned what is important and what is not. . . the knowledge of which situations warrant genuine concern and which will be solved by time alone. Grandparents have learned the importance of a sense of humor. They can laugh at life as only those who have experienced it can. They have learned how to put life into perspective. Grandparents know how to listen and to guide their grandchildren gently and lovingly through the turmoil of youth. Grandparents represent tradition and stability in an unstable world. They are living proof that the challenges of life can be conquered after all. Grandparents represent love and warmth. They give us so much. This Grandparents Day let us give them our thanks and our appreciation for all the things they are, and let us remember Sunday them in our prayers as we worship this Luke week. GOD DIDN'T ASK FOR A HOUSE September 9, 1990

When I was a boy of 12, in those days just before the attack on Pearl Harbor, my uncle was in the U.S. Army stationed in Hawaii. One day about a month before Christmas, I saw in a depart-ment store window a box of individually-wrapped cheeses, crack-ers and so forth, made up especially to send to "our boys over-seas." I decided that I would have to find some way to earn enough money to buy that package and send it to my Uncle John. For days I hounded my parents for chores, a loan, anything. I was absolutely committed to that project. It never dawned on me to ask someone if my uncle really liked cheese or if that was what he needed most. It was my idea and I wasn't going to let anything stand in my way! One of the most consistent troubles God has with us is our tendency to become very zealous to do for God something he really doesn't want done. It would seem that we take up these projects for the best of reasons—like the Cru-sades, the Inquistions, the burning of "witches," and so forth. Presumably, this is for God's sake, but we often make the mistake of failing to ask him what he wants.

A GOOD IDEA? So it was with King David. Secure and happy in his elegant new house in Jerusalem, he feels perhaps a little guilty that, in com-

It must have come as a shock to Nathan when, that same night, he received a revelation in which God told him very plainly that he did not need or want a house— at least, not at that time. for saying no to David's building project. As a mere mortal, I can only guess at those reasons. For one thing, maybe God saw David's offer coming from a guilty conscience over the opulence of his own dwelling. Live coverage begins when the Seattle Seahawks and quarterback Dave Krieg take strike-shortened 1982 seaon the Chicago Bears. Krieg, the AFC starter in last January's Pro Bowl, threw for over 3,000 vards for the third time last season and is third to only San Francisco's Joe Montana and Miami's Dan Marino in touchdown passes over the last seven seasons. Seattle will fill the air with passes aimed Brian Blades, who earned a trip to the Pro Bowl last year with 77 receptions, second

The Bears, on the other hand, will rely on the running of Neal Anderson to lead them back to playoff contention after a disastrous 1989 season that saw them drop their last six games and finish with a losing record for the first time since the son. Anderson, who evokes memories of former Bear great Gale Sayers, rushed for 1,275 yards and scored 11 touchdowns. The second part of the doubleheader will include either Houston at Atlanta, San Diego at Dallas, Indianapolis at Buffalo, Denver at the Los Angeles Raiders, New York Jets at Cincinnati or Pittsburgh at Cleveland.

Sara Gilbert makes her film debut

for young actress

By Amy Schmidt "Darlene is easy to do," says 15-year-old Sara Gilrt of her character on the ABC series Roseanne, which returns this fall for its third season. Perhaps acting comes naturally for Sara, a third-generation offspring of a well-established show business family. Sara's maternal grandfather created and wrote the classic comedy series, The Honeymooners. He currently supervises a number of network shows. You probably came to know Sara's older sister Melissa as Laura Ingalls on Little House On The Prairie. Her older brother Jonathan also had a role on that series. Sara's mother is a successful Hollywood talent manager. With this kind of background, Sara was bound to give acting a shot. At age 6 she made her first commercial and soon thereafter she was cast for television in The Apple Dumpling Gang with Ed Begley Jr. and Arte Johnson. Her next role was in Calamity Jane starring Jane Alexander. stopped acting for a while and then returned to play in Runaway Ralph, an ABC Weekend Special.

Roseanne is Sara's first regular TV series, and although her career has really taken off, the series and 'Darlene" being such a hit, she denies she is the star of the family, "Melissa's doing a new film every other week," she says.

This week the spunky, matter-of-fact teen makes her own film debut in the sensitive portrayal of a young girl who enters into a taboo friendship with a black man in the 1940s. The Lifetime movie, Sudie And Simpson, premieres Tuesday, Sept. 11 and co-stars Gilbert and Academy Award winner Lou Gossett Jr. Producers Carroll Newman and director Joan Tewkesbury still had not cast the lead in Sudie And Simpson when they were watching an episode of Roseanne and much like that of southern saw Gilbert. Tewkesbury Texas rather than Georgia

Byron Co-Sponsors Health Legislation

A bill that will establish new programs for research on women's health matters within the Department of Health and Human Services and the National Institute of Health is being co-sponsored by Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD).

Byron said her support of the legislation is a result of a recent General Accounting Office study that found the NIH to under represent or completely exclude women as subjects in its research despite the fact the women comprise over half the U.S. population. The findings of the GAO study were corroborated by testimony from an NIH official before a House subcommittee earlier this year Byron

"The NIH is spending less than 14% of its budget on women's health research," Byron said. "This has to stop."

As an indication of the apparent bias against women in health research at the NIH, Byron cited examples from the GAO report that she says clearly demonstrates the need

Arson Statistics Are Released By Gabriele's Office

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the arson statistics for the first six months of calendar year 1990 for the State of Mary-

The statistical data was compiled by the Maryland Uniform Crime Reporting Program based on information from law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland. The data reveals that arson offenses increased slightly for the first six months of 1990 as compared with same period of 1989. From January through June of this year there were 1,347 reported arson offenses statewide, as compared with 1,308 such incidents during the first six months of 1989, which represents an increase of approximately three percent.

According to the Office of the State Fire Marshal, an agency of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, the Eastern Shore Region which includes the counties of Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester, experienced the largest increase in arson for the first six months of 1990 at 35% over 1989 figures. There were 101 arson offenses reported for the first half of this year, as compared with only 75 such incidents for the same period in 1989. The Western Maryland Region which includes the counties of Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and Washington showed a nine percent increase in arson with 101 offenses reported for the first half of 1990 as compared with 93

such incidents during the same period in 1989. #### Counties Receive Highway Safety Program Funding

Baltimore City and Maryland's counties have been awarded a total of $1 million in grants to develop local programs to combat drug and alcohol related highway accidents. The Maryland Transportation Trust Fund is contributing $500,000, which is being matched by an equal amount in federal funds.

Garrett County's allocation is $25,000. The local contact person is Jay Cross, of the Garrett Health Department, at 334-8116. More than 11,600 alcohol and drug related traffic accidents were reported in Maryland in 1989, the MDT said, and these accidents resulted in 325 deaths and more than 10,000 injuries.

Lecture On Love Slated At GCC

In a world where divorce is common, and where some people live together in "relanships" rather than marriage, one could wonder, as the song does, "Whatever happened to old-fashioned love?" and whether vows and devotion are still indispensable to love. Some answers to these and other questions will be heard on September 19, at 7:30 p.m. when Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, speaks on 'Love, Vows, and Devotion" in the GCC auditorium.

According to Dr. Herman, popular television shows and checkout counter tabloids have helped to modify one's understanding of love and how to win it. He sees an older romantic order "in which devotion and vows were once considered to be indispensable accompaniments of love relationships giving to a new order where they are in some circles considered to be superfluous. These changes are proceeding almost impercentibly without careful reflection on the beneficial or self-defeating effects they may have," he said. In his lecture, Dr. Herman will analyze devotion, vowing, and commitment, and offer some prudential counsel to would-be lovers. The lecture is open to the public, free.

chased a pair of shoes and had the sales clerk offer to "throw-in" free shoe polish? Have you ever received a call directly from your doctor the day after a visit, asking how you're feeling? Both are good examples of a concept called "valueadded" service - getting more than that for which you had bargained. When you are on the receiving end of the under-promise/overdeliver" value-added concept, you are likely to feel good about it! You perceive that you have received something special, and at no extra cost. Employ that concept when selling your home and you may be surprised by how quickly you find a willing buyer at your price

Before offering your home for sale, re-

DEEP CREEK REALTY search the local housing market to determine what incentives are being offered to buyers. A REAL-TOR* can provide valuable information about local home sales, offering suggestions for consideration.

Once you know what competing sellers are offering, make a list of possible extras for your home. Those might include: 1) moving date flexibility, 2) owner financing at an attractive rate, 3) reseeding of the lawn and mulching the flower beds, or 4) offering to pay additional closing costs or discount points on the buyers' mortgage loan. Some extras, like offering to vacate the home quickly, have no cost at all, yet offer valuable convenience to buyers. A swing set left in the backyard for a family with young children may even be the perfect move on your part. Offer to provide extras which appear to be over-and-above the norm. These may be perceived by buyers as powerful benefits. If you manage to offer several of these obvious extras, the buying decision may become even easier for prospects. Offer the widest variety of unique value-added benefits possible, then watch as buyers eagerly compete to purchase

"With over 30 Cub Scout Packs in the Potomac Council area, there's bound to be one near you, sponsored by either your local school, church, or civic organization," says Brad Burr, Council Executive.

Scouting professionals and adult leaders will be visiting more than 50 local elementary schools during the first weeks of school telling boys how they can become involved in Scouting. The boys will receive information telling parents about Cub Scout School Nights, where parents and boys can join a Cub Scout Pack. Once in a Pack, a boy is assigned to a den. depending on his age and grade

OFFICIAL SAMPLE BALLOT

BEFORE GOING INTO THE MACHINE ON ELECTION DAY

- Examine the Sample Ballot and decide which candidates you wish to vote for, and note where their names are located.
- Practice a few times on one of the Instruction Models found inside each voting room on Election Day, until you are sure that you know how to cast your ballot.

AFTER ENTERING THE MACHINE

- Turn down the Lever to the Right each Candidate's name for whom you wish to vote.
- 2. LEAVE THE LEVERS DOWN.

PRIMARY ELECTION, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1990

HOW TO VOTE ON A VOTING MACHINE

 Move the Red Handle from the Left to the Right as far as it will go, and LEAVE IT THERE. (This will close the curtain around you.)

TO CLOSE CURTAIN

Turn DOWN a POINTER OVER the name of each candidate you wish to vote for (for each office), as shown:

AND LEAVE IT DOWN

- 3. Continue in the same manner to the end of the ticket, taking care to turn down a Pointer for every candidate for every office that you wish to vote for, and LEAVE THE POINTER DOWN. You may change your vote as often as you like UNTIL you move the Red Handle to the Left. If there are questions on the ballot you wish to vote on, TURN DOWN THE POINTER that indicates your choice OVER each Question.
- 4. When you are finished voting, move the Red Handle back to the left as far us it will go and LEAVE IT THERE. This will register your vote. The Pointers will then return to the unvoted position before the Curtain opens.

A FEW WORDS OF EXPLANATION

No votes are registered until you move the Curtain Lever back to the Left to open the Curtain. You can therefore make as many changes in your ballot as you wish while the Curtain Lever is at the right (Curtain closed). Each candidate's voting Pointer is directly ABOVE his or her name.

The machine is so arranged that you CANNOT TURN DOWN MORE THAN THE PROPER NUMBER of Pointers for each office.

There is no danger of anyone knowing how you vote, as the movement of the Curtain Lever returns the Pointers to their unvoted position BEFORE the Curtain begins to open. LEAVE THE POINTERS DOWN.

This sample ballot shows the machine ballot for this Election. If you will read and remember these directions, you will cast your ballot easily and quickly.

WPA rules demanded FAP artists labor in central workshops under a timetable, much as in a factory. Skidmore said many artists rebelled against this system of "art by the clock" since they were accustomed to working odd hours and when inspiration moved them. "Graphic artists did not seen to object as much to this system as easel painters. In fact, for graphic artists, the workshop system seemed to foster high production and new techniques," he said.

The majority of WPA artists, including the graphic artists, worked in the major style prevalent in the decade of the 1930's American Scene painting or "regionalism," as seen in the work of the Midwestern regionalist style of Thomas Hart Benton, Grant Wood, and John Steuart Curry. American Scene painters employed local themes in a realistic style encompassing attitudes ranging from nostalgia for the past to recording the present passing

Included in American Scene painting was "social realism", a point of view rather than a specific style, Skidmore said Founded by the artists Raphael and Moses Soyer, Ben Shahn, William Gropper, and others, the social realists portrayed the ecomonically and racially dis advantaged.

West Virginia's Outstanding Tree Farmer Makes The Most Of His Fields And Forest

by Bernice Kepple

"To get the most from your woodlands, you must manage all of it." This is the philosophy of Bill and Elsie Slagle, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., that state's 1989 Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year and secondplace finalists in the 1990 Southern Regional Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year Contest out of the 36,000 tree farms in the south.

Bill is the third generation on his family's 80 acre farm near Bruceton Mills, which his ancestors purchased from the Indians more than 200 years ago. The Slagles also farm Elsie's home place - a 125-acre farm just across the state line in White Rock, Maryland. Although in different states, the two farms are not far apart (almost adjoining), making the intense management practiced by the Slagles possible.

The Slagles maintain a highly diversified and intensely managed tree farm. Like Bill's ancestors, they use all forest products to the fullest extent. and make it pay. Bill's primary objective is to intensely manage his woodlands so as to obtain a diversity of forest products. In doing so, he has developed a myriad of income opportunities, which have permitted his family to rely on the forest for a large percentage of their

On the Maryland farm, the Slagles have planted approximately 36,000 pine trees. "We don't utilize that place as much cut the hay on the farm and we've cleared away some of the rocks, but we would like to use more diversified management there, try to maximize its potential," she added.

In the woodland areas of the Slagle's West Virginia farm. Bill has established ginseng beds after heavily thinning the oak stands. Timber is harvested for commercial sawlogs, pulpwood and shiitake mushroom production. He chips tops, leaves, and limbs for mulch on his ginseng beds and in the walnut plantation. He prunes all potentially high quality hardwoods for future veneer production, in some cases climbing up 70 feet to prune. He cuts lumber from the farm, selected to improve the quality of the forest stand, for his own construction. He has donated lumber to school vo-ag classes and last year, gave away 36 cord of firewood to needy families.

As a teacher of construction and carpentry at the Preston Vo-Tech School at Bruceton Mills, Bill promotes the benefits of multiple-use forest management. He incorporates practical applications, using his forest as a demonstration and training area for his students, forestry students in vocational agriculture, and the general public.

The Slagles produce Christmas wreaths, conifer ropes, and floral arrangements, and sell moss gathered in the forest. Bill has also built and

Looking for ways to stay on the land, and making a profit from the wise use of the land; years ago the Slagles brought the first Limousine cattle into the area. They were the first in the area to perform embro transplants on beef cattle. They raised trout for awhile. "I'm always looking for something different - diversified," said Bill. "To me it's a hobby - a sport - and I can make some money if I've figured it right."

Also looking ahead to the future, the Slagles have planted a 10-acre black walnut plantation. "I'd like to see more walnut trees planted on farms." Bill said. "Barren areas, little sections on farms could be turned into walnut groves for the future." Planted primarily for timber production, Bill is also raising ginseng in the shade of his young walnuts. Some said the ginseng wouldn't grow like this," Bill said, "but we always found wild ginseng under walnut trees, and

The 10-acres of walnuts were grown in rows from nuts Rill says the genetics of the trees is important. "We picked nuts from the best trees we could find," he said, adding that friends who knew they were planting walnuts gave them bushels of the nuts. "We cracked and ate them, but wouldn't plant them, not knowing what quality of a walnut tree they came from," said Bill. The Slagles have tried planting

I think it will."

WEST VIRGINIA AND REGIONAL TREE FARMER — On their Walnut Meadows farm, the Slagles have planted 10 acres of walnut trees from nuts. These trees will be six years old next April. In their fifth year the trees are five inches in diameter, 25 feet tall and have already produced a crop of nuts. For their efforts, the Slagles were named West Virginia Outstanding Tree Farmer of the Year in 1989 and placed second in the 1990 Southern Regional Tree Farmer of the Year Contest out of walnut grove two years ago. Below, Bill holds the two plaques awarded him by the state and regional both seedlings and nuts. "The nuts work best if you can keep the squirrels away from them. they say Walnuts ideally like a deep river bottom soil, so Bill mounds the soil in the rows to be deeper. The nuts were planted 16 inches apart and surrounded with black plastic mulch. Walnut people say black plastic mulch is not the way to grow young trees, but we've proven that's not true," Bill said, explaining that there is a difinate difference between rows of trees where regular black plastic was used and is still on the ground five years later, and some smaller trees of the same age which were surrounded by a type of biodegradable black plastic which lasted less than a year in some of the

The trees are continually thinned to maintain a good stand, and in the end have 40 to 60 trees per acre which will also provide adequate shade for the ginseng plants. "I hope to have trees 20 inches in diameter in 30 years," said Bill. "I keep thinning them, but keep them close so they crowd and grow

An ideal timber stand would be 100 trees per acre, which would be worth $500,000 per acre in 60 years. Bill says that a tree 30 inches in diameter and 40 feet to the lowest limb is worth $10,000. The highestpriced walnut tree ever sold in this country was four feet in diameter and brought $35,350.

Slagles young trees will be six years old next April. In their fifth year, the trees are five inches in diameter 25-feet high and produced a crop of nuts Some of the young trees grew eight feet in the last year, and it's hard to keep them straight, Bill says. Wind and canker, a type of decay, are major problems for fast-growing

'The forestry people are kind of amazed by the growth of my trees from nuts," Bill says. Purdue University has a patient on grafted walnut trees that have grown up to 9/10 inch in diameter in a year. Bill's trees are growing one inch in a year.

"I give credit for the tremendous growth to the black plastic mulch, which keeps the ground warm, keeps the weeds from growing and keeps the moisture in," Bill said.

It takes constant effort to keep the trees from being damaged by all their other natural enemies. Deer do a tremendous amount of damage to young trees, both horn damage caused by rubbing the trees, and damage caused by browsing deer. One year, Bill tried a deer repellent spray on two acres of young trees. The repellent killed the main terminal, or central growth area, on every

Gypsy moths are another natural enemy that are causing extensive damage to the walnut trees, and by defoliating the trees they rob the ginseng plants underneath of necessary shade. This summer, Bill sprayed the walnut plantation five times with Roundup to protect his investment

Except for the gypsy moths. the threat from natural enemies lessens as the trees grow, and after 15 or 16 years, no maintenance is needed.

"Some people say I won't live long enough to harvest these for timber," Bill says, "but I think they're wrong. When I'm 135 years old they'll be ready, and if I eat enough ginseng, I think I might live that long.

PREPARING THE SEED — The ginseng plant produces clusters of bright red berries, each erry containing one, two or three seeds. These berries are picked and cleaned, covered with moist soil for a year, then planted individually to appear as a sprout the following year - a two-year process. Above, Bill Slagle and his daughter, April, clean the berries. April crushes the berries and rubs the pulp out through a screen, leaving the seeds. Bill then washes the seeds in clear water and drains them. Below, Bill's mother, Inez (Friend) Slagle, holds a pan of ginseng seeds. Inez helps pick berries and weed the ginseng beds (munching the ginseng berries as she works). Bill says his mother can out-pick and out-weed all of the high school students who come to work on the far site of the digging. The species is thus perpetuated in a habitat where it is already established. In the state of Maryland, 101 pounds of dried root was exported last year, bringing an average per pound of $180. A total of 53 percent of that was gathered in Garrett County and 37 percent in Allegany County.

According to a Maryland Department of Agriculture Ag Statistics spokesperson, ginsent once grew in all areas of Maryland. At one time, he said, a substancial patch of wild ginseng grew in Wheaton, just outside of the nation's capitol. "It's a housing development now," he said.

West Virginans harvested 13,451 pounds of wild ginseng last year and exported 14,432 pounds because of a hold-over from the year before. Also harvested was 27 pounds of cultivated ginseng. Ninety-five percent of the total was dried ginseng roots. In Preston County alone, 239 pounds of ginseng root was dug. The average value of the dried ginseng root in West Virginia was $225 per pound, making it a $3,260,476 industry in the state last year. "Ginseng is worth twice as much as silver," Bill shade for ginseng. The rocks are dug out and raised beds are made with trenches in between for drainage. Ginseng won't grow unless it's well drained.

In established woodlots, Bill thins and prunes the adult trees to produce the proper amount of

Each bright red ginseng berry contains one, two or three seeds. "We stratify the ginseng seeds for one year in the moist ground." Bill said "Then they are planted and come up the next year." These seeds are planted in permanent seed beds, and may be thinned and some transplanted, but the beds will never grow new seed again. The ginseng root is sold in three different classifications: cultivated, which takes four vears from planting to harvest and brings $60 to $80 per pound; woodsgrown, which takes five to six years from seed to harvest and brings $90 to $120 per pound; and wild or simulated wild, which is ready to harvest in 10 years and brings $250-330 per pound.

SHIITAKE MUSHROOMS ARE GROWN AND MARKETED on the Slagles' West Virginia farm. These "Black Forest Mushrooms" are in high demand in the cities, and Bill Slagle finds a good market for them in both Pittsburgh, Pa., and Morgantown, W.Va. Bill grows his own spawn, or mushroom seed, and sells inoculated logs as well as the finished mushrooms. Above, Bill uncovers a pile of inoculated logs which have been soaked and covered with plastic to hold in humidity. After the spawn spreads throughout the logs, they will be restacked (like the pile in the background) and will produce a flush of shiitake mushrooms every six to eight weeks for approximately three years if Photos by Craig Phillips

Located At

G.W. Plaza, Suite 6, Rt. 135 East, Mt. Lake Park

The Slagles have some 75 to 100-year-old ginseng plants on the farm. Rings on a ginseng root can determine the age of the plant just as the rings of a tree can determine its age. Bill will be selling some 10-year-old roots weighing five to seven ounces to a merchant from China this fall. Bill says studies show that people in other cultures put a high value on ginseng. The Chinese for instance will spend one-third of their income on ginseng for their families. People in the Soviet Union use ginseng when working under a lot of stress. whether it be in sports, heat stress or cold.

Bill raises two-acres of cultivated ginseng under shade cloth. The ground was worked up, raised beds established, and the ginseng crop planted before the locust posts, cables and shade cloth was erected. He expects a harvest in four years, "unless it is too wet." Bill said. "Ginseng can't take wet weather. Even wild ginseng dies in the woods if it's too wet.

Weeds are a problem in cultivated ginseng, and it's hard for the Slagles to find labor to pull weeds. Bill says he works 16-hour days, seven days a week, and other members of the family work on a regular basis. Outside help is limited to weekends when two or three students come to work on the farm.

Bill expects the ginseng crop to flourish, though, and says if he can "keep the weeds, thieves and varmints out, in 10 years I'll have a fine crop of cultivated ginseng." The other major enterprise on the Slagle farm is the production of shiitake mushrooms. Bill, who grew up eating the wild mushrooms his family harvested, was not surprised to find a large market for mushrooms in the Pittsburgh, Pa., and Morgantown, W.Va., areas. He makes his own shiitake mushroom spawn which is placed into pre-drilled holes in five-foot long oak logs and covered with nickel-sized Styrofoam plugs.

It takes six to 18 months for the spawn to spread over the og, depending on whether it is left to grow naturally or aided by human intervention. In the summer under natural conditions, it takes six months. Incubated in a heated barn it takes six months. After the spawn has spread throughout the logs, they are soaked in the creek. The logs are soaked for 24 hours, stacked in the shade and covered with plastic to promote humidity. After the first flush of mushrooms, Bill lets the logs dry down for six weeks then soaks them again and waits for another crop of mushrooms. The average production is 1/2 pound of mushrooms per log per flush, but it is not unusual for Bill to get six pounds of mushrooms per log and his daughterin-law once picked 11 pounds from one log in one flush. The logs last three years if worked hard, and six to seven years if mushrooms are only taken off three times a year.

The Slagles sell their shiitake mushrooms wholesale to a buyer in Pittsburgh for $5 per pound. Bill has been cultivating shiitake mushrooms for about four years now. He also grows spawn of many different kinds of wild mushrooms, experi-menting with them all. "I hope someday to grow some truffles," Bill said. "I've already produced some morels - they seem to be what a lot of people like. We're coming up with some new ways to produce

Bill says it's possible to harvest 150 pounds of mushrooms a week from 500 logs. The Slagles produced 3,500 pounds of shiitake mushrooms last summer, and are also beginning to sell production logs.

Mushrooms are unpredictable," Bill says. "I tell it and my wife tells it different, but they're a lot like a woman. You think you have everything figured out and you have real good success for a while then everything goes to pieces. You're ready to throw her and the logs both out, and well, she'll come with a big apple pie and the mushrooms start producing for you.

"Two years ago, I threw some logs away. Thought I'd never get a mushroom from them. I gave up. Threw them in the woods. When I was stacking ogs this year, I put them on the bottom so my good logs

Two New Herbicides

I think we have two new corn herbicides coming on the market next year that are going to surely benefit our corn producers. The two major new grass herbicides are DuPont's sulfonylurea, Accent, and Ciba Geigy's sulfonylurea, Beacon, the only corn herbicide in that family which Ciba Geigy expects to have on the market for several years. Both Beacon and Accent are arriving on the scene with a few problems. Neither should be applied to corn previously treated with the soil insecticide Counter. Accent should also not be applied to corn treated within seven days before with foliar-applied organophosphate insecticides or with the herbicides Basagran, Laddock or Tandem. Severe damage can occur. Accent and Beacon are labeled to control 4-10" shattercane, 8-12" rhizome and 4-10" seedling Johnsongrass, 2-4" quackgrass, giant yellow, bristly and green foxtails, fall panicum, barnyardgrass, broadleaf signalgrass, sandbur, and broadleaves such as ivyleaf, tall morningglory, smooth and redroot pigweed, annual smartweed and Jimsonweed. They should be applied with a non-ionic surfactant or crop oil concentrate - not with liquid nitrogen fertilizer solutions as total carriers.

County Girl Placed In State Farm Oueen Contest In 1951

"Everyone's knowledge" is not always complete. This was proven after an article in last week's Republican announced that Garrett County's 1990 Farm Queen Melissa Thomas had been named second runnerup in the Maryland State Farm Queen Contest.

To "everyone's knowledge," only twice before had a Garrett County Farm Queen placed in the state contest. In 1976 Valerie (Loughrie) Frazee was named first runner-up, and Sue (Hershberger) Crossland was named Maryland State Farm Queen in Information received this week shows that a third Garrett County Farm Queen had placed in the state contest. In 1951 Margaret (Brenneman) Hershberger, of Bittinger, was named third runner-up at Timonium in the Maryland Farm Queen Contest. The Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee is glad to receive the correction and the information will be added to their records.

Increasing Net Income Is Topic Of Dairy Agency Delegate Meeting

Over 100 dairy farmer directors and delegates heard three nationally known speakers outline how milk producers in Federal Order 36 must organize and negotiate with milk processors to increase the net income on the milk they produce and sell.

The Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) arranged a mid-day meeting which was held at the Ramada Inn, West Middlesex, Pa., on August 23. According to John Siglow, general manager of the Agency, the meeting accomplished its purpose of informing the directors and delegates what dairy farmers can do to increase their bottom line through pricing their milk. The Agency strongly advises dairy farmers to become involved in milk pricing in order to improve their net income. Siglow stresses that in the last three years, net returns to dairy farmers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania have been the lowest in the nation.

The three speakers updated dairy farmers on the predicted future of their industry and how they can have a positive effect on it. These speakers were Robert Yonkers, assistant professor of Agricultural Economics, Penn State University; Robert Jacobson, professor of Agricultural Economics, Ohio

State University, and David

Hunley of the Mid-East UDIA. Yonkers predicted that milk prices will drop in 1991 by $1.00 to $2.00 per cwt. He sees a budget reduction in the 1990 Farm Bill which will continue to reduce government involvement in milk pricing. Looking ahead to the year 2000, Yonkers sees that dairy farmers can use collective bargaining with milk processors in order to offset the price drops and to reduce instability in the milk price in

Jacobson echoed Yonkers' prediction of a drop in milk prices, but placed it around $1.40 in 1991. He pointed out that over-order premiums are not an unreasonable request on the part of the dairy farmers, and that proleessors are not opposed to over-order pricing if it is negotiated rather than forced upon them. He said the key to establishing a fair price is through a joint effort on the part of the vast majority of dairy farmers within Federal Order

Hunley presented a slide presentation explaining the current high profitability of dairy products at the retail level. He stressed the need for unity, organization and good management in order for dairy farmers to tap into the unrealized profitability of dairy products today and in the future.

Commenting on the meeting, Siglow said, "We are witnessing history being made here today. At least, dairy farmers, through their delegates and directors to the Agency, are being given a positive way to improve their livelihood and bring their net incomes up to levels that dairy farmers in other parts of the country are currently

Angered Shallmar Residents Appeal To Grand Jury

Shallmar residents have been frustrated lately in their attempt to bring charges against those responsible for the destruction of their town water system. It was in March of this year that state officials, without a court order, came into the community and dismantled the water system that has served the town for generations. The residents have filed charges against two state government officials, but so far the charges have gone nowhere.

Ronald R. Rowan, principal spokesperson for the people of Shallmar, says he is going to take his case to the Grand Jury after having no success so far in seeing his lawsuits, filed against members of the Maryland Department of the Environment, set in motion.

Rowan says that he was advised by Garrett County State's Attorney James Sherbin to file charges against the MDE officials who ordered the destruction rather than those who actually carried out the act of severing the water lines, as had been his original course of

"(Sherbin) said he would prosecute the moment charges were filed." Rowan said.

Rowan filed charges on August 6 against James L. Hearn, director, Water Management Administration. MDE, and Barry O'Brien, P.E., chief, Supply Facility Inspection Division, Water Supply Program, MDE, the two officially requested the Garrett County Sanitary Commission to dismantle the system. After over a month, Rowan says he has seen no action.

Repeated attempts to contact State's Attorney James Sherbin comment unsuccessful.

Rowan's original charges against the three Sanitary Commission men who dismantled the system, and their MDE supervisor, have been pending since April 2, shortly after the March 27 incident. The old system, which served fewer than 30 homes, was cut and broken in "at least 15 places," according to Rowan.

The reason for the state's dismantling of the system was the alleged presence of fecal coliform bacteria, which would make the water unsafe for consumption.

Rowan states, however, that water tests have been done several times, and are still continuing, and that the water has so far been found safe to

The town had been served by the old system for several decades until the mid-1980s when the Garrett County Commissioners received an

The Garrett County Planning Commission met last week with the Plan Evaluation Committee to exchange ideas and discuss recommendations for changes to the Deep Creek Lake Plan and Zoning Ordinance.

John Nelson, planning and zoning administrator, first summarized three main concepts put forth by the committee regarding a proposal that emphasizes more land-based recreational use around Deep Creek Lake.

Those concepts include the designation of a new zoning district that would allow for onlight, or non-intensive, industry; lowering the density of development on acreage around the lake; and attempting to transform the area into a "class

State, County Jobless Rates Rise In July

Slower job growth in seasonal summer employment pushed Maryland's estimated unemployment rate up from 3.9 percent in June to 4.5 percent in July, despite the increase in employment of more than 31,000 workers, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development

The July 1990 unemployment estimate for Maryland, while above last July's rate of 3.6 percent, is a full percentage point below the national rate of 5.5 percent.

The employment increase raised total employment in Maryland to 2,482,034. However, the increase in employ ment was offset by an additional 47,827 new and re-entering jobseekers joining the labor force over the month. As the result of the labor force increase and slower job growth, Maryland's jobless rolls increased by 16,800 people.

In manufacturing, vacation shutdowns reduced employment in apparel and textile products. Also, the closing of an appliance plant in Howard County cost an estimated 500 jobs. In the state, there was a small increase of 100 jobs in the construction industry. Employment for general building contractors was static.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the jobless rate rose from 4.3 percent in June to 5.0 percent in July. Howard

Flu, Pneumonia Vaccine Clinics Are Scheduled

Influenza and pneumonia vaccines will again be available through the Garrett County Health Department clinics in October and November

According to a Health Department spokesman, the influenza vaccine protects against three types of influenza viral infections of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Accompanying symptoms may include fever, cough, chills, and soreness in the back, arms, and legs. Most healthy people recover in a few days, however there are people who develop more serious complications The people at greatest risk of serious complications include the elderly and people with health problems such as lung disease, heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease, and frequent respiratory infections.

The pneumonia vaccine stimulates, resistance to the 23 most common types of pneumonia. Like the flu viruses, pneumonia can be life threatening, especially for people who are elderly or have chronic diseases. The spokesman emphasized that the pneumonia vaccine is given only once and should provide lifetime protection.

The flu vaccine will be offered at a cost of $3.00. The cost of pneumonia vaccinations is covered by Medicare and persons not covered by Medicare will be charged according to income with the maximum cost being $12.

Clinics will be held as follows: Oakland, October 4, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., October 5, 1 to 4 p.m., November 1, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and November 2, 1 to 4 p.m.; and Grantsville, October 18, 2 to 6 p.m.

FORGET-ME-NOT-MONTH has been proclaimed for the month of September by the Garrett ounty commissioners, who signed a proclamation this week for Mt. Each year the DAV gives away simulated forget-me-nots and collects donations which are used to benefit disabled and needy veterans to, according to the proclamation, "show, at least in a small way, that we truly still appreciate the tremendous sacrifices which these veterans had to make in the honorable name of liberty." #### Miss Maryland, Kim Grimm, Returns Home To Garrett County

by Gene Welk

"Glad to be going home" was the reaction of Kimberly Ann Grimm, Miss Maryland 1990, after the conclusion of this year's Miss America Pageant.

Miss Grimm, Garrett County's Miss America representative, has worked return to school in time for the tirelessly for the national competition since winning the state. itle in June.

She now hopes to take a week or two to rest and relax, as well as take some time off from her regimen. This included daily saturation of television newscasts and nightly singing and practice schedules.

As for the future, it's already too late to continue her studies at Frostburg State University - classes began two weeks ago - but Miss Grimm has plans to winter semester. She hopes to eventually receive her bachelor's and master's degrees in computer

Heather Hamilton Is Semifinalist. Merit Scholarship

The names of more than 15,000 Semifinalists including one from Garrett County, in the 1991 National Merit Scholarship Program are being announced today by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Heather B. Hamilton, a student at Southern High School, is included on the list.

These academically talented high school seniors represent about half of one percent of each state's graduating class. Semifinalists have an opportunity to continue in the competition for some 6,000 Merit Scholarships, worth approximately $25 million, to be awarded next spring. In addition, by announcing their names, National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) hopes to broaden the educational opportunities of these students and to increase public interest in academic excellence.

More than one million students in over 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1991 Merit Program as juniors by taking the 1989 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT), which served as an initial screen of the large volume of entrants. Those designated Semifinalists in each state are the top scorers who must now advance to the Finalist level of the competition in order to be considered for Merit Scholarships. To qualify as a Finalist, a Semifinalist must have an outstanding academic record, must be endorsed and recommended by the school principal, must confirm PSAT/NMSQT performance on the SAT, and must complete a detailed scholarship application that includes a selfdescription and information about scholastic accomplishments, school and community activities, and educational plans and goals.

About 90 percent of the Semifinalists are expected to become Finalists, and all Merit Scholarship winners will be chosen from the group of exceptionally able Finalists. Award recipients will be the candidates judged to have the greatest potential for success in rigorous college studies.

Three types of Merit Scholarships will be awarded in 1991, supported by some 600 sponsor organizations and institutions, and by NMSC's own funds. Every Finalist will be considered for one of 1,800 National Merit $2000 Scholarships that are allocated on a state representational basis

NMSC is a not-for-profit organization whose scholarship activities are funded by independent program sponsors. Merit Scholars in the class of 1991 will join some 121,500 other academic champions who have been awared Merit Scholarships worth $379 million between 1956 and 1990.

People who know about the Miss America Pageant know that those chosen for the production number are normally selected alphabetically. They very rarely got to the letter "M" for Miss Maryland. However, someone apparently noticed that Kim Grimm was a terrific dancer and the hometown fans happily got to see more of Kim than her opening introduction. Rumors of backbiting and camera-hogging always abound following a pageant, but Miss Grimm said, "Most of us got along so well together. We're even thinking of having a reunion in the future.

Miss Grimm's rigorous to the pageant kept her stamina up, but this week she said, "It's (fatigue) catching up with me. I need to rest a little.

Miss Maryland's parents echo their daughter's sentiments.

'The pageant was quite an extravaganza," stated Francis Grimm, Kim's father. "While in Atlantic City, Kim did an excellent job. We saw no errors, but not everybody can be Miss America. We know Kim did her very best"

"It's all a judgement call," he added, "and who knows, maybe eight different judges would have selected 10 different finalists.'

Miss Grimm's parents said she had gained a lot from her experience and agreed that she was in good spirits and full of self-satisfaction.

"The past 16 days have been intense and she's exhausted. but looking forward to her duties as Miss Maryland," said her father.

The Grimm family said they have also been made to feel like celebrities. "We're still getting calls. The support from the #### Election Reflection...

The 1990 primary election is history, but certainly will not go down in history as one of Garrett County's more exciting competitions. In fact, there were many Democrat voters who did not bother going to the polls because there were so few choices for them on the ballot.

The overall voter turnout in the county was in the neighborhood of 44 percent, which in and of itself is a less than desirable showing. This means, of course, that a minority of our voters are making these decisions for all of our citizens.

However, while voter apathy is a major problem, we do not believe that it can be targeted as the single reason for low voter turnout, especially this past Tuesday in Garrett County. We think that many of our voters believed that the selection of candidates was somewhere between slim and none, and for most of the races we tend to agree with them. In fact, for many offices there were no races at all because there were no opposing candidates. There will also be many unopposed candidates on November's general election ballot.

One can draw a number of conclusions, and some questions, from this situation. We know there are many extremely competent people in Garrett County who would be good county commissioners or good board of education members, for example, but they have no desire to become politicians and run for office. They also may not have the money it takes to fund a campaign. There has been plenty of griping lately about the board of education, yet only TWO candidates, other than the incumbents, have filed for the office. Once again, we knew it was a major mistake to change board of education positions from appointed to elected.

And what in the world are our central committees doing? Very little, it seems. Why are there no Republican candidates in commissioner district 2? Why are there no Democrat candidates in districts 1 and 3? Why are there so many other races for which there are no opposing candidates? It is our understanding that one of the basic functions of the central committees is to find candidates for these

We do not mean to imply that there are no competent people in the various races, or that all unopposed incumbents are not doing a good job. People like Joe DiSimone (register of wills) and Van Evans (sheriff) are doing a fine job. But if voters knew they had a good selection of candidates, more of them would show up at the polls and we would also have overall higher quality leadership from our elected officials

I have been so disgusted with some statements and ads of so many of our officials and those holding high office. I wonder how long Garrett County can sustain this rhetoric and survive, as I wonder about our USA surviving the terrific mess we are in. The pretense, the hypocrisy sickens me. No wonder there was no write up in the local newspapers of the two important meetings held at GCC on the 25 and 26 of August: I refer to the Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake and the League of Women Voters political forum. Both were sickening to me and no wonder there were more candidates than audience at the forum. What a sorry state we have come to in a forum when none other than strictly controlled canned rhetoric can be heard, acknowledged or recognized as being revelant by those in charge. What a waste of time and energy except for the new candidates at the forum who were outstanding by and large. The fresh ideas were so welcome but will they have a chance with what I perceive to be special interests dominating our life here as it does in Wash-

All the School Board candidates were like a breath of fresh air and I thoroughly enjoyed their honest responses ideas. Many of our new candidates for County Commissioners were impressing and realistic, but will the many candidates split the vote and defeat the new candidates? Somewhere some consensus has to be reached in the Republican and Democratic national and state committees and local level on candidates who are where they can be elected in spite of the special interest gro nate the USA and Garrett

When I learned the McHenry Condominium expansion was a result of an error in the zoning law too late discovered and remedied, I wonder how that could be when Tim Dugan was an excellent trained zoning director, and with the Deep Creek Advisory Board supposed to have been functioning and

Facts From The Mental Health Advisory Committee

EATING DISORDERS DISRUPT LIVES by Linda DeWitt

Eating disorders disrupt millions of lives. They are progres sive and potentially fatal causing major health problems which affect a person - physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Many who have a problem are of normal weight and may go undetected for years as they are very clever at concealing their abnormal eating patterns. Contrary to popular belief, will power alone cannot control this unhealthy obsession with food. Compulsive eating is not a "person" problem, it is a disease (much as diabetes) and must be treated as a disease. The first step to take is to seek help before it is entirely out of control and results in physical problems requiring hospitalization and long-term therapy.

If you have any of the following symptoms you should contact your local mental health care facility, physician or local support •Distorted body image (no matter how thin you are, you think you are fat).

•Major weight loss (20% or more)

·Great fear of obesity. Compulsive preoccupation with diets and handling of food.

*Extreme mood swings - from depressed to hyperactive. *Increasing loneliness, insecurity and social separateness

·Quickly eating large amounts of food in usually less than two

*Frequent weight changes (more than 10 pounds)

·A fear you cannot stop eating.

*Excessive feelings of guilt and regret following a bingeing

.You attempt to control your weight by fasting, vomiting, laxatives, diuretics, compulsive exercising, etc.

.Eating when you are not truly hungry but are feeling happy, unhappy, depressed, lonely, angry, helpless, etc.

How many people do we have on our county and state payroll supposedly receiving excellent salaries for which they are not educated or prepared to handle

We pay zoning, planning, attorneys, development adminis-trators, county commissioners, clerks administrator in GCC office plus endless executive secretaries at all levels, states attorney and all the court people, but who is really looking out for the best of Garrett County and its ordinary people? How could an adultress, prostitute, adopt an infant and still have her no one is still doing anything real about it after 10 years? Legal justice here? Social services awake? Brandy White? Others? No wonder I wonder we are now told the developers have folded up their tents and fled McHenry, but we have a real their tents and fled overbuilt glut on the market and still building and what a help us "now" here in this debacle. Where, Ernie Gregg, do you really stand in your responsibilities to the mentally ill and the monthly advisory board meetings. You never attend and it is your responsibility! Both Gregg and Groves said that Dr. Archer being here will solve the

Two representatives from Garrett County will be among the 202 delegates attending the Maryland Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services, September 23-25, in Dana Shimrock, Garrett Community College library director, and Sybilla Sharps, president of the Ruth Enlow Library Board of Trustees, will be the local participants.

Mrs. Sharps is a member of the Advisory Board of the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA), which meets quarterly to evaluate federal grants. In addition to her position on the Ruth Enlow Board of Trustees, she serves as liaison to the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library group.

Ms. Shimrock has been library director at GCC for one year, and is a member of the Maryland Library Association and the American Library Association. Conference participants will submit five resolutions vital to the future of Maryland libraries to Governor William D. Sch Their report will then be presented by Maryland's representatives at the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services, July 9-13, 1991.

The 202 delegates were selected from statewide nominations in four categories: citizens, such as library volunteers and friends; library and educational board members; federal, state and local government officials; and librarians from the public, academic, school, special, state institutional, federal, and military levels.

The main issue, as far as the two local delegates have deterined, is the lack of certified librarians in the public schools. Only the two high schools have certified media specialists; the middle schools have fulltime media assistants, and elementary schools use part-time media assistants.

Media assistants, while they do a very good job, are neither certified librarians nor teachers. In every Maryland county except Garrett, school systems start library instruction in the elementary schools Because of their more extensive training and experience, media specialists can provide more help to students in learning how to locate information in what Ms. Shimrock called "this information explosion we're having. According to Gary "Dusty" Stanton, library media resource teacher for this county, no school system in Maryland meets the state standards for libraries. He cites lack of state and local funding as the chief reason.

During a state evaluation four years ago, it was recommended that certified media specialists be hired for all school libraries, in addition to assistants. It was also recommended that funding be increased for all phases of the media centers - books, films, computer science, and so on. Another major recommendation was the hiring of a library supervisor. Garrett County has not met the above mandates

200 Issues So Far

Maryland schools spend an average of $10.72 per pupil for condary books, but the average price of a book is $35.35. Average library media center collections in the state are 33 percent below recommended guidelines.

Among the more than 200 issue statements already submitted for consideration at the conference, are charging for services, such as video cassette borrowing, online database searching, interlibrary loans of materials, reserving books, and user fees for outside groups.

This would help to defray the high costs of new technology used to access information for users. Libraries are also concerned about special needs groups, such as the mentally and physicalhandicapped, illiterate adults, inmates, and bilingual librarians and materials.

Some have proposed a "library lottery for literacy." The Governor's Conference is promoting, as its goal, expansion of the role of Maryland libraries as the central source of information for democracy, literacy, and economic development.

Citizens from the state can provide input by contacting either Mrs. Sharps or Ms. Shimrock before the conference or by contacting any branch of the Ruth Enlow Library or the Division of Library Development at 1-301-333-2117.

Delegates at the first Governor's Conference in 1978 passed 99 resolutions resulting in library improvements statewide.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

As I sit alone in the woods on this very still day, feeling quite distant from the rest of the world, I wonder why the wisdom has not accumulated as rapidly as the years. And why, for instance. the more aware I become of one or another societal, political, educational or environmental problem, the less able I am to accept the established reasons for their existence.

This vein of thinking was prompted, most recently, by the discovery that Ellis Island - that famous clearinghouse for immigrants that witnessed the greatest human migration in history from 1892-1924 - was recently renovated and, this week, has been opened as a museum.

As with any news event reported in any given week, it is never difficult to spot another recently unearthed report that lends to each an air of irony The other report of which I speak conveys the message that racial prejudice - racial tension - is, once again, resurfacing.

(If it was ever truly absent.) In either case, the proximity of those two news items leads to some rather unsettling conclusions. Is it just me or can America truly, sincerely celebrate or honor this famous site of mass immigration of "non-Americans" from mostly European countries and still allow private and public segregation from Afro-Americans?

It may seem as though this "unsettling conclusion" is also a bit too broad or sweeping but it should serve to illustrate that, as a people, we really are not 'acceptably accepting' of the integration of cultures - at least not in our own homeland Too easily, we seem to have forgotten what the "concept" of

Consider this. When you inhabit a region for a period of time, ou naturally begin seeing it as your region, your territory, your land. Which, of course, leads to the next natural occurrence of protecting your land, your territory, your "stake." And when strange people place their feet on that personal property, they are viewed with varying degrees of caution.

Nowhere is that phenomenon more evident than here in the intains. It's easy to understand and, inherently, not a bad behavior. Indeed, the practice is encouraged in many ways.

But that natural territorial practice, unfortunately, seems to lead logically to the detrimental and prejudicial attitude that attempts to keep blacks out of white clubs and whites out of black clubs. And often produces resentment when one or the other does occur, either by social pressure or legislative mandates.

And so it would seem that our American heritage, not to mention our anthropological roots, dictates a mode of behavior that is then shunned by civilization. Is it just me?

Or is the reverence to Ellis Island an empty gesture imposed by civilization, thus enabling us to reconcile our ill-treatment of

ing for your consideration petitions signed by more than 1,000 persons expressing their opposition to what seems to be the current plan for the con struction of the Glendale petition come from all walks of life in Garrett County. Many are full-time residents and registered voters; some and operate businesses and services that will be severely affected; more than a few h jobs that they are afraid of losing; others are property owners and part-time residents who perceive the damaging effect the current plan will have Regardless of their superficial differences, however, ninetyfive percent (95%) of these people who signed this petition have one trait in common: AS TAXPAYERS, THEY BE-LIEVE THAT THEIR LEGITI-MATE CONCERNS ARE BEING IGNORED, AND THAT THEIR TAXES ARE NOT MANAGED RESPONSIBLY.

I can count on less than one hand the people I have met who think the current plan is good from a standpoint of engineering or economics. Conversely, I have met scores of people who feel frustrated, angry, and even intimidated by the current state of affairs.

On behalf of all of the people who signed this petition, I hope and ask that you will LISTEN to what is being said and will meet with concerned citizens to discuss and resolve these issues. We do not, and will not, agree on every point, but we all want what is best for Garrett County and what is best for Garrett County does not lie in what seems to be the current plan for construction on the Glendale Bridge.

Sincerely.

Storytellers will travel from as far away as New England and New Jersey, as well as from distant points of Maryland, to attend and perform at the festival. Although many stories, too numerous to mention, will be told throughout the weekend, the following is a sampling.

Storyteller Annie Lynn Sloan from Marlton, N.J., will perform during the day event. She specializes in Stories for Tots in Nursery School, women in folktales, and Jane Yolan stories. She has performed for the Philadelphia Folk Fest and Patchwork Storyfest.

Actress, nature lover, and storyteller Diane Edgecomb from Hyde Park, Mass., will perform "The Voice of the Dar" gripping legend from deep in the rain forest, and "What Now Cloacina?," the hilarious original adventure story of a water sprite caught in a sewage system. Edgecomb developed a nature program called Wilderwalks Storytelling. Her goal is to "reconnect people to the wilderness so that they will desire to walk and look at the natural world anew." She says she loves seasonal stories, environmental tales, and stories about loons. She has performed for the Boston Planetarium, the Maine Annual Loon Festival, and the Massachusetts Audubon Society. Katie Holwager, a teacher of French and Spanish in Allegany County, uses folk stories in her high school classes to introduce students to aspects of the cultures. She will share (during the day event) and African folktale about "why we must now work for our food instead of being able to pick it from the sky!" Holwager has studied drama in addition to languages at the United States International University in California and she has traveled widely in French-Spanish-speaking countries.

Musician and storytellers John Porcino from South Amherst, Mass., will use his Brazilian rain stick to tell the story about "The Loudest Noise in the World." In one of the evening performances, he will tell his own personal story about growing up with people of different cultures. Porcino has performed for the Appalachian Mountain Club in New Hampshire, the National American Camping Association, Wichita Elementary Schools, Kan., and for Chapter I and Reading conferences. Regina Wade from Baltimore will entertain during the day event with "Why the Tides Ebb and Flow" and "Cloudy with the Chance of Meat Balls," a comic story about weather that gets out of control. Wade has performed for schools, summer camps, hospitals, colleges, and churches. She "fills her wonderbasket" with yarns and bits of wit from folk literature, fairy tales, and modern stories Michael Punzak, fiddler, teacher, global educator, and storyteller, will entertain throughout the weekend with his tunes and tales from around the world, Punzak said, "In the world's folktales reside the ageless truths that keep humanity alive and kicking and, most importantly, laughing at itself." Punzak holds a degree from Harvard Divinity School and has performed often for the popular New England REVELS directed by author and musician, Jack Langstaff.

Dr. Herman, of Swanton, will also perform stories from around the world, including tales from Taiwan, Japan, and Africa. Herman uses percussion instruments from around the world to augment her stories with sound and visual effects. In one story from Taiwan, the Japanese Kokiriko becomes two baby dragons. Herman performs and consults for school districts throughout the United States. This year she worked in 10 states and West Germany. She taught storytelling last summer for Frostburg State University and will teach storytelling this fall for Garrett Community College. Her book Storytelling: A Triad in the Arts is published by Creative Learning Press.

At the daytime event at Friendsville School Amphitheater, audience members will visit a recycling table prepared by the League of Women Voters and Brock's Scrap and Salvage. Audience members are encouraged to bring aluminum and steel cans (ues a magnet to separate them) and any glass bottles. The money earned from the sale of these recyclables to Brock's Scrap and Salvage will then be donated to the Garrett Community College Scholarship Fund, sponsored by the Garrett County Branch of the American Association of University Women, who are sponsoring the Festival along with the College Library. Audience members will also be able to buy snacks and drinks provided by Wihinape store of Friendsville and books provided by local bookstores. The festival is made possible through funding from the First United National Bank & Trust, Dr. Barry Conger, The Friendsville Town and Community Women, The Friendsville Mayor and Town Council, and Pat Wells. There is an admission charge for each evening and for the day event ($3 adults, $2 children).

The Stories for Environmental and Global Awareness Conference for adults which is also being held at Friendsville School on Sept. 22 (9:30-4:30) is free. It is funded in part by the Maryland Humanities Council with a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and by Westvaco Corporation. Other funders include Bausch & Lomb, and the Garrett County Arts Council. Sponsors for both projects include the American Association of University Women of Garrett County and the Garrett Community College life lasting 200 years, 1790-1990, named "Sussan's Church." the congregation of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church will be holding a three-day celebration at their church in Red House. The event will begin on Friday, Sept. 14 and continue until Sunday, Sept. 16.

The organized congregation of St. Luke's Lutheran Church began in 1790, when some of the first Christian settlers were 'given a sermon book and the rest was up to them," according to the written history of the church.

John Stauch was among these first settlers in Salem, what is now known as Aurora, W.Va. He was joined by six other families in 1790, and was chosen to be lay-reader to conduct the worship and prayer in the group. Stauch's services were demanded by other colonies nearby which included the present day Sunnyside area. The congregation held their weekly services in various buildings throughout the years, beginning in a building called Reinhart's Tavern, which also served as a dance hall and an inn. The first Lutheran ministers came to this tavern, sent from Cumberland.

To commemorate a church Glades. The building was reportedly as a tribute to Mrs. Reinhart, whose maiden name was Susannah Wiles. The present building site was secured in 1860, and a building known as the "Plank Church" was erected. This structure served the congregation until 1907, when it was torn down to begin construction on the present facility.

The cornerstone for the present-day St. John's Church was laid on July 7, 1907. Almost one year later, on June 14, 1908, the new church was dedicated. To mark this point in time, a committee of St. John parishioners has organized the weekend celebration.

The event will begin with a 'Musical Evening," on Friday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m. Selections by parish choirs, the youth choir, and various soloists will be presented. A Rededication Service will be held on Saturday, Sept. 15, at which time Pastor Richard Rutkauskas will lead the congregation in the dedication of a commemorative plaque. Pictured on the plaque is a sketch of the first log church and the inscription, "Founded In the 1820's, a log structure two miles north of this location

TAP Project To Be Topic Of Public Meeting

The Governor's Office for Handicapped Individuals, Technology Assistance Program, invites any interested parties to a public meeting taking place Friday, September 21, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The meeting, which will be held in room CE 306, will focus on how the Technology Assistance Program (TAP) can work with local agencies, school systems, organizations or individuals to improve the quality of life for persons with disabilities. The goal of the TAP project is to implement and coordinate a comprehensive statewide system for the delivery of technology-related assistance to disabled persons, according to director Jay Brill. The project is a response to a grant awarded by the U.S. Department of Education, Brill stated that Maryland was one of only nine states to initially be awarded such a grant. "This is a credit to the outstanding level of service already being provided to thousands of Marylanders with disabilities."

he said. Quality of life issues addressed will range from those of a newborn with a congenital disability to a senior citizen who be experiencing difficulties due simply to advancing age. Technologies can be as complex as a computer generated speech synthesizer or as simple as a rubber door knob extension.

Available to assist in the purchase of assistive technologies, or in the location of funds to make such purchases, TAP project staff will expand the capacity of existing agencies and resources. "This project is intended to enhance those mechanisms already in place,' stated Brill.

Services such multidisciplinary evaluation, device procurement and modification, training and follow-up will be proivided by the project in cases where services from other resources are unavailable or inadequate.

In order to provide optimum ervice to every region of Maryland, Regional Technology Specialists are based in Western Maryland, on the Eastern Shore and one will soon be based in Southern Maryland. Regional Specialists serve as liaisons to local service providers, school systems, organizations having interest in individuals with disabilities, and local residents who can benefit from technology-related ssistance Fike scored his second touchdown of the evening and the final points of the game when he picked up a Cavalier fumble on the Central Preston 45-yard line and carried it into the end zone. Fike also finished with five receptions.

The Northern defense forced seven Central Preston fumbles. three of which were recovered by the Huskies. Northern mishandled the ball four times, but lost it only once. The Huskies finished with total offense of 218 yards, while Central recorded 130.

Rams Open 1990 Campaign With Easy Win Over Indians

y the offensive backfield and a efense that showed conderably more quickness than recent years highlighted a 13-0 opening season win by the Southern High School Rams over Berkeley Springs Friday evening in Oakland.

Junior tailback Richie DeWitt rushed for 123 yards on 14 carries, a touchdown, and a twopoint conversion, while ophomore tailback Jeremy Bosley recorded two sixpointers and 102 yards on 21 carries. He also scored a third touchdown on the return of one of two passes that he intercepted from his defensive econdary position.

Fullbacks Shawn Ryan and Jason Rinker also picked up key ardage, as did sophomore quarterback C.J. Getson, who had his first start for the varsity Rams at that position. Getson scored one touchdown and a two-point conversion.

Meanwhile, the Southern defense frustrated the Indians all evening, yielding only 67 vards on the ground and 22 through the air. Berkeley quarterback Matt Clem completed only four of 22 passes and had four of them picked off

The Rams' first score of the game came at the 5:41 mark of the first quarter when Bosley intercepted one of Clem's aerials and returned it 24 yards to the end zone. The run for the conversion failed.

Southern made it 14-0 on the first play of the second quarter when Bosley scored on a sevenyard run and DeWitt ran in for the two-pointer

The Rams extended their lead 22-0 with 10:16 remaining in the third period when DeWitt ran 28 yards for a touchdown and Getson added the two-point

'One of the good things we noticed, that was lacking last year, was our quickness," he continued. "We thought our tandem of running backs played very well, as did C.J. in his first start at quarterback. Central Preston is currently 0-3, with their latest defeat coming at the hands of the Northern Huskies just last Friday night (see separate story).

Before the season began, we thought Central Preston would be fairly strong because they returned a lot of starters," Woods said. "But they have been making a lot of mental and fundamental mistakes."

Among their better players is senior tight end Jason Elliott (6-2, 225), who is described by Woods as "one of the best tight ends we'll see all season.'

Other offensive leaders are tailback K.D. Childers (6-2, 178) and tackle Travis Jennings (6-0, 240). Regular starting quarterback Bobby Whetsell, a 197-pound senior, has been sidelined with an injury and junior Scott Argabrite (6-3, 160) has taken his place.

To the Editor: While serving as Press Secretary to President Reagan, man named John Hinckley shot me during his failed attempt to assassinate the President Hinckley easily purchased his concealable Saturday Night Special at a Dallas pawnshop. In Texas, as in more than half of the states in America, there is "cooling-off" period to give police the chance to run a background check on the buyer. Each day I live with the conse quences of that easy gun sale.

The U.S. House of Representatives is set for a showdown on several important gun control bills this fall. The one I'm watching with the most interest is supported by 91 percent of the American people, every major police organization in the nation, and is vital if America hopes to reduce its ever-escalating level of handgun

This legislation is known as The Brady Bill' (H.R. 467) and would require a national, seven-day "cooling-off" period before the purchase of a handgun. During those seven days, local law enforcement officials would have the opportunity to run criminal record checks of handgun purchasers. This cooling-off period would prevent the John Hinckleys of the world from easily buying handguns over-the-counter.

Last year, 9,536 Americans were murdered with handguns. And according to a Justice Department study, 639,000 violent crimes a year are committed by criminals armed with handguns. No American is safe from the threat of handgun

We fell a few votes short of passing the Brady Bill last time, but each Member of Congress will have the chance to vote on this key bill within the next several weeks. My wife, Sarah, and I are asking all Americans to help pass this public safety bill by writing their Representatives urging a vote for the Brady Bill. Because seven days can save a life.

Sincerely James S. Brady

The Carroll County Times Deep in the African country of Togo, a new Peace Corps volunteer puzzled over the sick chickens a native man brought to her.

She knew natives occasionally gave chickens as gifts, but sick chickens.

knew exactly what to do with sick chickens - or goats or sheep — while he was there as a Peace Corps volunteer. The natives missed Dr. Glotfelty, who was killed in Togo by swarming bees in March, 1988. The 27-year-old veterinarian from Accident, Md., planned to serve in Togo, a narrow country west of Nigeria, for two years. He had only been there nine months when, en route to a village market, he fell victim to the deadly bee attack. Dr. Glotfelty had already endeared himself to many natives. They appreciated how he healed their animals, helped with farm projects and lived among them as a friend, says his aunt, Helen Englar, of Westminster At the Peace Corps' invitation. Mrs. Englar and her sister, Betty Hummel, of Olympia, Wash., journeyed to Togo recently. These aunts of Dr. Glotfelty attended the dedication of a community well built in their nephew's memory. Dr. Glotfelty's family and friends financed construction of the well through memorial donations channeled to the Peace Corps Foundation. They felt Dr. Glotfelty would be pleased that a desperatelyneeded well was being provided near Mandouri, the village where he last lived and worked. "Water is at a premium there," Mrs. Englar explains. An existing well in that area often ran dry, leaving residents to depend on a single waterhole where murky water was used for drinking, washing clothes, and bathing, as well as by animals. The new concrete well, built by Peace Corps workers and natives, includes a run-off trough for the animals. The villagers now have hope there'll be water year 'round. Getting a new well was cause for great celebration in Mandouri, as Mrs. Englar and Mrs. Hummel discovered upon their arrival there June 23.

To reach Mandouri, located in northeastern Togo, the sisters flew to Lome, the country's capital on the southern coast, and then travelled several days by car - over some rough road-Mandouri's suis-prefet, a local government official.

roof instead of more commonlyused thatching.

The hut was now home to Debra Reich, that young Peace Corps worker so perplexed by sick chickens. Many natives came to visit the women at the Peace Corps hut, eager to share their remembrances of Dr. Glotfelty. One young man was proud that he had given the veterinarian a bird caught in the forest. A local midwife came to apologize for missing the well dedication, explaining that she had delivered four babies that

As Mrs. Englar went to sleep that night, she could hear the sounds of drums beating in the distance. "It was like an old movie . . . I really felt like I was in Africa.

Before leaving Mandouri for the return trip to Lome, and a Villagers warmly welcomed flight home, Mrs. Englar distributed gifts to Togolaise children: She brought balloons, Maryland coloring books, crayons, and pencils.

She also distributed T-shirts The natives proceeded with a designed by Dr. Glotfelty's curious ceremony, mixing tobrothers and sisters. The T-shirts were given to Peace Corps workers, local officials and native residents, Mrs. Englar says. Mrs. Englar also left with Ms.

When those Togolaise students return to school in September, they'll be surprised to find that youngsters from another school, far away, had sent them 11 storybooks.

The French-language books were bought by third-graders, and some second graders, from Winfield Elementary School who saved money for the project in May.

The Winfield students also wrote letters to the Togolaise students, telling them about next to them to translate the schools, industry and having French and native languages fun in Carroll County. They even wrote about the latest in 'In between each speech computers.

there were animations, which The Winfield students learned were dances," Mrs. Englar about the Togo trek from Pat Minnich, a teacher of the gifted and talented who is also a friend of Mrs. Englar.

Although Mrs. Englar was disappointed she couldn't peronally deliver the Winfield gifts to the Togolaise children, she's sure they'll be thrilled.

Mrs. Englar says "everybody we met in the whole country was so friendly and open and easy to talk to."

They are hard-working people, too. Throughout Togo, the natives use primitive tools and oxen-drawn plows to raise manioc, sweet potatoes, peanuts, corn, sorghum and millet, she notes.

Women would carry a heavy load of wood or tub of water on the top of their head while carrying a baby on their backs. Mrs. Englar says she even saw a little boy, maybe 7 or 8. "just trotting up the road" with a bundle of wood "taller and bigger than he was" on the top of head.

Mrs. Englar was also impressed with the country's interesting array of animals. Stopping at game reserves along the road leading north out of Lome, she saw gazelles, baboons, gorillas, and wart hogs. In one game reserve, she even had a chance encounter with Togo's farnous renegade elephant. "We saw this big. huge bull elephant. We kept going and he kept coming."

The massive creature stopped suddenly just in front of the car carrying Mrs. Englar, her sister and their driver. "He turned and posed and then started tearing up a tree," she

She later found out that the elephant is known for attacking cars.

'This trip was the adventure of a lifetime," Mrs. Englar

She said it was worth every penny she spent, to experience for herself the place her nephew cherished, the place where he

"He wanted to travel and he wanted to serve," Mrs. Englar says of Dr. Glotfelty. "He wrote at one point that he felt so puny; there was so much to be done. "But he had a good time in Togo," she continues. "He made a lot of friends." Thanks to his American friends and family Dr. Scott Glotfelty's friends in Togo now have a new well to go along with their memories of his stay among them.

Pears are classified into two groups —  $\operatorname{dessert}$  or cooking. Dessert pears have a wonderfully sweet flavor and are excellent served fresh. Cooking pears, such as Anjou and Bosc, hold their shape well during baking and cooking. Unlike apples, pears are best picked from the tree just before they ripen. The tree-ripened pears develop a coarser texture than those allowed to ripen at room temperature after picking. In fact, pears to be used in baked or cooked desserts are best when firm.

Background Scripture: 2 Samuel 11:1 through 12:25. Devotional Reading: Psalms 51:1-15.

What is harder than "facing

wrenching than acknowledging that we have greviously sinned? What is more difficult for the human mind than to accept the consequences of our own choices?

In fact, it is so difficult for many of us that the only way our

to be tricked or finessed into it

Faced with an accusation of wrongdoing, our minds become mira-creative than when trying to ra-

had sinned greviously: coveting

another man's wife, committing adultery with her, and then plot-ting to have the husband killed to cover up Bathsheba's pregnancy. But he also realized that if he confronted David, the clever king would not admit that he had sinned. Perhaps he anticipated that David would become extremely angry and even do violence

When we are cornered with our sins, we very often respond by projecting our anger with our

HOROSCOPE

September 16 through September 22

By C.C. Clark
VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Uncertainty seems to be the word for you this week. A minor mistake in your world of perfect order could send you out on a tangent. Pay close attention to your feelings.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22) It is time for you to take a much needed vacation. If it's not possible to get away just now, perhaps simply some extra sleep would provide the needed rest.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21) Take more time than usual to organize your thoughts and feelings this week. You will be faced with a difficult challenge. Be sure to look before you leap.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21) Reading will help to solve a problem that weighs heavily on your mind. The answers won't come easy, but they are definitely there. Watch your money closely.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19) Don't get bogged down with the petty details of life this week. Let go and live a little. Take some time to just enjoy life and AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18) You need to let go of that negativity; you are hurting not only yourself, but those around you also. If married, your mate comes through when it really matters.

Let off that steam with some exercise. You'll feel better and it is possible you will be an inspiration to those around you.

Friends will surprise you this week.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) Whatever you do, don't take your frustrations out on your romantic partner. Instead give them credit for understanding your moodiness and just appreciate that they are there. TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

That change in your work environment is near, but don't push things. Be careful not to push your ideas too strongly this week; it could backfire on you.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) You need to look out for what is yours and let others worry about their own business. It is tempting to stick your nose where it doesn't belong, but don't do it.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) Romance is definitely on the way for you. Be sure not to rush into anything you may regret later. Watch your money wisely and set up that savings account.

LEO (July 23 - August 22) You will feel great happiness and worthiness toward life. Others will appreciate your enthusiasm and zest for life and it will even make their lives a little happier.

State Fairgoers Find $326,611 In

Unclaimed Funds Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said efforts to locate unclaimed funds for visitors to the State Fair in Timorium this year were highly successful. "Out of the 13,936 fairgoers who stopped by the Comptroller's Office booth, 1876 or about one in seven — found unclaimed bank accounts, insurance benefits, refund checks and other money worth $326,611.16," Goldstein said. 'That was beyond our expectations.'

Comptroller's Office personnel manned four computer terminals at the State Fair August 25-September 3, in a first-of-its-kind effort in Maryland to locate the rightful owners of about $50 million in unclaimed funds on the comptroller's records.

The largest amount identified for a single individual was $13,510, and the average amount found for visitors to the booth was $174," Goldstein said. Included in the money located for fairgoers were also state income tax refund checks total-

While the largest number of visitors to the booth during the 10-day fair came on September 1, the largest amount of money located on a single day was on August 30 when we found $50,612 for visitors to the booth. We located money for individuals from as far away as New York, and from all over Maryland," Goldstein said.

Even though some fairgoers were skeptical in the beginning, as the days progressed several people started coming to the booth saying, "This is the one place we were looking for."

Visitors to the unclaimed property booth, who found money or other funds, walked away astonished and praised the services provided by the comptroller. A teenage boy and his sister were surprised when they found out about $200 in their deceased father's name.

In recent weeks, the comptroller has also expanded the computer capability at branch offices located throughout Maryland. "Our branch offices are reporting that hundreds of citizens throughout Maryland have checked our unclaimed property files with a telephone call to a local office, or stopped by one of our local offices instead of having to contact us in Baltimore," Goldstein said. People can visit or call our branch offices on any working day and check for free if they are the owners of any unclaimed funds," he said. "Telephone numbers are listed in local teledirectories,' added

Financial institutions, insurance companies and corporations are required to report bank accounts, contents of safe deposit boxes, wages, insurance benefits, security deposits, stock dividends and other funds to the State Comptroller's Office if they remain unclaimed for five years or more.

Once money is reported to the state as unclaimed, the Comptroller's Office attempts to locate rightful owners by mail and through advertisements in local newspapers. Additional outreach efforts, such as the State Fair booth, are also used to locate rightful owners. If the money remains unclaimed, it is turned over to the state.

'However, Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no time limit under which the property or its monetary equivalent may be claimed," Goldstein said. "You or your legitimate heirs may claim the funds at any time."

Garrett County citizens may call 334-8880 to find out if the comptroller has records of any unclaimed funds in their name.

Proposed For Area

A master's degree in nursing outreach program to begin in the fall of 1991 is being proposed for the Frostburg/Cumberland area by the University of Maryland at Baltimore School (UMAB) of Nursing.

The program's majors would include a nurse practioner track. According to Dr. Helen Kohler, director of nursing outreach programs at UMAB, she will pursue funding for a 1991 Western Maryland program if there is enough interest among local nurses with BSN degrees Outreach classes would be scheduled in Cumberland/Frostburg area. The ability to obtain funding is linked with the amount of enthusiasm generated by area nurses with BSN degrees.

Byron Seeking Free Mailing For U.S. Troops

In the four days since her return from Saudi Arabia as part of a 22-member Congressional leadership delegation observing Operation Desert Shield, Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) has crafted and introduced legislation that she says will give U.S. troops stationed in the Persian Gulf free mailing privileges for 90 days.

Byron said that because of the enormous scale of the airlift to the Persian Gulf area, military post offices had yet to be set up so that even if troops had the money to pay for stamps they would be unable to find them.

"It's very important for our troops in the Gulf to be able to share their experiences and observations with their families back home. Remember that this was a quick deployment. Many of our men and women never got to say goodbye to their family members. The infrastructure is coming together in Saudi Arabia, but until post offices are established I want these men and women to be able to communicate with the people they left behind," Byron said.

The bill, which is expected to see quick action on the House floor, will permit any member of the Armed Forces stationed in Saudi Arabia or any other country in the Persian Gulf region as part of the Desert Shield operation to send mail without charge for 90 days or until an Armed forces post office is set up.

"The troops are living under extremely difficult conditions over there, but the morale is very good. Being able to stay in touch with their families goes a long way in helping to maintain that," Mrs. Byron said.

Clippings from the Headlines Two studies of a total of more than 130 convicted rapists and child molesters have found that most used pornography while preparing to commit an offense. Pornography finds more victims.

In LaRue County, Kentucky, 40-year-old Phillip Clopton, a repeat rapist, sex offender and avid pornography fan, was recently shot to death by a 15-year-old girl he had tied to a tree for three weeks and repeatedly raped and performed unnatural acts on. The girl managed to free herself and shot him with his gun.

Sex crimes decrease as porn outlets close.

Does pornography cause sex crimes? In 1984, there at least 163 sex-related businesses in Oklahoma City. Forty-two were prostitution rings listed as escort services in the Yellow Pages. Since efforts to close down pornography outlets and prostitution rings in Oklahoma City began in 1984, over 150 sex-related businesses have been shut down and prostitution has declined sharply. According to the FBI's 1989 Uniform Crime Report, rape was down in Oklahoma County 26%. In the rest of the state, where no similar effort has been made, the rate increased 20.8%. Murder soars in South Africa since TV came.

Additional disturbing evidence has been produced by a University of Washington behavioral scientist and medical doctor who said last year that TV is responsible for half of North America's murders and rapes.

According to Dr. Brandon Centerwall's conclusion, TV also has more than doubled the homicide rates in South Africa, adding to its other problems.

Centerwall reported his new figures in an address to the annual conference of the American Psychiatric Associa-tion. Network executives at the conference disputed the validity of his study. Let us boycott the pornography sellers.

START A "HOME RATING GUIDE"!

If you plan to purchase a home soon, how will you make your choice? Will you want to see every home currently for sale? With so many choices, how will you recognize that one very special home? Begin by deciding on some basic requirements, i.e. general location, price range, acceptable styles. Then, focus your search only on homes which meet those basic criteria. Before inspecting individual homes, create your own personal onepage "Home Rating Guide". This simple device allows you to make notes about each home you see, rating features and amenities offered by the home. At the end of the day, if you have inspected seven homes, you will

Trust Seeking Applicants For CLG Program

The Maryland Historical Trust, an agency of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, is seeking applications from qualified local governments that wish to participate in the State's Certified Local Government (CLG) Program.

Under provisions of the National Historic Preservation Amendments Act of 1980, Congress expanded the successful federal-state preservaton partnership to include participation by counties and incorporated towns. "Certified Local Governments" are responsible for the review and evaluation of properties from within their respective jurisdictions nominated for listing in the National Register of Historic Places, and are eligible to apply to the State Historic Preservation Office for matching funds earmarked for Certified Local Governments.

In order to become certified, a local government must have enacted an historic preservation ordinance and appointed an adequate and qualified historic district/preservation commission, among other requirements.

Approved Certified Local governments are eligible to apply for a share of matching federal Survey and Planning grant-in-aid funds, made available through the Maryland Historical Trust. The Trust must make available to these governments at least 10% of its federal allocation for FY 1991, estimated to be approximately Certified Local Government status is required before local governments may apply for FY 1991 CLG-share matching funds. To date, eleven Maryland jurisdictions, the City of Annapolis, Baltimore County, the Town of Bel Air, Calvert County, the Town of Chestertown, the City of Frederick, the City of Hagerstown, Montgomery County, Prince George's County, the City of Rockville, and Talbot County, have been approved and are participating in this program.

Although all qualified project proposals will be considered, Certified Local Governments are encouraged to tailor proposals to help achieve the following FY 1991 state priorities for preservation projects: ·Preparation of a local government version of the state preservation plan, including the generation of goals and objectives for actions to be taken for the development of folklife/oral histories, the preparation of "historic contexts", and the survey, registration, and protection/treatment of historic and archaeological resources;

·Production of multiple property National Register nominations for historic resources (i.e., historic district, thematic groupings, and a combination of archaeological and architectural resources for a given geographic area); and public about the value of historic preservation.

Criteria used to evaluate and rank each application include compatibility with broad goals of The Maryland Comprehensive Historic Preservation Plan (1986) and a variety of other factors including historical significance of the resource involved, equitable statewide geographic distribution of funding, administrative capability of the project sponsor, and information, education, demonstration and innovation value of the project. Applications for funding are due no later than November 1, obtain a copy of the Maryland CLG procedures or an application for FY 1991 matching funds, persons may contact Michael K. Day, 21401 or call 974-3642.

Farm Bureau Board Determines Priority Issues Of Farm Bill

The 1990 farm bill should reaffirm current market oriented policies by providing market clearing loan rates, flexible planting options and income protection, the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors said last week.

Meeting in Chicago, the AFBF board considered several priority items in the House and Senate farm bills. A conference committee will craft a final measure from the bills this fall. The board stressed the conference version should maintain target prices at 1990 levels, set loan rates more in line with the 1985 farm act's guidelines and should provide greater planting flexibility than contained in either of the versions approved this summer.

Farm bill conferees will develop a package containing certain or some provisions from each bill, and compromises by the committee. The administration also will be actively voicing its concerns on policy issues and program costs during this process, according to AFBF President Dean Kleckner

"We will push for market orientation in all farm programs, from loan rates to environmental program," he

"The conference committee may consider concepts that would reverse course on major accomplishments of the 1985 farm bill. Because agricultural commodities are interrelated, and because one section of the law affects other sections, we must maintain market based priorities throughout the farm bill." said Kleckner.

Lake access without slip: Lot No. 15.

Lake access w/slip. Lot No. 10

Target prices are one priority: AFBF believes they should not fall below 1990 levels. Although there is relative agreement on the issue, Farm Bureau prefers the Senate version which freezes target prices for all crops but oats at the 1990

Farm Bureau will continue to emphasize the need for marketclearing loan rates. Currently, neither version sufficiently ensures competitiveness.

AFBF supports amending loan rates to more closely follow the 1985 farm bill which set rates at 75-85 percent of the five-year average market price, excluding highs and lows. In addition, Farm Bureau supports giving the USDA secretary authority to make Findley adjustments as much as 20 percent to remain competitive in world markets.

The proposed House formula calls for slightly higher loan rates, which could cause buildups in government grain stocks. The Senate version proposes marketing loans which would keep grain moving into markets, but could become a budget buster.

On planting flexibility, the House more closely follows Farm Bureau's goal of limiting non-program crop planting on program acres. The House also makes more acreage eligible for planting flexibility to allow farmers to respond to changing markets.

Neither acreage reduction proposal is totally acceptable to AFBF, but acreage reduction levels in both versions are based on stocks-to-use ratios. That concept is similar to Farm

Dr. Lee Majeskie Honored By State Holstein Assoc.

Dr. Lee Majeskie, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, was given a high honor Monday, September 3, after the Holstein show at the Maryland State Fair. He was given the Distinguished Service to Maryland Holstein Award.

Also recognized was Dr. Majeskie's wife, Sapienza. "Not just for the support she gives Lee, but for sharing her time with us, helping at the shows, for her friendship and her genuine interest in our livlihood,' commented the announcer.

"Rare is the person who is not greeted by Lee's smile and warmth. He may best be described as a 'friend to all' - an example for each and everyone of us. It is with sincere appreciation that we present the 1990 Distinguished Service Award to Dr. Lee Majeskie," the announcer read.

Dr. Majeskie, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland since 1975, was born and raised on a Holstein farm in Wisconsin. He received his college education in both Wisconsin and Kansas, and served as a Brown Swiss fieldman prior to coming to Maryland.

In introducing the honoree, the announcer read further:

'A man of little pretense, he is familiar to each and everyone of us as Lee. He is known for his eagerness to meet every dairyman in the state and we recognize him today for his efforts which far exceed the requirements of the job. The enterprising role he plays in our Association goes far beyond his involvement in our shows and conventions as seen in his active participation on the breed improvement, program development and evaluation, scholarship, and show committees. His input is one of forward ideas, helping keep Maryland Holsteins on the cutting edge, as well as being a person of action.

Beyond working for the betterment of the Association, Lee's sincerity shines through the true interest he takes in the individuals who make up the Association. Many a testimonial can be given for Lee, the counselor, who lent a listening ear to decisions that affected us far beyond the farm.

To The Citizens Of Garrett County:

WHAT IT IS, IS A SINCERE THANK YOU FOR MAKING WFRB GARRETT COUNTY'S MOST LISTENED TO RADIO STATION. SINCE WE CANNOT WRITE YOU A PERSONAL LETTER, AND SINCE WE KNOW THAT THE REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER REACHES PRACTICALLY EVERY HOME IN GARRETT COUNTY, WE HAVE DECIDED ON THIS METHOD OF COMMUNICATION.

We would also like to inform you that WFRB AM has expanded its programming by presenting a very controversial talk show at 12:05 p.m., Monday through Friday. You may hate him, you may love him, but you will listen to him. RUSH LIMBAUGH is the nation's most listened to talk show host. He is now on nearly 300 stations, and what he deals with will make you sit up and take notice. Subjects such as the Middle East crisis, the equal rights movement, abortion, animal rights, promiscuity. No subject of current interest is outside his domain. He tells it as he sees it, along with a generous sprinkling of humor, fun and satire.

If you crave for something different in radio programming, then be sure to catch RUSH LIMBAUGH, Monday through Friday, only on WFRB AM 560. He may be right, he may be wrong, but he will stimulate your thought processes to the limit.

Again, thank you for making WFRB Garrett County's number one, and most listened to, station.

New Book Tells Story Of New Holland Company

The first in-depth story of New Holland Machine Company from 1895 through its sale to Ford Motor Company in 1986 will be told in a privatelyprinted limited edition to be published soon this fall.

"The Innovators" is based on official company files and the memories of many of the people directly involved in the success of the Lancaster County company which rose to the top of its segment of the worldwide farm equipment industry. The book is being published this year to mark the 50th anniversary of the 1940 reorganization of the company and the commercial production of the automatic hay

Founded as the New Holland Machine Works in 1895, the company was incorporated as New Holland Machine Company in 1903 by the founder, Abram Zimmerman. In 1940 the struggling company was purchased by a group of Lancaster County men employed by the former Dellinger Manufacturing Company. Active in the reorganized company in the early 1940s were the late Raymond D. Buckwalter, Irl A. Daffin, George C. Delp and the late Rev. J. Henry Fisher.

Key to its first major increase in business was the acquisition of the world's first automatic pick-up hay baler invented by Edwin B. Nolt. In 1947 the Sperry Corporation bought the company but left management in the hands of Delp and his team after Daffin resigned to develop his own business.

Significant detail is given to New Holland's innovative methods of managing its line and staff divisions on a global basis. Each division's sometimes unique, often non-tradidiscussed in this first "inside" report on what became known as the "New Holland Way."

As one of the major, and many times the most profitable, Sperry divisions, New Holland became the world's largest manufacturer of specialized farm equipment, selling in more than 90 countries. Even though New Holland never had a tractor in its line, in later years it was usually among the top five of all farm equipment

New Holland hit its first billion dollar year in 1980, After the downturn in the agricultural economy in 1983, and the merger of Sperry and Bur-roughs, New Holland was purchased by Ford in 1986 and is now part of Ford New Holland. third largest farm equipment

Honey Month Is Being Observed In September

September has been declared National Honey Month by the National Honey Board, honoring the contributions of the nation's honey bees.

The honey bee also contributed to the health of Maryland agriculture. Crops pollinated by honey bees include apples, zucchini, cucumbers, melons, berries and lima beans. Moreover, honey bees pollinate much of Maryland's woodlands and flower gardens.

There are approximately 211,600 beekeepers nationally, who tend more than four million beehives. Each spring, commercial beekeepers transport colonies to major agricultural areas where honey bees pollinate fruit, seed, nut and vegetable crops, providing increased yields and higher quality products. In the process, honey bees are responsible for pollinating approximately 80 percent of all ect-pollinated crops.

By September 9, 86 percent of Maryland's soybean acreage was setting pods, ahead of last year's 82 percent and only slightly ahead of the five-year average of 85 percent. An average of 6.3 days was suitable for fieldwork during this week according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, no topsoil was very short of moisture, 20 percent was short of moisture, 80 percent was adequate, and none was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none very short, 5 percent short, 95 percent adequate, and none surplus. Field corn, soybeans, and pasture were in good condition across the state. Apples were in fair to good condition and peaches were in fair condition.

Maryland's progress for the week ending September 9 are as week ended September 7, was 0.37 inch and 0.11 inch respec-0.01 inch, respectively. Temperatures averaged 73.7 degrees, 2.2 degrees above the normal of 71.5 degrees. Minimum temperatures for the week were mostly in the mid 50's to low 60's except in extreme Western Maryland where minimums were in the low 50's. Maximum temperatures for the week were in the high 80's to mid 90's, except the ow 80's in extreme Western

In Maryland, honey production is a growing business. There are 1,802 registered beekeepers and 13,828 honey bee colonies in the state. Honey vields vary from 20 to 80 pounds per colony. In 1987, fewer than 100 new honey-related products were introduced in major supermarkets; last year, nearly 200 new products containing honey made it to the grocery shelves.

September is set aside as the month to honor the honey bee because it marks the beginning of the honey harvest and is the sweetener's most popular time

Management Replaces Need For Corn Silage Preservatives

Though preservatives and inoculants are sometimes used for ensiling corn silage, the increased value of the corn silage doesn't usually warrant treatment. The high carbohydrate content of corn forage is usually sufficient in itself to produce a high quality feed if good management practices are followed. Such practices include harvesting the corn at the proper stage of maturity, filling the silo rapidly, and chopping short enough to ensure good packing (most particles should be about one-half inch in length). The ideal harvest stage is when the corn contains about 65% to 70% moisture. That's when the corn kernel is in the early dent to black layer forming stage.

The use of anhydrous ammonia to boost the crude protein content of corn silage to 12%, up from the normal 8% is a different matter. But anhydrous ammonia is an additive, not a preservative. To figure out whether this practice will pay, compare the cost of applying the recommended rate of seven pounds of anhydrous ammonia per ton of silage with the equivalent of 68 pounds of 44% soybean meal. In addition, anhydrous ammonia may retain more dry matter and energy in the silage and prolong its bunk life.

Beef Production Tips

TIME FOR FALL POUR-ON, September and early October is the time of year to use systemic pour-ons or spot ons to rid cows and other cattle of grubs and lice. These systemic materials should go on after heal fly season is over and before November 1. There are a number of good materials on the market. Pay your money and take your choice, but do read the label before putting the material on the cattle. Follow instructions.

ACORN POISONING, Acorns from Oak trees are responsible for a significant number of deaths of cattle nearly every fall in Maryland. Acorn poisoning generally deals its most severe blow in the month of September and in very early October. It seems that cattle like those newly fallen acorns. If you are grazing cattle in pasture with Oak trees and thus acorns, take proper precautions. Clinical signs are loss of appetite, listlessness, weakness, constipation early followed by diarrhea that may be dark colored or bloody and animals will appear bowed in the back. Animals get weaker and eventually go down. Affected animals may show yellow color, bloody urine and dehydration. There are no specific treatments for this condition other than rumen stimulants (mineral oil and the like) and fluids for dehydration. Treatment of downed animals is rarely successful while early treatment of cases is helpful. If possible, the removal of animals from the source of poisoning will greatly reduce the losses and increase the success rate of treatment. A preventative ration of 10% to 15% calcium hydroxide in a high protein feed is helpful. It may take about 4 pounds of this mix per day per cow and 2 pounds per day for younger animals. If acorn poisor threat, cattle should perhaps be removed from the pasture with the Oak trees producing acorns or be fenced from these wooded

First Organic Week Proclaimed In Maryland

Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr., announced today that September 10-16 is "Organically Grown Week in Maryland."

"The movement that is occurring in Maryland," Cawley said, "is being repeated nationally."

The Committee for Sustainable Agriculture, (415) 924-0929, will be holding a press conference in Washington, D.C., on September 10, to kick off the week. A number of food co-ops throughout the state will be holding special events to promote awareness of organically grown products.

Recognizing the consumer demand for a clear definition of 'organic,'' the Maryland Department of Agriculture has been working with the Maryland Organic Food and Farming Association (MOFFA) to establish a program for organic certification in Maryland. It is expected that Maryland shoppers will soon be able to confidently purchase certified organic prooduce grown in Maryland.

Ralph Hemphill, MDA's Director of Agricultural Development and Marketing, stated there is a critical need for the general public to have a substantial, reliable source of information about organic foods and the marketplace."

For membership information, interested persons may contact MOFFA president, Eric Rice, 6201 Harley Road. Middlwtown, MD 21769, (301) 371-4814

Federation has pledged financial support to a group called "Californians for Responsible Food Laws' (CAREFUL), backers of Proposition 135, also known as the CAREFUL Proposition.

At a fund-raiser in Stockton, Calif., American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner presented a $100,000 check in support of the CAREFUL campaign.

The CAlifornia Farm Bureau and several other of the state's agricultural groups are supporting Proposition 135, as a common-sense, food-safety alternative to Proposition 128. If voters approve both propositions, the one with the greatest number of votes will prevail on pesticide use matters. Proposition 128 seeks to ban

percent of the state's commonly used pesticides could be banned

This broad support for a sensible alternative to the politically-motivated Proposition 128 shows that farmers across the country fear the threat this represents to agriculture nationwide," he said.

"I can't imagine the type of voter who could support Proposition 128, knowing it will result in high-priced food." "California agriculture would be crippled without practical alternatives to the crop-protection tools Hayden wants banned," Kleckner said.

On the other hand, the CARE-FUL initiative serves as a responsible alternative, according to Kleckner. Proposition 135 requires implementation of food safety measures to protect infants, children and the elderly. It also strengthens workplace safety programs for farm workers and re-evaluates pesticides controls.

The measure also improves food testing and requires research into alternative medfly eradication methods. Also included are provisions for comprehensive water resources protection and the creation of a new Food Safety Division within the Department of Food and Agriculture.

Other common-sense provisions of Proposition 135 outlaw transport of food by trucks which haul hazardous materials and provide for collection and disposal of pesticides.

Proposition 135 allows those who grow our food and fiber continued access to safe pesticides," Kleckner said. "It mandates tougher testing of foodstuffs and water. Proposition 135 addresses the concerns of those who fear chemicals."

In presenting AFBF's contribution Kleckner challenged the audience to meet the evening's original $100,000 goal. That didn't take long. Including AFBF's $100,00 contribution, the fundraiser successfully tallied $206,000 for CAREFUL's

"YES on 135" campaign. According to Bob Vice, president of the California Farm Bureau and co-chairman of CAREFUL, contributions have been received from a number of state Farm Bureaus as well.

ASK THE SENATOR U.S. Senator

Barbara A. Mikulski

"Ask the Senator is a twice a month column where U.S. Senator disaster payments soared in the Barbara Mikulski answers questions from Marylanders.

Crop Insurance Dear Senator,

I farm in Southern Maryland. A couple of years ago, Maryland went though a severe drought, and my crops were hit hard. Now I hear that Congress is reforming the farm program again -- I don't think we need more paperwork. When are we going to let the farmers do their job?

I think American farmers do a great job! We have the best food supply and selection in the world, and I appreciate the hard work and long hours that the family farmer puts in to keep our grocery shelves stocked.

The Senate recently passed the Farm Bill of 1990, and during the spirited debate I was fighting for reforms to make the crop insurance program easier to use and more effective. When I wanted to know what the problems were, I went to the farmers. At my request, a task force of Maryland farmers was appointed; their recommendations led to my bill to reform the Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance covers all natural risks, including losses due to drought, hurricanes, tornadoes, and destructive rain and wind. Also covered are losses due to floods, insect infestation, wildlife and plant diseases. This program is administered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

After the costs of direct late 70's, the crop insurance program was extended to all commercial crops in all agricultural counties. But farmer participation did not increase -- and many were not covered when major disasters like the 1988 drought hit.

One of the points my task force focussed on was the frustration of many farmers and agents with the constant changes in program rates, rules, and policies. They told me that there wasn't a good local source of information and that many farmers didn't even know that the program was available. And when they did know about it, they were discouraged by the tangle of policies and regulations.

The task force suggested that the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices could send out regular updates on crop insurance with other farm program information. I got this cost-free improvement cepted as part of the Farm Bill that just passed.

I want to see that the federal government works as hard for the farmers of Maryland as our farmers do in putting food on our tables.

Help Save Our Environment By Recycling

Many products you use and dispose of every day are recyclable. The benefits of recycling are so numerous that Revco wants everyone to be aware of them.

The most obvious benefit is the reduction in garbage entering our landfills. Ten years ago, the United States had almost 18,000 landfill sites. Today only a third of them

Many recycling centers will pay you for aluminum and newspaper, and some will donate money to local charities. Imagine helping needy children simply by recycling.

None of this can happen without you. Get involved. Start a recycling campaign in your neighborhood. Look in your Yellow Pages to find a recycling center close to you.

Gregg's recent loss in last week's primary to Brenda J. Butscher (who garnered 1,575 votes to Gregg's 1,484) led to Gregg's decision, which was prompted, he said, "by a great number of people, county-wide, encouraging me to conduct a vrite-in campaign."

Gregg stated that, even though he accepted the results of the election, "there were extenuating circumstances with the election process" that he felt unnecessarily led to his defeat. He explained that "a great outcry" had come from members of the Democratic Party, the Independent Party, and those citizens who felt that Gregg's retention of his seat was inevitable, and so, hadn't bothered to vote.

He also reported being told by some of his constituents that, "If he could endure seven more weeks of campaigning, a number of people would be willing to perform the mechanics." Basically, he was told to "Go for it,." he said.

Woods administered a trustee audit that allowed the board to evaluate its performance to date. According to Woods, the audit showed that the GCC Board was doing an outstanding job and that the board was well advanced of many college boards throughout the nation.

On the second day of the workshop, the trustees focused on their role in guiding and setting GCC's strategic plans. Working with the president, the administration, the faculty and staff, the students, and the community, the board will assess GCC's strengths and opportunities and develop plans accordingly. The primary areas of board attention in the next five years will be academic success, teaching excellence, and student life.

At the conclusion of the twoday session, Chairman of the Board of Trustees Wayne Hamilton commented, "This was a workshop we have been looking forward to for a long time. We wanted to look at our role and the directions we wish to go. We've covered a lot of ground in the last two days, and we have established goals so we can do even better for GCC.

Too Complacent? . . .

An otherwise boring general election ballot for 1990 suddenly became far more interesting this week with the announcement that at least two and maybe more persons will run as write-in candidates. County Commissioner Ernie Gregg, who was edged out by Brenda Butscher in the primary, and Russell Sines, who lost by a relatively small margin to incumbent Elwood Groves, have already filed as write-in

No one has ever won a major county or state office in Maryland via a write-in campaign; however, according to the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors, at least five Maryland counties will have write-in candidates on the November ballot. Most of them involve incumbent officials who, like Gregg, lost by slim margins in the primary. This may be the year that a few of these candidates will make history by being elected. From this situation one can draw a number of conclusions. It seems that too many incumbents were complacent about their positions and did not hit the campaign trail as they should have. Even Commissioner Gregg admitted that complacency, both by him and his supporters, was a factor in his

It also seems to indicate that those citizens who bothered to vote are dissatisfied with the status quo and believe it is time for a change. We wonder if this is the year that some of the long-time incumbents in Congress are also upset in their bids for one more

The argument over whether or not all elected officials should be limited to a specific number of terms in office is also quite active right now. On the one hand, it seems that as long as an elected official continues to effectively serve his constituency, then the voters should have the right to continue to put him or her back into office. That's the American

On the other hand, we believe we have a serious problem in Congress, where several incumbents have become legends and are returned to office year after year, regardless of their effectiveness. Again, it is true that the only way they are returned to office is by the voters, but the power of incumbency is mighty in terms of influence, control, and money. They become so entrenched that it is almost impossible to remove them, despite the calibre of their opponent and regardless of their own record in Congress. Much of the blame can also be directed toward the voters, who do not take the time to check their elected officials' performance in office.

We limit the president of the United States to two terms in office. Yet we allow Congressmen to go for as many terms as they wish, even if they reach the point where they can't find their own way to the

FAST FOOD AND GOOD GOVERNMENT

by Governor William Donald Schaefer

I admit it. I love fried chicken. I love hamburgers. I even love those breakfast biscuits with eggs and cheese and sausage.  $\ensuremath{\mathrm{No}}$ question about it. I am a fast food fanatic. While this diet may not be good for my waistline, it has served ne very well indeed during my years in public life. In some ways you might say I owe some of my success in politics to my penchant for fast food.

Some politicians rely on polls. Others devise sophisticated surveys and extensive phone campaigns. My approach is much simpler - and more nourishing. When I want a reliable gauge of public opinion and citizen interest, I visit the nearest fast food trons have been more willing to seek me out and tell me what they think. They are always a little reluctant to approach me at first but before long, someone comes over and asks, "Are you really the governor?" And since I am, we start a conversation. Sometimes the discussion is very personal. They like - or don't like - something I am doing. Other times they want to talk about what is going on in the community around them. Maybe they need a new road or they are concerned about a crowded school building. Recently there has been a lot of talk about drugs and crime. But no matter the topic, I always feel I have learned something that helps me to do my job better.

I remember a stop we made at a fast food restaurant very early one morning in Prince George's County. I went up to the counter and ordered a cup of coffee and sat in the nearest booth. Within a few minutes, an older couple came over and began to Commissioner Ernie Gregg's people (independent of County talk. It was not an extraordinary conversation. Probably the same least. But for me it was a significant reminder of just what is important to the people of our state. And a reminder of what is important to me as governor.

So the next time you visit the corner deli or the har place in the mall, take a look around. And if you see a familiar face, come up and say hello. I would like to meet you. In the meantime, write to me, Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Maryland EMS — Saving Lives By Design The Republican

 ${\sf EMS}$  WEEK OBSERVED — Emergency Medical Services Week was officially proclaimed for the week of September 16-22 by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners recently. In their proclamation, the commissioners recognized the Maryland EMS system as a national and international model in the expert delivery of rapid and skilled care to seriously ill and injured persons. They commeded the thousands of individuals working as 911 dispatchers, first responders, emergency medical technicians, paramedics, MSP Medevac pilots, nurses, physicians, and therapists who serve thousands in need of emergency care — and who do it with skill, professionalism, and compassion. The commissioners said it was important that all citizens recognize and applaud the vital work of these EMS providers. On hand for the proclamation signing held at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were, left to right, Linda Beachy CRT, NGCRS, EMS Council; Rayma Weeks, EMT, SGCRS president, EMS Council; Ben Rosenthal, hospital administrator; Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.; Charlotte Bock, R.N., nursing administrator; Fran Pope, CRT, Region I council president, SGCRS; and Commissioner John G. Braskey.

Training Levels

Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) provide basic life support: patient assessment, oxygen administration, suctioning, lifting and moving patients, extrication assisting childbirth, fracture stabilization and emergence care for bleeding, shock, heat and cold emergencies and burns. Training consists of 110 hours of classroom and skills instruction. Garrett County has 210 EMTs.

Cardiac Rescue Technicians (CRTs) receive at least 160 hours of training beyond the EMT level. EMTs selected by their companies participate in the CRT training program, learning advanced life support skills such as heart monitoring, intravenous therapy, defibrillation and administration of some medications. ### Byron Asks Defense Secretary To Authorize Hazard Pay For Troops

In a letter to Defense Secretary Richard Cheney, Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) said she saw no difference between the current situation in the Persian Gulf and the threat U.S. troops faced during the 1988 reflagging of Kuwaiti tankers, and asked the secretary of authorize imminent danger pay immediately Imminent danger pay can be authorized at the discretion of the defense secretary and would amount to an additional $110 per month for personnel deployed as part of Operation

Desert Shield. Byron's request comes after her return from Saudi Arabia as part of a 22-member congressional delegation sent by the House leadership over the Labor Day weekend to observe the airlift of U.S. armed forces to the Persian Gulf region.

In her letter to Cheney, Byron said she thought that, if anything, the Navy's role in enforcing the embargo against Iraq is more dangerous than the reflagging mission of 1988 during which U.S. servicemen. were killed when an Iraqi fired

Exocet missile struck the USS Stark. "In short," Byron's letter read, "I believe that we have underestimated and failed to respond to the toll that the current threat in the Persian Gulf exacts from our people."

While the final statistics were leaning heavily towards the Southern side, with the exception of the score, the Rams missed a number of opportunities to put more points on the board as several drives were stopped, for various reasons, inside of the Cavaliers' 10-yard line.

Southern had only six offensive series in the contest and punted only once, as one drive was stopped inside the threeyard line when time expired in the first half, another was carries. halted by a fumble, another by a penalty, and another by an in-

Then with 37 seconds remaining in the game, Jeremy Bosley broke loose for a 23-yard touchdown run to conclude the scoring.

Woods received another balanced running attack from his offense, as Bosley finished with 127 yards on 17 carries, DeWitt added 73 yards on 15 attempts, and fullback. Shawn Ryan recorded 59 yards on 10

In response to that, Woods said, "If Coach Contic really believes we did that, then I want to apologize to him and his team. But I have to say that anytime my team has only an 8-0 lead, we are going to try to score more points.

'Plus, on that final drive we did not put the ball in the air. It just happened that Jeremy (Bosley) broke loose and was able to score. You can't tell a kid to not play hard or to try not to score under those circumstances."

Earlier in the game Woods did have sophomore quarterback C.J. Getson go to the air, where he completed seven of 12 passes with one interception.

We wanted to try a little bit of everything, including throwing the ball," Woods said.

Woods noted the offensive performances of Bosley and his two tackles, Jason Bateman and Brett Glotfelty and the defensive efforts of Mike Stewart, Ryan, and Garth Glotfelty, all linebackers.

Injured in the contest was Raymie Sherwood, who broke a finger and sprained his wrist. Joby Tasker is also still hobbled by an ankle injury. Both are listed as "probable" for Friday night, but Woods said their effectiveness remains to be seen.

Bittinger Powers Huskies To Second Straight Win

Behind a 137-yard, twotouchdown performance by sophomore running back Allen Bittinger, the Northern High Huskies recorded their second win in as many starts this season by defeating host Hancock, 27-14, Friday night. The Huskies will host undefeated Beall this Friday evening.

The Huskies took a 14-0 lead in the first quarter as Bittinger scored on a 15-yard run and Mike Fike followed with a fumble recovery and five-yard scoring run. It was the second return of a fumble for a score by Fike this season, as he did the same thing the previous week against Central Preston.

Jon Houser booted both extra

Hancock reponded with an 80-yard scoring run by Eric Moats, who also ran for the conversion to cut the Huskies' lead to 14-8. Moats finished with 120 yards, as he accounted for half of Hancock's rushing total on his scoring run.

Hancock knotted the score at 14-14 just before halftime when Moats tossed an 11-yard touchdown pass. The run for the conversion failed.

The Huskies took the lead for good in the third period when Bittinger raced 85 yards for a touchdown. Houser's kick for the extra point was no good. Houser added an insurance score later in the same period when he broke free and raced 30 yards to the end zone. He also tacked on the extra point. Houser also recorded 78 yards on 12 carries and averaged 45 yards on four punts. Two of his punts landed inside Hancock's

The Northern defense held Hancock to 184 total yards, as Fike spearheaded the unit with his fumble recovery and nine tackles. Larry Wakefield finished with eight tackles from his defensive end position and Todd Burdock blocked a punt.

Hancock, now 0-2, was led defensively by Moats, who was credited with 10 tackles.

"I think our kids were really looking ahead (toward Beall) a little bit," Northern Coach Tom Vent said. "They really shouldn't have scored on us. But fortunately we re-grouped and came back in the second half for Vent noted the performances of Bittinger on offense, Fike and Wakefield on defense, and Houser with the kicking game. They really did a nice job for us," he said.

Bittinger came out of the contest with a severe leg bruise, however, and is listed as questionable for this Friday's contest with Beall.

The eight-roster volleyball team consists of two returning players, Katie Groves and Kathy Kimble, while six players are new to collegiate volleyball.

"Valerie Teagarden has added maturity and intensity to the team," stated Head Coach Margaret Quinn, "while setters Kim Mackall and Katie Groves are running the 6-2 offense for

"Cathy Kimble, a former Southern High standout, is doing an excellent job of executing the offense, in addition she has been serving with great consistency," Quinn said.

"Tracy Jones, of Oakland, is continuing to add to the offense by developing her hitting ability. As the season progresses I look for her to be a dominent figure in our offense, she said.

'Hitter Becky Evans is rounding off the Garrett offense and is being a prominent figure in back row play," she noted. New to the game and rounding off the squad are

Kenyatta Brown and Kim Copeland. "As skills develop I look for them to play an important role in the offense," stated Assistant Coach Susan Sanders.

The team record is 2-3, while their league record is 1-0. The Lakers traveled to Hagerstown

A&A Soccer Team Topped By League Leader

The A&A Realty/Deep Creek Soccer Club was handed its second loss of the season as league-leading Valley Automotive scored a 3-1 victory Sunday at Southern Middle School. A&A, playing its second game in a row on a wet and muddy field, was unable to crack the tough Valley Automotive defense for more than one goal, which was the first scored upon Valley this season.

A&A took an early 1-0 lead late in the first quarter as Bill Mead took a Mike Hoffaditz cross and drilled a low hard shot on goal. The Valley goal keeper made a diving deflection of the shot, but Bob Issacson, standing 10 feet from the goal, put the rebound into the back of Valley tied the score late in the second period and took the lead five minutes into the third period. A&A was able to surmount some offensive thrust in the second half, but on four different occasions saw their attempts stymied by shots hitting the goal post or crossbar. Valley scored a 60-yard

Fund Raising Policy

A new policy was approved at the meeting which lists school fund-raising guidelines. At previous meetings, concern had been raised that because of the reduced budget, students may be involved in more fundraisers this year. The board members felt that guidelines for these activities should be created, as some of the moneyraising schemes actually provide little or no profit to the school in the end.

Dr. Ryscavage requested an itemized, detailed list from all county school principals in early summer. The board was given the combined lists at the

Criminal Charges Pending In Theft Of 630 Trees From Wildland Area

It was recently announced that Maryland Department of Natural Resources officials are still trying to decide if criminal charges should be levied against a local logger who allegedly stole a total of 630 trees in approximately 35 acres of Savage River State Forest in late May.

The illegal cutting of those trees took place in the Pea Patch Ridge area, which recently was recommended as a possible site for the designation of wildlands.

According to Larry Maxim, Savage River State Forest manager, members of a group

In the discussion about the activities, Board Member Charles Teets voiced his concern about incentives for young children, such as the promise of a toy if a child sells a certain amount. He felt this was an unfair and improper method, as few children actually sell the quota to receive any prizes, and the focus of the project is solely on the incentive, not on the school's benefit of the activity.

Mikal Moomau added that certain items sold are not in the best interest of students, such as chocolate bars and candy.

The guidelines that the board approved include a new rule which disallows fund-raising activities that involve individual incentives to students in grades pre-kindergarten through eighth.

The policy also states that whenever possible, the fund-raisers should be used as an educational vehicle through activities such as book fairs and Continued on Page A-18

Gypsy Moth Forum Reveals Concerns About County's Aerial Spray Program

We have never successfully eliminated any organism that has come into this country once it has become established

These were the words of Susan Cooper, staff ecologist from the National Coalition Against the Misuse of Pesticides (NCAMP), as she addressed a group of concerned citizens at the Gypsy Moth Forum held recently at Garrett Community College.

The forum, sponsored by the local group CARE (Concerned Area Residents for the Environment) was also host to three other speakers, all credentialed in various aspects of the gypsy moth problem - a problem that has now become Garrett Coun-

Those speakers, in addition to Cooper, were Dr. Ray Hicks. professor at West Virginia University with the Forestry Division; Dr. Kurt Gottschalk, U.S. Forestry Service; and Dr. Ralph Webb, entomologist with the U.S. Department of Beltsville Agriculture. Agricultural Research Center.

Also on hand were resource personnel, Dave Cohen. Maryland Department of Agriculture; Steve Hamilton; Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Forest, Park and Wildlife Service; and Alice Hevner, Garrett County Extension Service.

The forum was organized and presented as part of CARE's ongoing effort to inform the general public of the environmental consequences of planned activities, and consisted of presentations from the four speakers followed by a question and answer period.

Members of the audience, as well as CARE representatives, raised numerous questions to the panelists reflecting concern about Garrett County's gypsy moth suppression program which, in large part, employs Dimilin (diflubenzuron) insecticide that inhibits the formation of chitin, thus preventing insects and crustaceans from developing their outer

Dr. Ray Hicks, who presented an overview of the history of the gypsy moth in the United States and its mode of behavior, first explained that management depends on information. "Information," he said, "on your forest and your objectives in that forest.

It is essential, he said, that residents make themselves aware of the types of forests that surround them, and of the management techniques employed on public forest

One also must determine how much money and effort one is willing to spend" on a suppression program, he

Addressing the dilemma of choosing the right method of action (or no action), Hicks stated, "What is the right decision? Are pesticides the right decision? Well, I wouldn't necessarily say that, although pesticides have a role, I think. Certainly, Bt (Bacillus thuringiensis) is one that is widely used and considered relatively safe. Dimilin is another one that is widely used. It's very effective - maybe more so than Bt but there are some environmental questions about

He continued, "Dimilin does kill some organisms which you may not want to kill but it is not a 'poison' in the same sense as something like DDT."

NCAMP ecologist Susan Cooper, however, voiced a cautionary note following Hicks's speculation about the harmful effects of Dimilin, stating, "We hear a lot of reassurances about pesticidal controls. They tell you Dimilin is safe, but they don't really know that - they're just assuming it."

She explained that this assumption was based on tesing of the "active" ingredients (those designed to perform a pesticidal action) of Dimilin but that a significant part (75 percent) of the formulation is composed of "inert" ingredients. She noted that this description is somewhat misleading to the lay person because inert, in this case, simply means "those ingredients which the manufacturer does not claim to have pesticidal action.

Some of those inert ingredients include materials that allow the formulation to hold to the leaf surface or to flow smoothly through the applicator. So, notwithstanding the fact that the active ingredients in Dimilin are still under the scrutiny of scientific research because it is a relatively new product on the market and because, as Cooper said, it is an almost impossible task to 'scientifically' prove anything, inert ingredients are afforded "trade secret" status and, even under the Freedom of Information Act, their identities can not be obtained.

"In the case of Dimilin you're talking about something which stays on leaf surfaces for as long as ten months," said Cooper, "which means that any insect which goes through molting stages and eats those leaves is going to be affected by

Ralph Webb, entomologist, answered that research is currently being conducted on animal models with corresponding microbes to the human. "I don't know that anyone actually looks at the skin microflora, but what they do look for are effects on the skin," said Webb. He also noted that effects on analogous systems, such as fungi (which contains chitin) are also being studied

Cooper stated that skin rashes in humans may well have been the result of the inert ingredients in the pesticidal formulations. "Since we don't know what they are," she said, 'we can't tell you what the toxicological effects are.'

Cooper further explained that chemical sensitivities" should not be confused with allergic reaction, stating, "The immunological response to chemical sensitivity is completely different from an allergic response, which typically involves histamines. A chemical sensitivity can and does, in many cases, have very severely debilitating immunological effects.

She also noted that chemical sensitivities are only now beginning to receive serious scientific consideration.

The question of human health in the face of Dimilin, then, would seem to be one that just cannot be answered - even by the experts - at this stage of

She continued, "This has been the strangest summer. We hardly any bees . . . and come to think of it, the birds weren't as

One need only look back through the history of in secticides and pesticides, though, to realize that (1) direct correlations are not easily drawn between the use of such chemicals and their effects on human health because of the abundance of variables in the human and ecological environment, and (2) it typically takes many years to affirm any correlations that have been drawn. (Such was the case with thalidomide and DDT.)

And while it is generally accepted that chemicals on the market today have been proclaimed safer than their counterparts of former years, one must acknowledge that 'safer" is indeed a relative term, and then make a personal choice about "how safe is safe?" when confronted with the insecticide question.

But even assuming that human health is not at risk, the world of scientific research has indicated that other organisms do, indeed, suffer adverse effects that could, potentially, lead to their extinc-

Some of those other organisms happen to be beneficial ones. Still others are those which are able to biologically control the gypsy

Dr. Webb explained that since the use of Dimilin is questionable, and since Bt, although identified as a safer alternative, must be applied within a "narrow biological window" to be effective, the scientific community is currently working on biologically based gypsy moth natives that are environmentally compatible, including many disease agents that attack insects, such as bacteria, fungi, viruses, nemotodes, and so forth," stated Webb.

Further, he said, "A lot of emphasis is now being placed on a virus that occurs in the nucleas of the insect cell '

Dr. Kurt Gottschalk then explained that some biological controls have been around since the early 1900's, "travelling with the gypsy moth but not at the same rate." Gottschalk went on to say that gypsy moth infestation occurs in cycles, but those cycles vary from one geographical location to another and were somewhat dependent on climate and other geographical factors. He stated, "Although no general pattern has been deter-

Gottschalk also addressed the question of silvicultural practices intended to aid in gypsy moth suppression, stating, 'Although forest management is a scientific discipline, it is open to interpretation, and the major question facing forest managers is 'At what threshold of infestation does one take ac-

He emphasized the importance of flexibility in forest management programs in the light of "political economic" decisions that were also taking place surrounding the gypsy moth issue.

Gottschalk also noted that forests change constantly, ecologically, and that silvicultural techniques attempt to manage that change to benefit various resources timber production, wildlife recreation, and water and

He stated, "The gypsy moth also creates an ecological change. We try to minimize or slow down those changes by reducing the amount of oaks (one of the gypsy moth's most preferred species). Reducing the oaks reduces infestation and increases forest diversity. More diverse stands prevailed around the turn of the century, Gottschalk explained and, because of past logging practices and fires, the oak stands are maturing and "we're seeing a progression of these stands, ecologically, back to more mixed stands. Susan Cooper carried that fact a step further, stating that a great deal of this area of the country, 400 years ago, was not all dense oak stands, and a wider variety of wildlife existed in the area that is now inhabited by the gypsy moth.

"So, clearly, the ecology of the area is able to withstand a ecology," Cooper stated. Cooper stressed the importance of area residents making an informed decision about using aerial spray programs to combat the moth. "We have to decide if it's important to us to spray on a yearly basis almost indefinitely. The gypsy moth is not going away. It's been here for over a century and continues to expand its range," she said.

In general, she said, the attitude toward the gypsy moth problem has been a short-term one because of "political considerations" and because people are, rightfully, concerned about the aesthetics of the trees around their houses, the value of their property if those trees are gone, and of course, the defoliation of oak stands.

"But, if it's not going away," she said, "are we talking about spraying every year, indefinitely, because we've decided we want to maintain oak forests of a certain type? Is that something we're comfortable with?

paigns are expensive over the long run. Other options need to be considered. Other management strategies are available to us, such as beginning to implement changes in the kind of trees that are out there. "This may cost more money, initially," she stated, "but also will have much more long-term benefits.

The panelists were in agreement that the only thing that had ever been shown to achieve long-term, ongoing control of a pest introduced to a foreign environment was biological con-

Dr. Gottschalk echoed that sentiment, saying, "The spray other factors are weighed and operations are strictly pro-

He also reported that some New England states, as well as New York State, have abandoned their spray programs because it was discovered by 'veterans' of the gypsy moth infestation that mortality rates

Cooper validated this concern, noting that only 50 percent of an aerially sprayed insecticide reaches its target. "When you're spraying hundreds and thousands of acres with any compound that's toxic to a wide variety of wildlife and other organisms." she said "I think you're setting yourself up for some potentially serious problems

She continued, "It takes money and time, but people need to think more about longterm control and investing in methods that are going to be effective for 200 to 500 years - not just two to five years - that are going to impact the trees your children see growing here.

Defoliation of a large number of trees by the gypsy moth would, indeed, upset the ecological balance, but an informed decision about the effects - and the effectiveness of a widespread spray campaign with a questionable insecticide must be made after all

Was Right.

None of the aforementioned concerns should be taken lightly even if they are coincidences. What if they are not coincidental? The Change What if we are unwittingly killing our small animals, our bees, other insects, our own offspring? What if we further disturb the food chain in Garrett County and the effects are irreversible? It is food for thought.

Most people who are wary of Dimilin do not blame any particular person or group for the spraying of the insecticide. They simply would prefer more studies on the active and inert ingredients of the substance.

If Dimilin can stay on a leaf for up to 10 months, it is most likely going to be ingested by more than just the gypsy moth caterpillar. And since Dimilin works by breaking down the chitin, (the stuff that makes a bug go "crunch") then surely we'll lose other chitin-producing species. Additionally, it is known that Dimilin breaks down much better in alkaline water. It is also known that Garrett County has acidic water.

While we may have enjoyed relatively bug-free picnics this summer (when it wasn't raining), did we really gain anything? We can only hope that Dimilin is as safe as government officials tell us it is. Yet we still worry that the inconclusive studies of our scientists will come back to haunt us someday. And if we are beng led astray, then surely our offspring would like to know whom to blame 100 years from now.

If farmers lost 30 percent of their crops before insecticides were introduced and farmers lost 30 percent of their crops when using insecticides, what's the point?

Man has a tendency to shrug off what he doesn't understand. He wants to move or eradicate any obstacles immediately without first thinking through the consequences. He genuinely wants to do the right thing - but he wants to do it right now.

Some chemical companies seem to hard-sell and defend their insecticides. Some environmentalists appear to carry their causes too far. The rest of us are floundering somewhere in the middle Will this summer or next summer be known as our "Silent Summer" somewhere hence?

Health Officer Answers Common Questions On Flu, Announces Clinics

Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, states that many serious complications from influenza type illnesses can be prevented if more persons were immunized with flu and pneumococcal vaccines. Below are common questions asked each year and answers by Dr. Archer.

Q. What is Influenza?

A. Influenza, or "flu," is a respiratory disease caused by a virus. There are two main types of influenza virus —  $\mathbf{A}$  and  $\mathbf{B}$ . Each type includes many related viruses or strains, each slightly different from the others.

Q. How serious a disease is influenza?

A. Influenza illnesses range from very mild to severe, depending upon such factors as the individual's susceptibility and general physical condition. Influenza can cause life threatening complications in high risk individuals or, rarely, in normally healthy individuals.

Q. Why are some people referred to as "high risk?"

A. The risk of developing severe complications with influenza increases with age (particularly among those cases 65 years of age or older) or in individuals (of any age) with chronic medical conditions. The chronic conditions which present the greatest risk for serious complications or death from influenza are problems such as diabetes, diseases of the heart, lungs, or kidneys, severe anemia, or chronic illnesses (or medications) which lower the body's resistance to infection.

Q. How is influenza spread?

A. Influenza spreads from person to person through droplets of moisture expelled into the air when a person with influenza sneezes, coughs, or talks. These droplets contain viruses which, when inhaled by other people, can cause infection in those who are susceptible. The incubation period for influenza (the length of time between a person's exposure to disease and actual development of symptoms) typically ranges from 1-3 days. It has also been shown that influenza spreads very rapidly over great geographic distances.

Q. How is influenza diagnosed and treated?

A. Usually, the diagnosis is based on the appearance of "classic" flu symptoms which include fever, chills, headache, cough, and sore and aching muscles in the back, arms, and legs. There is no specific treatment, but bed rest, drinking more than usual amount of liquids, and taking pain relievers help reduce the discomfort of the illness. Aspirin, however, should not be given to children or adolescents because of the risk of Reye syndrome. Because influenza is a viral illness, antibiotics are of no use except treating bacterial complications such as pneumonia. One drug, amantadine hydrochloride, has been licensed for use and may prevent illness when given early after infection with type A influenza viruses. Amantadine is not effective against type B influenza. Q. Every year there seems to be a new influenza virus going around. Why?

A. The influenza viruses frequently change; thus from time to time, new strains of influenza virus appear. Epidemics then occur because people have not had previous exposure which would allow them to build up specific immunity (protection) against the new strain.

Q. What kind of vaccine is available for the 1990-91 season?

A. Influenza vaccinations should be given annually. A trivalent (three strains), "killed virus" vaccine containing A/Taiwan (HINI), A/Shanghai (H3N2), and B/Y Yamagata has been produced for use in 1990-91. Persons nine years of age and older will require only one dose. For maximum effectiveness, children under nine will require two doses of "split virus" vaccine about 1 month apart, unless they received influenza vaccine previously (in which case only one current dose is needed).

Q. Who should receive influenza vaccine?

A. To maximize protection of those at high risk of develop complications from influenza, both the persons at risk and their close contacts should be vaccinated. This includes (but is not

*Persons aged 65 years and older;

*Residents of nursing homes and other chronic-care facilities housing persons of any age with chronic medical conditions; *Adults and children with chronic disorders, especially pulmonary and cardiovascular disorders, including children with

*Adults and children who have required regular medical follow-up or hospitalization during the preceding year because of metabolic or renal disease, hemogloginopathies or immunosuppression (including HIV infection);

*Children and teenagers receiving long-term aspirin

*Those proving care to high-risk individuals, including health care givers; and *Household members of high-risk persons.

Q. How safe is the influenza vaccine?

A. Vaccines in recent years have been associated with only a few reactions. Inactivated influenza vaccine should not be given to persons known to have anaphylactic hypersensitivity to eggs (a very severe allergic reaction). Some people may have a sore arm for one or two days. Others may have fever, chills, headache or muscle aches within the first 48 hours after vaccination. However, it is important to remember that you cannot get infectious influenza from this vaccine.

The vaccine is safe for pregnant women, and such women should be vaccinated if they belong to any of the high-risk groups. Q. Where can I get the vaccine?

A. This year the health department will be cooperating with the Area Agency on Aging in providing the clinics at Senior Citizen Meal Centers and other community locations throughout Garrett County

50th Anniversary Of Buckwheat Fest To Be Commemorated In New Book

The people of Preston County will celebrate the golden anniversary of the Buckwheat Festival in 1991, and the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department yesterday announced efforts to publish a special book commemorating that historic event.

Golden Harvest: 50 years At the Preston County Buckwheat Festival will be compiled and edited by former Preston County News editor Bob Teets. and will be published through the facilities of Headline Books, , Terra Alta, W.Va.

'This is going to be a most unique publication," Teets, coauthor of several books, said, because we are hopeful that, like the Festival itself, this book will be the result of the efforts of residents from throughout Preston County

Teets said the KVFD hopes the book will feature photos and stories produced by Prestonians. "We need the people of Preston to search past 50 years," he said. "And I'm counting on each community in the county to produce a writer who will volunteer to write a feature story about a local person's or a group's unique contributions to the past success of the Festival. Any contributor whose works are used will receive recognition in the book, as well as a free

The book will be divided into chapters representing each of the past five decades, with additional sections highlighting king and queens, agriculture, notable personalities and other festival lore. Original artwork by local artists will also be featured.

For marketing, KVFD officials sought the county-wide participation of Preston County Homemaker's Clubs whose members are now taking orders for the book in return for a share of the proceeds. "People may place orders right now in their own hometown," Teets noted, "simply by contacting a member of the local Homemaker's Club." Others may place orders directly with the publisher at P.O. Box 52, Terra Alta, W.Va. 26764. For those visiting the Festival this year, an order blank is featured on the last page of the official 1990 Buckwheat Festival program

Two versions of the 812"x11", 128-page book are planned, a Heritage Edition, which will be hardbound in special cloth, and a Collector's Edition, limited to just 500 copies, which will feature an identical finish with a matching slipcase. Both will be available in advance of the 1991 Festival with an exclusive 50th Anniversary decal affixed to the cover. Prices through December 31, 1990 are $20.95 for Collector's Edition and $15.95 for the Heritage Edition, and will be $2 higher after that date. Any orders placed with the publisher must include an additional $2.75 to cover postage and handling. A check money order must ac-pany each order.

"It's a gargantuan task, Teets said, "trying to fit 50 years of such community in volvement into a book. But the people of Preston County come together once a year in a most unique celebration of our culture and of our future during the Buckwheat Festival. So now, I'll be turning to those same people, the residents of the county, and asking them to make contributions to this book.

"Given the nature of the people of Preston County and their close cooperation in making the Festival so successful," he said, "I can promise that this book will be a celebration in print. Everyone will want a copy.

To submit photographs (which will be returned in original condition to the owners after publication), or to volunteer to write stories, Teets may be contacted at the publisher's

Conference To Focus On Needs Of Children

Parents, educators, health care providers and public officials will gather at Canaan Vallev November 9 and 10 to develop strategies for improving the level of services available to children with special needs.

"The Surgeon General's Follow-up Conference for Children with Special Needs: West Virginia's Response" is a project of the W.G. Klingberg Center for Child Development, at West Virginia University, West Virginia Handicapped Children's Services, and the Federal Bureau of Maternal and Child Health.

'A great many people in West Virginia are working hard to provide care and services for children with special needs," says Dr. Chet Johnson, who is a faculty member of the WVU School of Medicine and directs the Klingberg Center. "But the sad truth is that thousands of West Virginia children are not getting the help they need, early enough in their lives, to give them the opportunity to grow into healthy, productive adults.

Parents of special needs children are often frustrated by a complex bureaucracy which can seem unresponsive to their requests and unsympathetic to their difficulties, Johnson says. A major objective of the conference will be on family empowerment, and strengthening the partnerships between parents and professionals

'We are also going to use this gathering to showcase some of the strategies that work for families of children with special needs," Johnson says.

The meeting will include workshops on special education, family support, health care and the financial support of families with special needs children.

"We want to involve everyone in West Virginia who has been wrestling with these problems in a joint effort to come up with some solutions," says Johnson. "This conference will be a working session.

Among those scheduled to participate in the conference are Rachel Worby, music direc-Wheeling Symphony Orchestra; Margie Hale, executive director, Governor's Task Force on Children, Youth and Families; Dr. William Neal, chair, Department of Pediatrics, WVU; Betsy Anderson, director, Federation for Children with Special Needs; Dr. Merle McPherson, director of the Federal Division of Services for Children with Special

Financial assistance and reegistration are available to assist parents of special-needs children who wish to attend the conference.

Registration materials and additional information are available from Carrie Westbrook, Klingberg Center, School Medicine, WVU, Morgantown, WV 26506; telephone (304) 293-7331

WVU Enrollment Exceeds 20,000

For the first time since the 1983-84 academic year, West Virginia University's enrollment has topped the 20,000 mark, with an unofficial count of more than 20,700 students, President Neil S. Bucklew announced this week.

Total enrollment, still unofficial until the Board of Trustees unces the official tally in October, indicates a 3.5 percent overall increase, or approximately 700 more students than last fall's 19,997 head count. (WVU's all-time enrollment high was 21,565 students in 1977-78.)

The most significant fall increases, the president noted, are in the number of transfer and graduate students enrolling at the university. Transfer students total approximately 840, a 17 percent increase over last fall's figure of 721. The number of graduate students attending WVU is on the rise as well, with approximately 4,360 students enrolled this fall compared to 4,165 in the fall of 1989 - a 5 percent increase

The number of minority students attending WVU also has increased steadily: approximately 1,056 enrolled this fall compared to about 959 a year ago - a 10 percent increase. Total African-American students, who make up the largest proportion of minority students, grew from 528 to 586 - an 11 percent increase.

One member of the group stated that he was surprised at the almost immediate positive impact they've had on some of the communities they passed through which have now implemented recycling programs, among other positive steps. The walk supports the following concepts: A worldwide ban on chlorofluorocarbons; slowing the rate of global warming and the spread of acid rain by promoting renewable energy and energy efficiency; a half to global deforestation coupled with a program to plant a billion trees; implementation of strong, effective recycling programs in every community and a ban on packaging materials that are neither recyclable nor biodegradable, and a comprehensive hazardous waste program, emphasizing source reduction, a mong other things. He stated that since he and Jon Thayer (also a primary election candidate for the District One seat) earned over 2.000 against Groves approximate 1,400 votes, "it would indicate that a write-in campaign would be "a worthwhile effort.

He also told reporters that he would run again because the primary election vote resulted in a nearly 2-1 opposition to the incumbent, that the Democrats should have a choice in the general election, and that he does have support from the Democrats.

Garrett County Board of Elections Supervisor, Fred Sanders, explained that five other Maryland counties are also experiencing a "rash" of write-in campaigns as the result of a number of county or local level incumbents being ousted.

He noted, however, that no one in the state of Maryland had ever won on a write-in campaign.

Sanders stated that although he foresees no major problems with voters following write-in directions, he indicated that canvassing would take a much longer time, and it would most likely take a couple of days before the results would be

Dr. Ryscavage indicated he may develop additional procedures to insure individual school compliance with the new

Field Trip Policy

Another policy was approved by board members which concerns school field trip experiences. The topic of field trips was discussed by the board at the last meeting, and a draft of guidelines was presented at that time by Dr. Ryscavage.

Only a few changes to the draft were suggested by the board members before a motion was made for its approval. The guidelines include suggestions about trips, as well as new

According to the policy, principals are now responsible for ensuring all field trips are integrated with the curriculum currently being taught. The only exception to this are trips scheduled to Camp Hickory, the planetarium, one culminating activity" for the highest grade in each school, such as the senior class trip.

Some debate occurred among members concerning the allowance of one swimming or downhill skiing trip during a student's elementary and middle school years. Beverly Murphy, president of the board, felt the ski and swim trips did not fall into the category of "learning experiences," and that those activites should be provided by parents, not the school system.

Charles Teets disagreed, stating that to send a child skiing with the school is much cheaper for parents, giving the child a chance to learn the sport when he/she may not have the opportunity otherwise.

Mikal Moomau stated that she could understand both sides of the debate, but it was felt a valuable activity for the students, based on her experience as a chaperone on the ski trips.

"If you could watch those kids out there on the slopes, you'd see that it's definitely a learning experience for them,"

The board then agreed to keep the allowance in the

Other components of the policy include the distance traveled by each grade. One major trip per year will be allowed for pre-k through eighth, a maximum of 120 miles for prek through third, and maximum of 200 for fourth through eighth. Grades nine and up will be allowed an open number of trips, 200 miles and beyond.

The policy also states that parent volunteers are welcome to chaperone the trips. Volunteers will be sought on the basis of one adult (including staff) per approximately five students in pre-k through third, and one adult per ten students, fourth grade and up.

Both the field trip and the fund-raiser policies are on file at the Board of Education office examination, according to a staff spokesperson.

Holiday Displays Board Member Rodney Durst recently addressed the subject of holiday displays in public schools. Durst stated that several school teachers had conveyed to him their understanding that the display of any Christian symbols at Christmas or Easter was prohibited by the state. Attorney for the board, Leonard Eiswert, who was asked to investigate the issue, explained his findings at the meeting.

According to the lawyer, based on past court cases, a school may indeed display Christian symbols during a holiday on the stipulation that other religions are represented as well. For example, if a Christian nativity scene is depicted, a Jewish menorah should also be shown, as well as traditional seasonal characters such as Santa Claus and the Easter bunny

'The display should be a balanced one," Eiswert said.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, affects more than 60 million Americans and is a leading contributor to stroke and heart disease. West Virginia has a particularly high incidence of hypertension, according to health surveys.

"The clinic offers a multi-disciplinary approach to the diagnosis and treatment of all forms of this disease," he said.

Overbeck, who serves as consulting editor of the journal "Hypertension," and Kotchen are nationally known for their research relating to the potential tension.

"The origins of hypertension have been attributed to abnormalities in the endocrine, central nervous, cardiac and renal systems, and that is why the multi-disciplinary approach is so important," said deAndrade.

There are two types of hypertension. Essential hypertension, which ususally precedes many other disease symptoms, is usually treatable with diet, lifestyle modification and medication.

Secondary hypertension, which accounts for approximately five percent of all cases, is caused by another underlying disease. It may be "very resistant" but is potentially curable with proper diagnosis. Some common forms of secondary hypertension include renovascular hypertension, Master of ceremonies for the evening was Judge Fred A. Thayer, who distributed gifts that had been donated by the following establishments and individuals: Foodland, Dee Ann's, Helbig's Jewelry, Hometown Market, Farmers' Market, Bausch & Lomb, Rudy's, Gregg's Pharmacy, Eberly/Wood Distributors, Clyde A. Gnegy, Clara & Katherine Sukow, Cindy Tasker, Lenora's Fabric, members of the class of 1952. Flowers by Webers, and Green Acres. Coca-Cola also donated two large banners which can be kept and used from year to year.

Joe DeSimone and Rev. John Grant led the group in singing 'America the Beautiful" and the Oakland High School song, followed by a memorial for deceased members and the invocation by Rev. Grant. A buffet dinner was then served, after which members danced to music from the 1930s, 40s, and 50s. The disc jockey was Dave Zimmerman.

Because of the large number of alumni present, class photos were taken in four groups: 1920-1935, 1936-1941, 1942-1947, and 1948-1952. Copies of the photos, which appear on this page, may be purchased from James Crabtree Photography; they are $8.00 for an 8x10.

Background Scripture: 1 Kings 21 Devotional Reading: Psalms 36

I used to know a husband and wife who were as different as day and night. The man was mild mannered, undemanding, and generally accomodating to peo-ple. His wife, on the other hand, was very strong-minded and de-manding. Those of us who knew them used to marvel at how different they were. The husband was usually regarded as "Mr. Nice Guy" and his wife gained a reputation quite to the contrary.

At times, we were curious when the husband would turn over to his wife a response that he could just as well have made himself. Eventually, some of us began to conclude that the husband sometimes used his wife to achieve what he wanted without having to bear himself the stigma for her words and actions. This man had learned to a perfection letting someone else do the dirty work.

SULKING FOR PROFIT

The story of Ahab. Jezebel and Naboth is thousands of years old, but is very contemporary in terms of human emotions and motivations. Ahab wanted Naboth's vineyard for himself, but he would not use his power as king to secure it. So, having failed to convince Naboth, Ahab used his tried-andtrue tactic of sulking. "And he lay down on his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no food" (21:4). You can believe that Ahab would not sulk if he hadn't already found in the past that it got him his way. If you have ever tried sulking—as I have you've found that there's no point to it if someone doesn't

"Why is your spirit so vexed that you eat no food?" she wanted to know. Ah, the very question he hoped she would ask! He sounds like a spoiled brat as he tells Jezebel that Naboth won't give him his vineyard. And Jezebel responds exactly as he had hoped: 'Arise, and eat bread, and let your heart be cheerful; I will give

So, Jezebel, who did not fear God as Ahab did, solved the problem quickly and directly: she had Naboth unjustly charged and stoned to death. Returning triumphantly to her husband, she "Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give you for money (see, it was his fault for not accepting your offer); for (21:15). Ahab. He could have said, "No, no, I didn't mean for you to go that far!" But, because the evil deed was done by his wife and not himself, Ahab feels no remorse and "as soon as Ahab heard that Naboth was dead...arose to go down to the vineyard of Naboth. the Jezreelite, to take possession

Of course, by now you should be aware that this story is not really about Ahab and Jezebel as much as it is about you and me Are there not times when we, too, allow someone else to do our dirty work? Other people who we can manipulate? Our company? Our

PBS begins fall season with 'The Civil War'

Documentary a television event

By Anne Wheeler No, there are no on-screen performances by favorite big name stars as there were in The Blue And The Gray or in Roots: The Next Generations. But this retelling of the Civil War era may have just as big of an impact on television audiences.

The Civil War, an 11-hour General Motors Mark of Excellence documentary detailing the events surrounding the war, will kick off PBS' 1990-91 season when it airs on five consecutive nights beginning Sunday, Sept.

Based on five years of research and more than 150 hours of footage of photographs and interviews with historians, the series conveys the tone of the nation during the 1860s. However the views brought out are not just from the big name

Robert E. Lee and Abraham Lincoln. This program goes beyond that to reflect the lives of average men dramatization, but rather a retelling of the 1860s through photographs, litho-graphs, headlines and diaries of the time. About two dozen stars-from Hoyt Axton to Sam Waterston-lend their voices to the words found in diaries and letters. Adding vivid realism to

The Civil War is commentator Shelby Foote, a Southern novelist who interrupted his career for 20 years to research and write the critically acclaimed definitive his tory of the war, The Civil War: A Narrative, a landmark three-volume work. Through his narration in this series, Foote makes not only the war come to life, but also human events that were Filmmaker Ken Burns (seated) and author/commentator Shelby Foote bring to life PBS' The Civil War to be broadcast Sunday through Thursday.

Fred de Cordova still with show

By Amy Schmidt

Between monologues and Carnac the Magnificent skits, Johnny Carson will seek to embarrass his producer of 21 years, Fred de Cordova, by instructing the show's cameramen to pan over de Cordova's way. Used to being off-camera and out of the limelight, Fred good-naturedly toler-ates Johnny's prank, and fires back a couple of quick one-liners.

De Cordova denies being embarrassed by such stunts, however: "No, I'm not embarrassed. I had an unsuccessful career as an actor before I became a producer, so I don't mind the attention when it comes my way. Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson marks its 28th year on NBC, and you can be sure Fred de Cordova will be there, off-camera, the minion of Carnac the Magnificent.

Film clip funnies of guests Don Rickles, Bob Newhart, Dana Carvey, Deborah Norville and Kirstie Alley will be edited together for the prime-time anniversary special. Other highlights include a "strange acts" segment in which a woman plays a nose flute and a man plays a piano with juggling balls, and a look at the comics that have appeared on the show in the last

No one needs to be told that The Tonight Show is the cessful talk show of all time. and that Carson is the highest paid talk show host. each show. But, says de Cordova of the show's success, "If there is any one single reason, it would be Carson."

Carson couldn't get the job done without the help of de Cordova, though. De Cor-

By Steve Paschal While the National Football League is entering its eighth decade of competition since Fritz Pollard and Elgie Tobin led the Akron Pros to the first championship in 1920, NBC is cele-brating its 26th consecutive season of bringing viewers live coverage of regular and post-season professional football games. Since 1965, NBC Sports has presented every AFL/AFC playoff and championship game and has televised 11 of the 24 Super Bowls played since the old National and American Football Leagues merged. NBC began its tradition of NFL coverage in 1961 by televising Green Bay's 37-0 victory over the New York Giants in the league cham-

Michael Nesmith declined reuniting with The Monkees

By Polly Vonetes Q: Are all the Monkees still alive? What are they doing now? Also what is the name of an old movie starring John Barrymore as Gramps and Beulah Bondi as Grandma, who are raising their grandson Pug, and Gramps accidentally traps "Death" in an apple tree? —Linda Mitchell, Griffith, Ind.

A: As of this writing the Monkees are all alive. Mickey Dolenz, David Jones and Peter Thorkelson came out of retirement about four years ago and resumed their careers together. They are on tour, traveling in separate buses with their families. Mike Nesmith. now a producer of videos and films, chose not to join the tour. Incidentally he inherited at least $25 million from his mother, who invented liquid paper. The film you requested is called On Borrowed Time. It was released in 1939 by MGM and also starred Cedric Hardwicke, Una Merkel and Bobs Watson. Q: I just had to write this letter to you and wanted to know if by chance I could get the address of Arnold Schwarzenegger. He was town not very far from Graz, Austria. That is where I was born 83 years ago. I heard Entertainment Tonight and he told the people about himself. I sure would be grateful for this. -Mrs. Hilda Bolin, Aztec,

A: The address I have for Arnold Schwarzenegger is: P.O. Box 1234, Santa Monica, CA 90406. I hope this works for you. Q: I watch Blair Brown in Days And Nights Of Molly Dodd on Lifetime. On the show, she used to work in a bookstore for a man named last name? I can't remember

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22) New plans will thrive this week and you will feel very lucky. Remember that plans only work when there is action behind them and you have what it takes to make it happen.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21) Trust and act on your instincts concerning personal matters this week. Add the final touches to travel plans to ensure a safe and comfortable trip.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21) You should be careful not to act too drastically in the presence of children or the elderly. You will frighten and worry them. It is time to experience new environments.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19) Quick decisions are likely to get you into trouble this week. Think things through carefully and know that the answer is right there in your head AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18) Don't let your domestic environment get you down. Ask for help, even demand it if you must. Family members don't realize how much pressure you are under. Tell them!

PISCES (February 19 - March 20) Don't cater to worries this week, they just cause negative energy. Agreements or proposals at work will get the green light and you will be successful in your endeavors. ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Communication takes the spotlight this week. Verbal and written words can have a serious impact on your future, and it is important that you check all facts and figures twice. TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Time spent alone will allow you to think more freely and clearly about problems that have been nagging you lately. GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Financial undertakings should be well thought out. Get an expert's opinion if you are unsure about anything. It is important for you to feel a part of a team this week. CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Determination and persistence will pay off in big ways this week. Though it is sometimes difficult for you to understand a loved one's denial, it is important to try LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Head for the straight and narrow this week and don't deviate from the plan. There are certain things that must be accomplished, and you will do it in record time. VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Mikulski Backs Anti-Profiteering Act Of 1990

A bill to restrict gasoline price gouging and other profiteering was introduced last week in the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives. Responding to gasoline price hikes following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, the National Emergency Anti-Profiteering Act of 1990 would give the President the power to declare a national economic emergency and impose civil and criminal penalties for price gouging on essential commodities. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-MD), who cosponsored the bill, noted that "within hours of Irag's assault on Kuwait, oil companies were raiding American pocketbooks.

"If you are stealing from the American people," Senator Mikulski said, "whether you use a gas pump or a gun, you ought to do hard time." She went on to call for "economic patriotism" from the private sector, saying that "we drew a line in the sand to protect American lives and hostages, and we should draw a line in the law to protect our own pocket-

The Bushnell 7 x 35 binoculars will be used by the coordinators when responding to Hazmat incidents or spills. Chuck Wood, leader of the group, stated, "When responding to chemical spills or accidents involving dangerous substances, it is imperative that our people know exactly what they are dealing with. The binoculars, donated by Bausch and Lomb, will allow them to safely read the content placards on trains or truck tankers at a safe distance, assuring an appropriate response without endangering fire or rescue personnel." Federal legislation, enacted in 1986, requires that all counties in the nation develop emergency response hazardous material plans. In Allegany County, this task has been undertaken by a planning group led by Carl Belt Jr. and endorsed by the Allegany County Commissioners. Their plan calls for hazardous material coordinators to assist local fire departments and rescue services in the management of hazardous spills until designated teams can respond from outside the area to provide definite containment and clean up. ### Mikulski Backs Bill To Extend Industrial Bonds

Maryland U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski has announced that she is the cosponsor of a bill to extend for five years the small issue industrial development bond pro-

Under provisions of the law small and medium size businesses can obtain financing at less than market rates through government sponsored taxexempt bond issues. State and local governments issue taxexempt revenue bonds to raise the funds that are in turn loaned to businesses to finance construction of new plants or the expansion and modernization of existing facilities. The program will expire September 30 unless Congress acts to extend it. This is a great program for Maryland," Senator Mikulski 'It's tested, proven and effective. For a few dollars in lost tax revenue, we get new jobs, a stronger economy, and a jump start in the competitive world marketplace. That's an investment I don't want to

The Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) has urged the state's congressional delegation to support extension of the bond program.

In a letter to Senator Mikulski and other members of the Maryland delegation in Congress, Benjamin L. Hackerman, executive director of the Maryland Industrial Development Financing Authority, said, "It is critical that we get this program extended. It is an important economic development tool that has helped create literally thousands of jobs in our state

As an example of the job growth possible through use of Small Issue Industrial Development Bonds, Hackerman said that a Baltimore City bakery was able to increase employment by 65 jobs after receiving a $1.9 million expansion loar under the program

Senator Mikulski joined as a cosponsor of legislation introduced by Senator Richard Bryan, (Democrat, Nevada) She joins 23 cosponsors. A companion bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Ronnie Flippo (Democrat, Alabama).

The program was first introduced under a bill enacted in 1986 and extended last year for nine months. It is estimated that the lost tax revenues under the proposed bill will be $10 million in the first year and up to $600 million over a period of five years. The lost revenue will be more than offset by busines and employment taxes resulting from economic expansion stimulated by the program

Maryland Closes Year With $4.5 Million Surplus

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the state of Maryland closed fiscal year 1990 on June 30, 1990, with an unobligated general fund surplus of $4,567,108. The state collected 99.5% of the revenue it expected. The remaining revenue necessary to pay for state expenditures came from the previous year's funds and unspent fiscal year 1990 funds reverted to the treasury by state agencies.

"This is the first time since fiscal year 1983 that revenue collections have not quite met estimates, but it shows the importance of maintaining a surplus in good years to help the state meet its obligations in more uncertain times." Goldstein said. "A 99.5% accurate revenue estimate is outstanding considering the uncertainties in the economy that have developed during the past fiscal

The fiscal year 1990 surplus resulted largely from higher than expected revenue from the state lottery, the tax on insurance companies, financial recoveries from hospital patients and sponsors and death

Goldstein cautioned, how- & loan credit tightening, which ever, that Maryland's economy and revenues were affected in the second half of the fiscal year by slowing construction activity, consumer confidence and spending, banking and savings state lottery revenues exceeded estimates by more than $11 million, totaling almost $311.3 million in revenue for the fiscal

"While Maryland's broadbased economy helps to shield us from the dramatic economic ups and downs experienced by many of our sister states, the national economic conditions resulted in lower than expected revenue from corporation income tax, sales and use tax, individual income tax and interest on investments," Goldstein said.

Corporation income tax revenue was $27.3 million less than expected, reflecting a combination of the national corporate profits picture and refunds paid to corporations because of loss carryback provisions of Maryland tax law, which generate additional refunds of state

Sales and use tax also produced less than expected revenue, with the general merchandise and furniture, fixtures and appliances categories showing less and less growth as the fiscal year unfolded. The building and contractors category showed only slight growth throughout the year, posting actual declines in January and February 1990, compared with the same months of the previous year.

'The continuing concern about the national economy, together with the uncertainties of the Persian Gulf situation, make it necessary for us to monitor revenues especially closely over the next several months, and conserve the state's financial resources, just as we would our own," Goldstein concluded.

Building Permits Down Across Md.: Up In Garrett Co.

While the overall number of permits issued for new construction in Maryland for the first seven months of 1990 has decreased only slightly, applications for permits for singlefamily construction have dropped by more than 12 percent, signaling a slowing economy, according to the Maryland Office of Planning.

Recent data released by the office show that during the January-July reporting period of this year, 21,670 permits were issued for new housing construction in Maryland. The 1990 total represents an eight-tenths of a percent decrease compared to the same reporting period in 1989 when 21,834 permits were issued.

A total of 15,078 permits for single-family homes were issued during January-July in 1990, 12.1 percent fewer than the 17,158 issued during the same 1989 reporting period. During the 1980s, single-family housing construction accounted for about 80 percent of all new hous ing construction, but for the first seven months of 1990 only 69.6 percent of all construction was for single-family homes.

In Garrett County, there was a 36.3% increase in total housing unit activity over the past year, in contrast to the statewide drop. The total number of housing permits for the January-July 1990 period was 27-8, as compared to the 204 issued in the same period in 1989. The number of single-family home building permits rose by 10 from 192 in 1989 to 202 in 1990. This is an increase of 5.2%. However, the percentage of single-family home permits to total permits went down from 94.1% in 1989 to 72.7% in 1990.

'For the past several months economists have been forecasting a slower economy. The drop in single-family housing construction activity is tangible evidence of a slowdown in this sector of our economy," Office of Planning Director Ronald M.

The decrease in overall permit authorizations would have been significantly larger had it not been for a surge of units authorized for construction of multi-family structures during January. In January a total of 3,283 units were authorized, approximately ten times the normal January rate

This surge in multi-family unit authorizations appears to have been influenced by federal housing legislation requiring new multi-family housing to include specific design elements to enhance the building's accessibility. The large number of January authorizations may indicate some builders decided to proceed under previous regu-

"That last minute rush accounted for permits for about 2,500 new units. Without those added units the overall number of permits would have decreased significantly during the reporting period," Kreitner

County Deputies Teach D.A.R.E. In Area Schools

In an effort to combat drug abuse among children, the nationally acclaimed D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program has been added to the agenda of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies Randy Shaffer and Randy Sines have recently completed 80 hours of specialized training and are now certified to teach the D.A.R.E. program. which instructs elementary school students how to refuse drugs and alcohol. The officers will go into sixth grade classrooms every week for 17 weeks to complete the course. D.A.R.E. lessons focus on four major areas: providing accurate information about alcohol and drugs, teaching students decision-making skills, showing them how to resist peer pressure, and giving them ideas for alternatives to drug use.

The D.A.R.E. program is designed to be taught by streetwise police officers who have seen how drugs and alcohol can destroy lives and who can answer students' questions, based on their training and experience.

In addition to being experienced police officers, Sines and Shaffer were instructed in teaching techniques, elementary school operations, the use of visual aids, officer-student relationships, communication skills, child development, and classroom management.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Garrett County Schools, expects 500 students from the Southern and Northern Middle Schools to go through the D.A.R.E. program this year. The lessons began at Northern Middle on Monday. Since the program's inception

The program, called D.A.R.E. ### President Bush Proclaims Farm Safety Week

President George Bush, in proclaiming the week of September 16 through 22 as National Farm Safety Week, has called for a priority commitment to safety and health by those who live and work on the nation's farms and ranches, and for stronger support for community health and safety programs by agricultural organizations.

In his proclamation, the president said: "The abundance of low-cost, high-quality food and fiber produced by farmers and ranchers is vital to sustaining the health and wellbeing of the American people, as well as the nation's econimic productivity competitiveness."

Tragically, those Americans engaged in agricultural production continue to bear a high rate of accidental death, injury, and illness. The costs in terms of lost productivity are enormous; the toll in personal suffering and loss is immeasurable Advances in science and technology have made agricultural tools and chemicals safer, but these advances alone cannot eliminate all the safety risks of farming, President Bush said. According to National Safety Council estimates for 1989, agricultural work-related accidents resulted in 1,300 deaths and 120,000 disabling injuries. Many illnesses and chronic health

Concentration Climbed In '89

U.S. Meat Packer

From wooden feedlot fences to aluminum farrowing houses, uneasiness echoes through the livestock industry due to a growing concentration of the meat-processing business among this nation's top meat packers.

A look at current USDA market-share percentages reveals the reason for concern. Preliminary 1989 figures show the four largest beef packers controlled 70 percent of U.S. fed cattle slaughter. That's up 20 percent from 1985. The top four hog packers command 34 percent of the market, up only 2 percent from 1985. However, hog slaughter concentration is expected to increase due to expansion among the top four, while smaller plants close their doors.

Concentration among the four largest sheep and lamb slaughterers rose from 51 percent to the latest figure of 77 percent.

The increase of market share held by the four largest packers for each livestock class follows an unprecedented period of mergers and consolidation in the packing industry, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In testimony submitted this summer to the Senate Nutrition and Investigations Subcommittee, AFBF President Dean Kleckner stated packer concentration could reduce the number of livestock buyers and increase packer leverage on short-term supplies.

Decisions by major packers to expand feeding in their own feedlots or use forward contracts to guarantee supplies compounds this issue. Last year, the four top beef firms owned or controlled "captive supplies" of 24.9 percent of the steers and heifers they slaughtered. That's an increase of 4.4 percent from 1988.

This summer's hearing stopped short of a call for action against the largest meat packers, but it did order renewed government monitoring

Respect Free Enterprise

Buyer competition is not a problem for Nebraska farmer/cattle feeder Paul Ruwe. He can sell his cattle to several major packing firms. Though he supports continued monitoring of packer-concentration, he also says we must take the bad with the good in the free-enterprise system.

"That's the way it's got to work," he says. "You can't always legislate things. That tends to cause more trouble for yourself than before the government became involved."

Chairman of the AFBF Beet Cattle Advisory Committee Ruwe's cattle operation near Arlington, Neb. has a one-time head capacity of 600-650 Though he's only about 30 miles from the nearest slaughter facility, he's not always the big winner in the free-enterprise game. He says big packers in his area tend to give premiums to bigger feedyards, which can supply 3,000-4,000 head at a While people may not like it, had we not had some concentration, we may not have any packing companies left," he said. 'They had to do that (increase efficiency) to give us some profit opportunities.'

AFBF policy calls for continued monitoring of packer concentration and other trends in the meat packing industry which could derail natural marketing competition. Farm Bureau also supports more aggressive enforcement of antitrust laws pertaining to packer mergers, market concentration and packer feeding

A study, supported by allied livestock producer and marketing organizations, including AFBF, will take shape later this year to analyze the impact packer-owned and controlled livestock - through vertical integration and forward contracting - have on cash market prices.

Markets Diminishing

Meanwhile, an earlier Farm Bureau survey discovered the number of markets and slaughter facilities has plunged. The survey of livestock producers in 14 states discovered that slightly more than onethird of the producers had more than two potential buyers half of what was available just five years earlier.

During those five years, 683 slaughter facilities, 372 dealer and order buyers, 217 auction barns and three terminal markets went out of business.

Experts say concentration currently plays into the livestock producer's hands. According to the USDA, increased slaughter capacity, coupled with reduced livestock numbers, now forces packers to seek available slaughter animals. This boosts prices paid to farmers and ranchers.

Glenn Grimes, professor emeritus in the University of Missouri's agricultural economics department, agrees. He says, up till now, packer concentration has been positive for farmers and ranchers. He estimates the hog market currently benefits anywhere from 50 cents to $1 per hundred-weight. However, he questions whether this will hold true once livestock supplies hit the up

'You're always concerned when you have substantial concentration," Grimes says. Some people are worried packers will get together and use that economic muscle to their own advantage. I don't even trust myself with too much economic muscle."

Grimes is concerned markets and small packers in fringe livestock-producing states could be squeezed out of business by narrow profit margins, easily swallowed by large efficient firms. A loss of local markets would be bad news for hog farmers in those areas. Concentration in hog slaughter could result in the concentration of hog production itself.

around $53 farmers can afford to truck those hogs 300-400 miles and still make money," Grimes says. "What's going to happen a year from now, if we continue to expand production and find ourselves with hog prices pushed below $45? If you are located in one of those fringe areas, and your cost of production is average ($45-$47), the washout of those local markets is going to make it more difficult to benefit."

'When there are small supplies, those efficiencies go to producers," he says. "A year from now, when we're likely to have substantially more hogs, the consumer will probably

Even though concentration in the packing industry has its benefits, Grimes is not convinced it will be good for the livestock industry in the long run. Eventually, slaughter capacity and livestock production will meet. He fears larger packers then will be tempted to widen their own margins at the expense of producers and consumers.

That is where the Packers and Stockyards Administration steps in, but Grimes contends that may be too late.

'They haven't done very much considering what has happened to cattle. We have let it go to the (four-firm, 70-percent) point because of overcapacity," he says. "I don't want it to get to the point to where I can prove (price leveraging). Then, it's too late. We know, based on history, that when we get too concentrated people have taken advantage

According to Calvin

Watkins, deputy administrator for the Packers and Stockyards Administration, a violation of the Packers and Stockyards Act occurs when any firm uses its marketing power to control prices or restrict competition. Presently, he says, no evidence exists to suggest violations. But, he believes four firms controlling 70 percent of all U.S. fed cattle slaughter represents enough market power to potentially control prices

"The question is whether they will, whether they can and whether they want to take the risk," he said.

If they did seek to control livestock and meat prices, violators would be up against anti-trust laws. Such laws, however, are designed to only guarantee competition, not the number of competitors. Watkins also says Americans today do not believe artificial growth limits should be placed on firms. Just because it's big doesn't mean that Actually, the Packers and Stockyards Administration, an arm of the USDA, is only part of the enforcement team in the meat industry. If there is a complaint, the Packers and Stockyards Administration provides information and assistance to the Justice Department, which ultimately decides whether or not to challenge the action.

Farm Bureau favors a more active, decision-making role in these matters for the Packers and Stockyards Administration. Watkins says people in agriculture, especially producers, are more comfortable with the Department olf Agriculture than they are with the Justice in the cardboard box? Selling a home at the best possible price requires the same planning, preparation and showcasing. Remember, buyers will be looking for a "castle." a home which matches their perception of the "home of their dreams." To attract and hold their attention, your home must match their mental picture of that ideal home.

Start by making necessary repairs and improvements before your home is ever shown. If painting is needed - do it! If screens are torn or windows cracked - replace them! Uncorrected defects are open invitations for low offers on the home.

Next, start packing. Pack away all extra clothing. 'bric-a-brac,' and other unneeded closet contents. Stack all packed items neatly in the garage. The home will appear more roomy as a result. Clean the home from A to Z, creating a fresh, cared-for appearance. Eliminate any need to apologize for unmade beds, dirty dishes or closets stuffed to the

Six-State Crop Farmer Meeting Scheduled In Harrisburg Area

A two-way satellite TV teleconference exchange with agricultural economists from Ohio State University will highlight this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. Traditional speakers from four other land-grant universities and the Soil Conservation Service will help carry out the conference theme, "Sharpening Skills for the Next Decade. The 17th annual day-long event is scheduled Dec. 12 at the Penn Harris Convention Center in Camp Hill, Pa. Nearly 800 crop farmers from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia are expected to attend. Activities will run from 8:30 a.m. to 3:40 p.m.

As in past years, the conference is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in the six participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives. More than 30 commercial exhibits are expected.

Dr. Ronald L. Ritter, agronomy weed control specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, will lead off the morning program with a presentation on "The Latest in Chemical Weed Control."

Then, conference participants will have their choice of attending one of three concurrent breakout sessions on up-to-date topics. Topic areas and speakers are as follows:

Production agriculture: "Ridge Tillage: Is It for the Mid-Atlantic Region?" - Dr. William J. Cox, Extension agronomist, Cornell; "Western Corn Rootworm" - Dr. John J. Tollefson, entomology researcher at Iowa State University; "Soil Nitrogen Test Update" - Dr. Douglas B. Beegle, Extension agronomy soil specialist, Penn State.

Environmental concerns: "Nitrogen Leaching Losses" -Dr. Richard H. Fox, professor of soil fertility at Penn State University; "Wetlands/Sod-busting Regulations" - Barry Isaacs, state biologist, Pennsylvania Soil Conservation Service; "Protecting Groundwater" - Scott A. Harrison, pesticide education coordinator, Penn State University.

Commercial update: Commercial exhibitors at the conference have been invited to make three- to five-minute presentations on new products or recent developments of interest to farmers. A limited number will be selected on a first-come, first-served basis. Lynn D. Hoffman, director of Penn State agronomy research center, is the coordinator

The afternoon program will start off with the TV satellite teleconference from Ohio State. A panel of agricultural economists will present a 30-minute "Agritrends" commentary. This will be followed by 30 minutes of questions and answers involving participants in the Mid-Atlantic conference and the ag economists at Ohio State. H. Louis Moore, an Extension marketing specialist at Penn State, will be the moderator.

Closing out the day will be an economic presentation on "Surviving in the 90's" and a repeat of the morning breakout sessions. This will give individuals an opportunity to hear speakers in two of the three

Trees & Shrubs Now is the recommended time to plant or transplant trees and shrubs. This is because woody plants put forth active root growth in the fall until soil temperatures drop below 40 degrees F. Deciduous plants may be successfully planted or transplanted through October. The winter dormancy gives newly planted trees and shrubs a chance to become established before next summer. Evergreens should be transplanted early in the fall so they have enough time to get their roots established for winter.

When selecting shade trees from a nursery, look for a quality specimen. A quality shade tree will have a central leader that is straight without narrow branch angles and foliage that is normal in size with good color. When selecting container grown stock avoid trees and shrubs that are too large for their containers.

Often they are severely pot bound with twisted roots that may later become girdling roots. Loosen and cut free roots of container grown stock. This is done by making several shallow cuts down the side of the root ball and across the bottom. Spread the roots open to encourage outward growth. Balled and burlapped stock does not require this treatment. The cord and position. Wire baskets often used on larger trees should also be cut after the tree is placed into the planting hole. The staking and tieing of newly planted trees is no longer recommended.

Research has shown that moderate trunk movement stimulates root growth into the surrounding soil. Occasionally a tree planted in a very windy site may require loose bracing to hold the tree

Coverts Cooperators Ready To Volunteer Assistance To Landowners

Teaching the roughly 96,000 woodland owners in Maryland the benefits of forest management is no easy task, but a the state who can help friends, group of 30 volunteers representing 11 counties, trained by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES), are bringing that goal one step closer.

The volunteers are woodland owners and managers who attended a forestry and wildlife management workshop offered by MCES and the Ruffed Grouse Society, September 6-9, as part of a new outreach program called the Coverts Proj-

Attending the workshop from Garrett County were six "coverts cooperators," Alan Arnson, Frank Ross, Donald Hoecker, C.W. "Sonny" Newhall, E. Marshall Stacy, and Al Walcek.

The word "covert" means a thicket that provides sheltering habitat for wildlife, and through classroom training and visits to outside demonstration areas, the volunteers learned firsthand how good forest management practices can improve wildlife habitat for game and non-game species, while enhancing timber growth, aesthetics, and other benefits. These "coverts cooperators" are now ready to share what they learned with other woodland owners and managers in their communities. "Research shows that many woodland owners will not seek the advice of professionals, but will listen to a friend," says

Many landowners believe the best way to benefit the wildlife and the forest is to do nothing with their land, but that's not necessarily true, says local woodland owner C.W. "Sonny" Newhall from Oakland.

"An active management program that includes sound tree cutting and planting practices will produce a diversity of tree growth habitats, increasing wildlife populations and enhancing other benefits," he explains. COVERTS COOPERATORS — Garrett County coverts cooperators, University of Maryland Cooperative Extension agents, Maryland Forest, Parks, and Wildlife service project foresters and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service personnel are eager to help landowners use proper forest management to increase the woodlot and wildlife potential of their land. The six Garrett county coverts cooperators recently attended a forestry and wildlife management w nsored by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Ruffed Grouse Society to learn firsthand how good forest management practices can improve wildlife habitat for game and nongame species, while enhancing timber growth. They came home ready to share what they learned with other woodland owners and managers in this area. Pictured above, front row left to right, are Ernie Metz, Maryland Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service project forester; Alan Arnson, coverts cooperator; Frank Ross, coverts cooperator; Donald Hoecker, coverts cooperator; Sonny Newhall, coverts cooperator and president of the Allegany Chapter Ruffed Grouse Society; back row, same order, Terry DeWitt, Maryland Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service wildlife technician; Wade Dorsey, Maryland Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service assistant project forester; Ted Sprangel, Garrett County Cooperative Extension agent; E. Marshall Slacy, coverts cooperator; and Al.Walcek, coverts cooperator. Not pictured is Mike Kozier, ASCS executive director.

Convicted Rapist Given 10 Years By Judge Thaver

An Oakland man charged with second-degree rape was sentenced to 10 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections by Fred A. Thayer, Judge of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Robert D. Smith, 22, allegedly raped a 14-year-old female in December 1989. Smith originally pleaded not guilty to the charge, then changed his plea to guilty at an August trial, at which time the plea was accepted and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Thayer.

The judge did not suspend any of the 10-year sentence, and Smith was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff.

Defense counsel for Smith was Robert C. Hesson.

Duane C. Bolyard, 25, Oakland, pleaded guilty to the charge of false imprisonment, one of several charges brought against him, including kidnapping, reckless endangerment, and assault and battery.

Judge Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation, which is to be completed on or before Novem-

Bolyard's charges stem from an incident in April when he reportedly dragged a woman out of a place of business, and forced her into his vehicle. He drove to a dirt road, stopped the vehicle and hit the victim repeatedly, and then apparently took her to his home. Later he tried to transport the woman out of state, when he was stopped by a deputy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, at which time he was arrested. The woman sustained minor injuries during the altercation, according to reports. Defense for Bolyard was Robert C. Hesson.

Ray F. Fulk, Jr., 29, Bayard, W.Va., was sentenced to the Maryland Dept. of Corrections for three years on the charge of distribution of cocaine

Fulk was arrested following Backbone Mtn. Inn/Bear's Den. located off of U.S. Rt. 50, near

Richard F. Green defended Fulk.

Judge Thayer accepted a guilty plea to possession of marijuana from Raymond L. Rutter, 25, McHenry.

Rutter was found in possession of the controlled dangerous substance in March of this year after being stopped on Spear Road near Accident.

The defendant was sentenced to time already served, which was six days in April.

Board Of Ed. Asks Commissioners For More SHS Renovation Funds

Representatives of the Garrett County Board of Education met with the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday to request more money for the Southern High School renovation project.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools, told the commissioners that two alternatives are outstanding in the project, and that a decision must be made regarding them. Ryscavage said the school board felt "very very strongly" about the need for the alternatives

The first item Ryscavage discussed was a storage area for athletic purposes. The area was in the original renovation plan, but construction was suspended when budget difficult At present, the building is financially impossible.

"At this juncture, we have absolutely no place to store athletic athletic equipment," Ryscavage said. "This will pose

Butscher Reacts To Opponent's Write-In Quest

The recently elected District Three Republican candidate for Garrett County Commissioner, Brenda Butscher, Oakland, last week issued a statement regarding the decision by incumbent county commissioner, Ernest J. Gregg Jr., to conduct a write-in campaign in the upcoming November general election, stating that she won the primary election "fair and square.

Butscher defeated Gregg by a vote of 1,575-1,484 in the primary election. "I ran a clear campaign based on facts and issues," she stated, adding, "A number of grass roots people, both Republican and Democrat, worked hard on my campaign. They are ready to work again and I have picked up support that I didn't have in the

Butscher said she realized Gregg was having a difficult time accepting defeat in the primary election because he failed to call and congratulate her. "A gentleman and a politician knows that is the proper procedure," she stated.

She continued, "The voter turnout was better than average for primary elections, and I won the election fair and square. I am the Republican Party's choice for county commissioner in District Three.' Butscher also said that she has campaigned for "open government," a fact, she said,

for the area, and the bids were rejected. What we are proposing no is to construct an overall 'shell' of the area, including floor joists, the floor, and three doors two stairwell doors, one doub door for the acceptance of

There will be no electricity, no paint. We are simply interested in getting the basic shell of the space, which will be completed over time," Ryscavage

The cost of the construction has been estimated at $29,100. The second alternative Ryscavage described was the ridors between the middle wing and the machine shop, as well as out to the vocational-agriculture building

The entire corridor project was estimated at a cost of $200,000. The board rejected the bid, and is now requesting $13,700 of the commissioners. Continued on Page A-15

Bambacus Touts Savage River For 1996 Olympics

Senator John N. Bambacus, World Champinships, Inc. president, said that with the recent news that Atlanta, Georgia has been designated as the site for the 1996 Olympics, the Savage River should be considered as the venue for the Canoe/Kayak Slalom competi-

In a letter to Governor William Donald Schaefer, Barnbacus said, "Sports is big business, and this would be the perfect opportunity for Maryland to be showcased internationally. Maryland has proven itself to be able to handle such international, olympic events and is presently being considered as the site for the 1991 U.S. Team trials prior to the Olympics in Barcelona,

In addition, Senator Bambacus has been in contact with the Sports Promotion Division of the State Department of Tourism and Promotion, to encourage the support of Maryland as the site for these races and perhaps other sports venues as well. Bambacus and Don Storck, Executive Director of WCI, recently met Secretary C. Randall Evans, Department of Economic and Employment Development, and Secretary Torrey C. Brown, Department of Natural Resources, to discuss future adventure sports possibilities, as well as the Olympic trials.

SHS Renovation Status Update Given By Board

Four contracting firms are currently on site at Southern High School with Carl Belt, Inc., general contractor, coordinating the demolition work and construction, according to a spokesman from the Garrett County Board of Education

Demolition has been completed on the greenhouse, and is 98 percent completed in the A-wing and the first floor west of the main building, according to a press release.

Jimmy Railey Selected For 12th Annual Bud Light Ironman Triathlon

A Garrett County athlete has 4,000 applicants to compete in the 12th annual Bud Light Ironman Triathlon World Championship, slated for October 6 in Hawaii

Jimmy Railey, McHenry, will join other top triathletes from over 46 countries in this event, the most prestigious triathlon in the world. The gruelling competition consists of a 2.4-mile ocean swim, a 112-mile bike race, and a full marathon (26.2-mile) run, all of which must be completed within 17 hours.

Training for the race typically requires 18 to 24 hours per week for six to eight months to develop the stamina and endurance needed to complete the 140.6-mile event.

Railey has been competing in sport of triathlon for the past four years and has emerged as one of the top triathletes in the area. After placing among the top 15 racers in events last year, Railey has three second place finishes to his credit this year: in the Best of the West Triathlon in Oakland, the Hagerstown Hawk Triathlon, been selected from more than and the Westmoreland Triathlon in Pennsylvania.

Railey said he has trained extensively for the 1990 Ironman and says his main goal is simply to finish the event.

'There are many environmental factors in the Iron man which have to be considered," he said. "The surf can be calm or very rough, the winds can be gusty which make it very difficult on the bike, and the heat is always a big factor for the run.

Railey and his wife, Nancy, will leave this Friday for Hawaii so he will have a week to get adjusted to the tropical climate. They plan to remain there for another week after the Ironman "just to relax and have a real vacation," according to Nancy.

Our Legacy

By worldly standards Dad's life was not a success. He possessed nothing of material value, nor was he surrounded by friends in high places. What then did he leave us? He left us values to sustain us in difficult times. To deal fairly with everyone, to do our best, never to stop learning . . . or caring for people. To be dreamers and to hope for the impossible. Never to forget how to laugh. If we can live by these principles, he will be at rest and know his life was not in vain. Dad earned the love and respect we have given him. No man can do better than

A spokesman from the County Roads Department said a vehicle inspection of the truck had been conducted by the State Police and was termed a "freak accident."

"It's just one of those things

A Note From Home . . .

Tension is mounting daily in the Persian Gulf as Saddam Hussein maintains his grip on Kuwait while George Bush and most of the rest of the world leaders continue to insist that he must return that nation to its rightful owners. While we hope and pray for a peaceful solution, it seems right now that war is almost inevitable.

As more and more of our young people depart for that area, those of us at home may wonder if there is anything we can do to assist with the mission there. Teachers at Broad Ford Elementary School shared an idea with us this past week that we think is a winner. They plan to have their students write letters to the local soldiers now stationed in Saudi Arabia. We want to assist them with this project by collecting and publishing the addresses of our service people. We encourage parents to call us with that information so we can begin our list in next week's issue.

Morale is a major key to success in any undertaking, whether it be one's job, in taking a test, in playing a football game, and certainly in any type of war effort. In many of the recent news reports on our soldiers in the Gulf it is mentioned how important it is to them that they receive mail from home. This is one easy way each of us can get involved, and truly make a positive difference in this crisis. The school students in Garrett County alone could supply several thousand letters, not only to Garrett County soldiers, but to many others who may not be receiving any other communication from home. Teachers could even use this as an instructional tool in writing.

We'll supply the addresses. We hope all our readers will supply the letters to send a message of pride, hope, and encouragement to our youth who have been charged with such awesome responsibility.

Letter Policy

EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters to the Editor encouraging persons to vote for a particular candidate or against a particular candidate will not be published in The Republican. Persons may still submit letters which voice an opinion about decisions made by our elected officials, but those written in the form of an endorsement for or against candidates in the November general election will not be accepted.

To the Editor:

I am appalled after reading the recent letter to the Editor from Ronald Rowan that characterized my running for ounty commissioner as some kind of devious plot to get the incumbent re-elected.

am appalled for two reasons. First, it is disturbing to find out that there is a person in this county who could not under-stand why I decided to run for office. I certainly did not run because I needed a job or because needed the money. I ran for office because I believe that I have some new and fresh ideas that will help Garrett County grow in the coming decade. Of course, I said that in all of my ads, but Mr. Rowan probably didn't believe me. People who have a hard time telling the truth have a hard time beieving the truth! Second, Mr. Rowan's letter is disturbing because I cannot imagine that he could be so narrow-minded, so uninformed, one-sided, and so unfair. I believe Mr. Rowan is simply a upe of another candidate. Perhaps he is living in some kind of fantasy world in which everyone he doesn't know or like is an evil person with evious motives. Mr. Rowan should wake up and think a little bit. If I wanted to insure a victory by the incumbent, wouldn't I campaign FOR him rather than run AGAINST him? What kind of logic is that, Mr. Rowan?

I have been a resident in Garrett County for more than 20 years. In that time, I have watched this county go through bust and boom, through good times and bad. I decided this year to exercise my right as an American citizen and run for public office. Since Mr. Rowan has absolutely no idea what is happening in his own backyard, I will have to tell him that my campaign cost me a money and time. I don't slander and libel people who are trying improve their county. wanted to conduct a first-class campaign. I believe that I had standing the most professional signs and

If you have decided that you are the "intrepreneurial type," then your next step would be to come up with the right idea for our situation. Keep this in mind: The first year or two will be xciting, but also stressful. The temptation to give up will enter ur mind every day. So, it is vital that your idea be one that at ne level you love doing so much that your energy stays tive. There is even a book titled, "Do What You Love and the

Will Follow." This assumes, of course, (a) that you are what you do, and (b) people will want what you do enough to be it. It is safe to say that you should stay with something you alrea know a lot about and love to do. writers do advise that you look at your hobbies to see if you car ake a living doing them full-time. The potential downside is the you may end up hating doing for a living what you used for fun. Hobbies often serve the purpose of balancing our regula bs, so if we quit the job to do the hobby, what balances the obby? Still, you have to have your whole heart in your busines: As Joseph Campbell wrote, "Follow your bliss."

It is always best to work in your chosen field before opening a business on your own. You may not like it as much as you thought, scover this on someone else's nickel. If you are such to already be working at a job you like doing, but want to do it for yourself, you're way ahead of the game. Your job has served as paid on-the-job-training, and your success will be much more likely.

Then your old boss may become your competitor. Look at all your competition: Is there from for one more? In general you will be better off not going head-to-head with lower prices.

Customers are perhaps not as loyal as they used to be, but they are creatures of habit, difficult to sway your way. It is better to do things better, to offer more service with your product or more product with your service, to offer different lines or styles, upscale or down from your rivals. Entrenched businesses and chain stores can always beat your price. Your niche will best be found by treating your customers like royalty and doing your thing slightly differently and a whole lot better than anyone else.

The Mind Wanders

Oscillating Fans

by John R. McEwen

I have recently had the opportunity to attend two football games at my old alma mater (West Virginia University), those being the Maryland and Louisville games. In other words, I got to watch WVU lose twice in a row. But it's been so long since I've been able to do this, I don't mind their losing; I'm behind the team no matter how they play. I consider myself a devoted fan.

At least I did, until I saw some of the people at the games who undoubtedly call themselves "fans" too. I began to wonder, as I gazed incredulously at these people, if I was behaving properly

The truth is, I haven't been to that many football games in my life (my wife often has to tell me what's going on), and I'm not sure about what is the proper "stadium etiquette." Is this the way Mountaineer fans are supposed to act?

First there was the lady beside us at the Maryland game. This was a middle-aged woman, sort of stoutish, very short, with a cigarette lit throughout the entire game, and vocal nodes. I mean she must have had vocal nodes from the way she was screaming. Sort of a Roseanne Barr type shriek.

And she didn't have one good thing to say about the team. The only way I could tell she was on our side was that she was wearing blue and gold.

"Come on, Mountaineers!" Roseanne shouted. "What's the matter, didn't have your Wheaties today?! What kind of defense is that? Morgantown High could beat you guys!" She stopped long enough to light another butt while Maryland punted the ball. "Is she rooting for the same team as we are?" I asked my wife. "I mean, we stopped 'em, didn't we?" "I don't know what her problem is," she said. "Just try to ignore her." But I couldn't help imagining our Roseanne down there on the field, crouched in the quarterback's position, cigarette clenched between her teeth, making the decisions that she felt

Greg Jones was incapable of. But my daydream was cut short by another burst from this would-be MVP

"Oh come on, Greg!!" she howled. "Who're you passing to? There's nobody there!! You're gettin' sloppy!" Then there was a penalty flag. "Oh, there's a penalty," she said. "Better not be against us. We endured this for the entire first half of the game, until we got wise and moved to another location, away from Roseanne. At the Louisville game, we were introduced to another type of "fan." This one certainly could not be accused of heckling the team, as Roseanne did: he was all for them. But I'm not sure he could see them, he was so drunk. The guy came staggering down the steps and into the seat behind us, with a long, unkempt beard, extremely red eyes that looked like they were about to fall out of his head, and belching every few minutes, like Foster Brooks. And, in his hand was, you guessed it, a smoke.

Hey, I'm not trying to make fun of smokers, but these two seemed to be making fun of themselves, albeit unintentionally. Foster started in practically before he hit the seat. We could hardly understand what he was bellowing.

S'go, Mouneeeeees! Tha's the way t'play! C'mon, EEEEEERS!"(burp)

"Maybe I'm not enthusiastic enough at these games," I said. "Please," said my wife. "If you ever get like that, I'm not sitting with you." Suddenly we were enveloped in a cloud of beer breath.

'Less go Moun'neeeeeeeeeerrrrs! Touch. Down. Touch. Down. Touch. Down. Let's getta TeeDeeeee!" Every time he took his cigarette hand up to his mouth, he had to let go of the seat, which caused him to sway scarily, to the chagrin of his immediate neighbors. Each time, we all would involuntarily clench up, expecting to receive him into our laps head first. Luckily, we thought, the cigarette was almost finished.

The ball changed hands, and he changed to a cigar. "Come on, deeeeeefensh! Come on, DEEEEEEE!"

I had to admire him for at least knowing who had possession. "Cummonnnn, Deeeee! Shrep that ball! Shrep that ball!

Shrep. That. Ball. Shrep. That. Ball. Shrep. That. Ball. Shrepatballlll, Mouneeeeeees! What's he saying to do to the ball?" my wife asked.

'I don't know, strip it, I guess," I said. "Oh, Okay," she said. "That makes sense." I shot her a con-

ut didn't pursue it

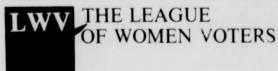

For the rest of the game it went on, with this guy screaming and swaying and burping, only pausing to chew his soggy stogie or mumble something unintelligible to his frightened seatmate. He stayed true, right up until we lost. Only then did he finally clam up.

So I begin to wonder which is the best type to emulate. Is it better to be on top of the game and deride the home team if they do poorly? Or to get plastered in the parking lot and then scream utmost support no matter what happens?

I think I prefer to remain in between.

There is one point that is very important that I clarify. Any reference to the bank is not directed at its employees. They had nothing to do with it. This also applies to anyone con-nected with the Mayor and Town Council who were not involved in what happened. The point I'm making is, some were given preferential treatment by City Hall, including the Garrett National Bank, at the expense of the rest of us

Early Monday morning, I noticed that my parking spa on the front row, next to what used to be the space reserved for the handicapped, (it's no longer there) had been assigned one of the employees of the Mayor and Town Council. It would seem that the whole thing had been prearranged from the beginning I want the Mayor and Town Council, the management of Garrett National Bank, and anyone who "bucked the line" to know that I think it stinks. It was totally unfair to the rest of us and just about as unethical as anything I have ever been involved in, and there is abso lutely no justification for the shabby way it was handled.

Dr. Friend Declared County Winner Of Md. You Are Beautiful Contest

It was announced this week that Dr. Alvin P. Friend, Oakland resident and doctor of dentistry, has been named the winner of Garrett County's fourth annual "Maryland You Are Beautiful" contest.

The anouncement was made by the Garrett County contest committee chairman Dave Turney after the committee reviewed other names submitted for nomination.

Dr. Friend, who will be honored by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer on October 1 and who will be featured in the Autumn Glory parade, October 13, has become wellrecognized, in part, because of his volunteer work in Haiti on several occasions. More information about him will appear in next week's issue.

October is "Maryland You Are Beautiful" month, which will be proclaimed by the Garrett County Commissioners October 2. The state award program will be held in Annapolis October 30.

County Agency Heads Voice Concern Over Census Count Shortfalls

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week heard concerns from various Garrett County agency heads over reported census count shortfalls that could result in a significant loss of grant monies and other funding to county agencies.

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Commission Director John Nelson reported that the preliminary census count for Garrett County is 27,689 which, he said, is subject to change pending the results of a local review by the Planning Com-

The county, he said, as well as the state, is currently contesting several "block counts" and is still awaiting word from the U.S. Census Bureau on how to implement the procedure for contesting a count.

Nelson noted that a 1988 study by the Maryland State Planning Commission had estimated the projected population for Garrett County to be 28,200 in 1990. Garrett County Economic Development Director Tom Jones stated that even that estimate might have been somewhat shortsighted, and pointed out that his office calculated (based on 1980 census figures) that the population would reach approximately 30,500 by 1990. Jones explained that this estimate was determined by his office based on projections from the 24.2 percent increase seen from 1970-1980. Jones stated that an anticipated 12 percent increase from 1980-1990 would yield that 30,500 population pro-

Jones also noted that a number of municipalities, during the last ten-year period, have "suffered real decreases" despite annexations of some of the towns. However, he said, Accident was, for the first time ever, not the smallest town in the county and, in fact, had the most significant increase (42 percent) of the eight municipalities.

The census shortfall is of great concern to Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, and to Robert Shaffer, Department of Social Services director, who are not only experiencing budget cuts and a budget hiring freeze as of September 1 from the Maryland Department of Mental Health and Hygiene in their departments, but who greatly depend on accurate census counts to receive sufficient funding for many of their health and social

We should be able to could see a $12 million loss in future state and federal funding during the next ten years. This was based on a $400 per person, per year allocation. As already mentioned, an additional burden will be felt from the state budget crunch, which amounts to approximately $43 million statewide, according to Archer, who noted that he wasn't sure of the exact monetary impact on the county's system. He did note, however, that various positions will be frozen (especially contractual positions, of which the Health Department has about

In other news from the Health Department, Archer noted that the state is experiencing an increase in infectious diseases, such as pertussis, mumps, hepatitus A and syphillis. So far, he said, this increase is being felt most markedly downstate. but history indicates those trends will reach Western Maryland. One case of pertussis has already been experienced in the county, he said. Archer also reported an increase in the number of persons coming in for AIDS testing. Although there has yet to be an increase in the incidence here, Archer warned that "we have to scheduled to end by the close of the fiscal year. Those positions, he said, are mostly held by Child Support Enforcement Program personnel. He noted that a total of $600,000 was collected in support payments last year.

Community Action Duane Yoder, director of Community Action, explained that his department will also be affected by state budget cuts in the coming fiscal year and he anticipates an eight to nine percent reduction in grant monies. Currently, several grant aplications are on hold, he said. Yoder added that the federal government is "in more of a mess than the state." noting that no budget has been fortheoming from that source. In other news, Yoder stated that the department is searching for a new location for the food warehouse, currently located in the basement of the Southern Rescue Squad building in Oakland. The unheated space, he said, creates problems for the workers there, especially with colder weather approaching. 'We're currently looking for a new place, but we don't have a lot of money for that program,"

Finally, he stated that the Energy Assistance program isnow in operation and several locations have been set up in the northern end of the county to better serve residents there.

Economic Development Economic Development Director Tom Jones reported that hisoffice is currently working with the Garrett County Forestry Board to develop "enterprise activities to help forestry in our area." Part of the Forest Partners program, four projects have been identified to compete for grant monies in that effort.

Gas Prices To Distributors Jump Twice As Fast As To Retailers

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his investigation into gasoline price increases at the distributor level revealed that major oil companies increased prices to distributors by 25.6% from June to August, nearly twice the 14.6% increase to retail service stations directly supplied by major oil company trucks. This investigation was prompted by complaints from distributors and retail service stations they supply following the August 2 invasion of Kuwait and the almost immediate price increases announced by major oil companies.

Comptroller Goldstein's report, furnished to the General Energy Pricing, Governor William Donald Schaefer and Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr., noted, "The amount of price disparity lends credence to arguments that major oil companies are now engaging in discriminatory able to consumers in metropolitan areas primarily served by directly supplied stations compared with consumers in nonmetropolitan areas predominantly served by distributorsupplied stations

While our initial investigation does not disclose this kind of wide retail price disparity, it may be primarily because the major oil companies have begun to exert more of a direct supply presence as the rural areas have grown in population." he said. "This expansion of major oil company direct marketing into major rural areas of the state may be a indicator of the companies' intention to assume those markets by eliminating the jobber/distributor through discriminatory pricing.

'Should the discriminatory pricing policy drive distributors a loss of competition, a loss of service stations, and most certainly a further escalation of prices," Goldstein said.

Schaefer Makes Pro-Abortion Stance Public

After months of refusing to take a public stance on the highly controversial abortion issue, Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer last week announced that, as a public official, he will work to keep abortion widely available in the state although he personally opposes most abortions.

According to reports, Governor Schaefer stated, "Donald Schaefer, the individual, is prolife, but Donald Schaefer, the governor, is pro-choice."

Schaefer indicated that he would not sign any legislation that would prohibit women from making a personal choice about abortion, stating that it is not the role of government to make such decisions.

In addition, he reportedly plans to advocate repeal of the single Maryland abortion law on the books since 1968 - a law allowing abortion only if the woman's health was endangered, the pregnancy was the result of rape or if the fetus showed indications of severe deformity. The Maryland law would also require that those abortions be performed only in a hospital following the approval of a review board.

The law, however, has been unenforceable since 1973 when the Supreme Court ruled that abortion was legal Reports also speculate that Schaefer made his position public in the aftermath of the Maryland primary election that saw several anti-abortion senators defeated by abortion rights opponents and a reported 100,000 votes going to Schaefer's the abortion issue. But Schaefer reported that his position paper on abortion was written in May. That paper reportedly included information about his programs designed to support women facing unwanted pregnancies, and included proposed funds for adoption programs and additional counseling programs for whose position was that government should not be involved in

Schaefer cited his witness to hundreds of alcoholic, AIDS and syphillis babies and teenaged mothers' inappropriate treatment of their babies as part of the impetus for his stance.

Curran Warns About "Energy-Saving Scams

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. is urging Mary-landers to beware of con artists who will try to sell them worth-"energy-saving" devices and phony investments.

Especially as the Middle East Crisis escalates and oil prices increase," Curran said, 'unscrupulous individuals will attempt to exploit the sutuation by taking advantage of consumers and investors.

Curran warned Marylanders to be particularly wary of:

.Claims that a "gadget" will increase a car's gas mileage -According to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), "none of these products has been found to significantly increase fuel economy." The FTC has specifically ordered the manufacturer of one such device, the $12.95 "Ball-Matic Valve," to stop making any fuel-saving

*Claims that a device will reduce home heating bills. The FTC has issued specific warnings about "surge suppressor" and "duty cyclers" which marketers claim reduce unneeded home energy use. These devices, the FTC concluded, "may be costly" and 'have not been proven effective

•Get-Rich-Quick investments in oil, gas, or gold deals. - The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. (NASA) has warned potential investors to be aware of bogus investments in oil and gas development schemes. According to NASA, "Promises of overnight or even short-term profits are almost certainly false." NASA also warns that hasty investments in gold or other precious metals are "much more likely" to turn sour than become safe havens during times of international crisis

Curran also warned Marylanders to be wary of telephone sales pitches for energy-saving gadgets or investments.

"Consumers should rely on serious, proven methods of energy conservation such as checking their home insulation and keeping their cars properly tuned up - rather than looking for the possibility of instant, 'magic' solutions to this serious problem," concluded Curran. Curran.

He also advised consumers to continue to rely on the accurate information available regarding energy efficiency such as EPA mileage reports, the FTC's bright yellow 'Energy Guide' labels on new major home appliances, and the R-Value rating system for measuring the efficiency of

We are deeply grateful to each person for the prayers. thoughts, concerns, cards, visits, and compassion shown to us during the lengthy illness of Wilbur. To all who served us in any way after his reunion with our Lord and Saviour we thank you so much. Your expressions of sympathy through thoughts, prayers, telephone calls, floral tributes memorials, cards, food, and comforting words will indeed be remembered and provide us with strength in the days ahead. Using Wilbur's famous words we say, "May the good Lord take a liking to you." Expressions of love for one another are heavenly investments. All that was done by Christ here on earth

The three of us will miss Wilbur's wit, humor, love, and support. The memories of him will help us to live richer.

Single Parents

Get Tax Breaks

Because of divorce, separation, adoption, death, or choice, many Americans, both men and women, find themselves single parents. They should be aware of special federal income tax provisions that can offer substantial tax breaks, according to the Internal Revenue Ser-

one of the best tax breaks for single parents, the IRS says, is use of the head of household filing status, for those who qualify. In this status, the tax may be lower than that for single taxpayers or married taxpayers filing a separate return.

The following conditions must be met to file as head of household: 1) The parent is unmarried or considered unmarried on the last day of the year. 2) The single parent pays more than half the cost of keeping up his or her home for the year. 3) The home must also be the home of his or her child for more than six months. An unmarried child does not have to be the parent's dependent.

In addition, single parents who have wages, salaries, tips or other earned income may qualify for the earned income credit, which can be refunded if it is more than the taxes owed.

Also, if parents pay someone to care for their children while they work, they may be able to take a credit for child and dependent care expenses.

For more information on these credits, plus additional qualifications for being considered unmarried, head of household, or dependents, persons should see Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax. Publication 17 can be ordered by calling toll-free, 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). (If calling before October 1, 1990, the toll-free number is 1-800-424-3676.

Rams Topped By Applemen In Tough Defensive Effort

In one of the toughest defensive campaigns ever witnessed in Garrett County, the Southern High Rams were worn down in the second half of their game against Musselman Friday night and lost to the Applemen, 15-6. It was the first loss of the season for the Rams (2-1) and the Applemen remained unbeaten, as they stretched their record to 4-0.

Southern got on the board first when quarterback C.J. Getson carried the ball into the end zone untouched from the nine-yard line on a bootleg around the right end. The score came at the 8:23 mark of the second quarter. That would be the Rams' final points of the game. however, although they maintained that 6-0 advantage until late in the third period.

The Rams' 60-yard, nine-play scoring drive began after Mike Freyman picked off a deflected pass at Southern's 40-yard line with 1:08 remaining in the first quarter.

The Rams used an unbalanced offensive line and kept their running game between the tackles, which was effective against the Musselman defense until halftime, when the Applemen coaches adjusted to Southern's plan.

Meanwhile, the Southern defensive unit was tenacious throughout the first half, stopping both Musselman's inside game and stringing them out all along the line of scrimmage whenever Applemen Coach Denny Price tried to get his runners outside

However, with the defensive adjustments by Musselman fense missed on some opporafter halftime and the fact that the Southern defense was on the field so much in the third and fourth quarters, the Ram plan began to buckle midway through the third period.

> The Southern High School varsity volleyball team was defeated twice this past week, falling to visiting Fort Hill on Monday in five games and then losing to Mount Savage last night, 2-1, also in Oakland.

Meanwhile, the Southern junior varsity continued its undefeated streak by topping both the Fort Hill and Mt Savage jayvees and upping their record to 5-0.

The Southern varsity lost the first two games to Fort Hill, 15-10 and 15-5, rallied to win the next two, 15-5 and 15-13, but dropped the deciding game,

The visiting side's bleachers were packed to capacity last Friday night at the Southern High School football field. Musselman's school colors were displayed by nearly every fan. and the noise coming from that side of the field was almost deafening at times. There were signs, and megaphones, and 'terrible towels' waving, and enough enthusiasm for two or three schools. A stranger would have thought that they were the home

Where's The Support?

However, on the real home team's side there were many vacant seats. The total number of Ram fans present was probably not much larger than that for the Applemen. Even more striking was the difference in spirit and enthusiasm displayed by the Southern fans who bothered to attend. There were only occasional bursts of cheering by the majority, many of which occurred following a questionable call by the referees rather than in acknowledgment of a good play or as encouragement for the Rams on the field. There seemed to be only a casual interest in the game by so many.

This was not a game between two losing teams. This was a game between one of the best teams in West Virginia and one of the better teams in Maryland, both undefeated and both with great potential for post-season play. And play they did Friday night, in one of the toughest battles in recent history for both sides. The Rams went into the contest as the underdogs and they ultimately lost the game, but they played with tremendous pride. drive, and determination. It was a shame - in fact, it was embarrassing - that there was so little support in the stands for these young men

The lack of enthusiasm was also painfully evident during halftime, when the members of the award-winning Southern High marching band presented their program, a program upon which they have spent literally hundreds of hours preparing. They were applauded by perhaps as many as 50 people.

The whole experience was a pathetic showing of support for our young people, and unfortunately this has become the norm rather than the exception at so many school functions. It was only magnified so much this past week by the outstanding show of support by the Musselman fans.

Pride in oneself goes only so far. Spirit, encouragement, and support from parents, fellow students, and other fans are vital to the continued success of such programs and, more importantly, to the growth and development of the individual students who participate in them. Such support is needed not so much by the coaches and the directors, but by the kids; and we hope that more local people soon wake up to that fact and do a better job of showing how much they care about our young people.

Huskies Worn Down By Beall In Second Half

After playing evenly with a tough Beall Mountaineer team in the first half Friday evening at the Cove, the Northern Huskies committed a pair of costly turnovers and were worn down by a strong Beall offensive line in the second half, which led to the Huskies' first defeat of the season, 27-7.

It was another miscue that gave the 3-0 Mountaineers their first points of the game, as Northern punter Jon Houser mishandled the snap deep in Northern territory. The ball was recovered on the one by Shannon McKenzie and on the next play, Danny Dixon carried it in for a touchdown. Tony Himmler's kick gave Beall a 7-0 first quarter lead.

Beall was driving again late in the second period when Northern's Chad Anderson picked off McKenzie's pass and returned it 23 yards to the Beall 38-yard line. With just 26 seconds left in the half, Chad Sines connected with Chris Jenkins on a 38-yard touchdown pass and Houser's conversion kick made it 7-7 at halftime.

The Mountaineers took the opening kickoff in the second half and marched 80 yards in 14 plays for a score, a drive that seemed to break the smaller Northern defense. The series was capped by a 21-yard touchdown pass from McKenzie

The Huskies were still well within reach of the visitors, but the ensuing kickoff was fumbled and recovered by Beall, which virtually doomed Coach Tom Vent's team. Beall recovered the ball on Northern's 23-yard line and needed only three plays against the tired Northern defense to reach the end zone. McKenzie scored the touchdown on a 16-yard run and his conversion pass to Jason Cutter gave the Mountaineers a 21-7 advantage.

Chad Sines finished with 112 yards passing, while Jason Robison paced Beall's offense with 95 yards on 12 rushes. The Huskies' total offense was 207. less than 20 yards behind Beall's 225

"We were really happy with the way our kids played," Tom Vent said. "We were in the game until we fumbled the kickoff in the third quarter. Then it was pretty much over. Their offensive line was big and they wore us down. Our defense was on the field too much."

The Huskies' rushing game was also hurt by the fact that their leading tailback, sophomore Allen Bittinger, received a leg injury and is listed as doubtful for this week's game against Turkeyfoot.

Calling Frostburg State University and Western Maryland the "Amateur Sports Capitol of the State of Maryland " FSU President Herb F. Reinhard announced during a press conference Tuesday that the annual Maryland State Games and Sports Festival will return to the FSU campus and various local venues on an exclusive basis through 1995. Maryland State Games President James Narron told reporters that this first-ever long term commitment in the seven-year history of the games "fulfilled a personal dream. We're proud to be back for five years," he said. Narron indicated that games officials and those athletes who participated in last year's games hosted by FSU had evaluated the University's performance as being the best in the Games' history. Recognizing several FSU employees seated in the conference room, Narron said the work of such people and the unique atmosphere of Western Maryland

President Reinhard said the University agreed to cooperate with the Foundation to seek sources of outside funding for the Games, primarily from corporations and private donors, and that the University would aid in working with state officials and legis Games funding. Dr. Reinhard reported that the economic impact from the Games totaled between $3.5-$4 million on an annual basis, and that the sum could increase as the size of the games increased over the next five years.

The President said the University would provide an office for the State Games in the Administration Building and that the Festival "will get bigger, and it will get better.

Both Narron and Reinhard indicated that the Games format may be enlarged as early as 1992 to include a full week of activities.

In a related note, Narron said he had submitted a proposal to the U.S. Olympic Committee to consider Maryland as the site of future U.S. Olympic Festivals, and that he had included Western Maryland in a separate proposal for the State to host several events for the 1996 Olympics, scheduled to take place in Atlanta.

Laker Volleyball Team Struggling: Record Now 2-7

The Garrett Community College Volleyball team will attempt to get on the winning track this weekend by hosting a tri-match Friday with Prince George's Community College and Penn State Altoona, and a single match Saturday against visiting Cecil Community College. Match times are 6 p.m. and 1 p.m., respectively.

The Lakers' overall record is 2-7 and they are 1-2 in league

Last Wednesday the volleyball team traveled to Hagerstown to face the top teams in the region - CCAC Boyce and Hagerstown Jr. College. The Lakers were defeated by CCAC Boyce, 4-15 and 8-15, and by Hagerstown Jr. College, 1-15, 4-15, and 9-15.

"I was pleased with our performance at Hagerstown, considering we played the top two teams in the region. In the third game against Hagerstown the score was 9-10 which forced Hagerstown to take their second timeout," stated GCC Coach Margaret Quinn.

On Tuesday the Lakers hosted a tri-match and were defeated by Montgomery Rockville in five games, 15-8, 15-2, 14-16, 13-15, and 6-15. They were also defeated by Penn State New Kensington by scores of 15-3, 10-15, and 1-15. "Our difficulty Tuesday night was our passing and serve receive efficiency," Quinn said. "Our passing averaged 74% on the evening and our serve receive averaged only 42%.

"We played well the first two games against Rockville and the first game against New Kensington. We really communicated well, but we let up in the remaining games, fell apart, and couldn't regain our composure," Quinn concluded.

The Time Is Now To Set The Record Straight...

And Take A Stand For Garrett County's Future!

This fall's election is about Honesty, Accuracy and Choices! As candidates talk, here are a few things that you should keep in mind about

WHY ERNIE GREGG IS RUNNING

Ernie Gregg believes that the people in District Three deserve a clear-cut choice in the upcoming election. The voter turnout in this year's primary was an all-time low in our County. In fact, fewer than 1,600 voters selected the primary winner! If Ernie Gregg had not accepted the invitation of fellow citizens to run as a write-in candidate, the vast majority of the voters in our County would have ended up having to vote for an inexperienced Commissioner in District 3. They would have found their future being handed to someone completely unprepared to deal with managing Garrett County.

THE PENSIONS PAID TO COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

There is a rumor circulating that, if Ernie Gregg serves for four more years, he will qualify for a $40,000 a year pension. The truth is, if he serves for four more years, the most he will qualify for is $5,800 a year. Again, someone has their facts wrong. County Commissioners simply don't qualify for "big pensions." When you look at pensions and benefits, ask yourself what kind of pension or benefits Ernie's opponent received from her years of service on the Liquor Control Board.

Gypsy Moth Suppression Pro-

'Last year may have been our peak year," she said, but noted that two "hot spots" appear to exist that still have fairly heavy egg mass infestation. Those are the Sang Run/Youghiogheny Mountain area and the Finzel area.

Hevner also reported that no municipalities have signed up for the cost-share program this year, and noted that October 31 is the deadline for application.

Environmental Health Garrett County Environmental Health Director Edgar Harman advised that the final rabies clinic is now underway this week with clinics still scheduled in Bittinger (Thursday), Broadford Elementary School (Friday), and Grant-

sville (Saturday). Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer interjected that Maryland has not vet experienced a human death because of rabies. He cited the excellence of the program, especially in the area of educating the public, as the reason for this Appalachian Crossroads Appalachian Crossroads Executive Director Bill Aspinall informed the commissioners about the current concern over funding inequities throughout the state of Maryland, stating that while the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has been trying to implement changes in the mechanisms for funding in order to make it more equitable, the system contains 'grievous flaws," according to Aspinall. He explained that the system, theoretically, contains a 'regional adjustment," for instance, for hourly wages for community living supervisors with an associate's degree and/or three years experience. The statewide index at 100 percent would pay that worker $5.40 per hour. The regional adjustment range is from 71.9-107 percent, with Garrett County at the bottom of the 27 percent

What that means, he said, is that the Garrett County community living supervisor's salary is set at $4.33 per hour.

Aspinall stated that the process has proved to be "discriminatory," and further reported that investigation into the system has led to findings that there is no regional adjustment in other health-related departments. "Only community providers are asked to suffer the regional adjustment," he said.

Aspinall indicated that he plans to work with the state in correcting these and other ine-

The Plague Of "Unionitis"

D. Noel Obenshain Research Consultant

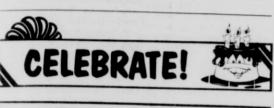

'Unionitis'' is a recently coined word that will not be found in any present-day English dictionary.

It is quite descriptive of a relatively old, but very serious ailment that can afflict any nation, particularly democratic nations. It is rarely found in monarchies, oligarcies, plutocracies or dictatorships.

If not controlled in its early stages, it can eventually fully permeate and control the entire political and economic health of a whole nation, and may ultimately cause its downfall.

How about unionitis in the United States of America? It tarted in the past century among the various craft members, and grew rapidly during the later U.S. industrial revolution period 800-1890. Since then it has grown to affect approximately 17% of active craft and industrial workers here in the USA. Compulsory rifts by the workers for the ailment has been around $4.0 billion ach year for the past 10 years or longer.

The most serious characteristic of unionitis is how it affects risk. The U.S. Congress, responding to these con-cerns, recently passed legislation requiring the sale of cleaner gasolines in our nation's most polluted cita way to dramati cally reduce dangerous levels of air pollution. Over the past 20 years, while automobiles have become cleaner, gasoline has gotten dirtier. The problem is that the major oil refineries have dramati-cally increased the level of highly toxic aromatic compounds—such as benzene-in our nation's gaso line supplies. Today's fuel also contains other aromat ics, such as xylene, which are highly reactive and increase the formation of

The level of these aromatic compounds has risen from an average of 22 percent in 1982, to more than 33 percent today, with some grades of fuel as high as 49 percent. It's clear that to improve public health and air quality, gaso-line must be "reformu-lated." The action recently taken by Congress will curb this dangerous trend by capping aromatics levels at 25 percent. The Congressional approach also includes provisions for an oxygen-ated fuels program for carbon monoxide (CO) nonattainment areas and fuel quality standards for ozone non-attainment areas to dramatically reduce pol-lution from vehicles. The result of these provisions may be increased use of oxygenated fuels as part of a comprehensive public policy to improve air qual-

The advantages of oxygenated fuels are well-known. The use of ethanol blends, for instance, will reduce motor vehicle emissions of CO by 25 to 30 percent. Ethanol blends will also reduce emissions of exhaust hydrocarbons, NOx and carbon dioxide emissions. In addition, recent analysis indicates that ethanol blended fuels can reduce the formation of ozone. Finally, ethanol is an effective and safe replacement for the danrous aromatic octane enhancers in gasolines members of Congress. By generous contributions to the Congress members' election campaign funds, unionitis has assured favorable worker legislation, the Bacon-Davis Act in 1931, the Wagner Labor Relations Act in 1935, Minimum Wage Laws in 1938, the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947, and other laws and regulations allowing rapid spread of the ailment.

In 1967, the U.S. Department of Labor developed the 'Consumer Price Index," abbreviated the CPI, to show the year by year changes in the "cost of living" for the average American family. It set the CPI at 100.0 in 1967. Inflation is the percent change in the CPI for each year. Ten years prior to 1967, inflation was averaging 1.7% per year. From 1913 to 1967, including two World Wars, the average annual inflation rate was only 2.7% per

By 1972, the CPI had gone to 125.3 at 4.6% per year, (see attached up-dated graph sheet). Due to annual "COLAs", cost of living adjustments, the CPI had gone to 272.4, reaching this figure in 1981. Prices had increased 217.4% in just 9 years, at an average inflation rate of 9.0% per year. Note the graph sheet.

This 217.4% price increase put American made commodities out of the reach of many American citizens, and completely off possible foreign markets. In 1982 cheaper foreign imports began flooding the American markets and curtailing American production. This put many millions of American workers out of production jobs and into sales and service jobs, or no jobs at all.

In just 20 years, 1970-1990, we had gone from the most productive nation in the whole wide world, down to a low productivity nation, providing sales and service for products made in and imported from foreign countries. And, in just 20 years! All due to the advanced stage of unionitis here in the

As the graph will show, inflation dropped from 9.0% in 1981, down 6.1% in 1982, and has averaged around 3.8% since then. Compare this 1.7% for the 10 years prior to 1967. Unionitis, by means of COLAs is largely responsible for our persistent high inflation rates. Is there any cure for unionitis? Yes, there is. But it is not going to be quick and easy. Here are several proposals.

Halloween Parade & Treat To Be Distributed Thursday, Oct. 25, 1990 6:30 p.m.

The Town of Oakland will be hosting the annual Halloween Parade. The parade will begin at Center Street, and will be followed by a Halloween Treat distribution for children twelve and under at the Oakland Fire Hall.

The Mayor and Town Council has issued an appeal for funds for its Halloween Treat. This treat is distributed to Oakland's children in lieu of Trick or Treat. The purchase of items for these treats in the previous years has been made possible because of the generous donations received. The Mayor and Town Council would like to thank any persons/businesses who have donated in the past, and would like to encourage those who would ordinarily be buying candy for Trick or Treat to bring a monetary contribution to City Hall. Contributions may be made at City Hall weekdays between 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

2 tablespoons unsalted butter 3 sun-dried tomatoes, cut into thin slivers

1 large fresh tomato, peeled, seeded, diced

3 tablespoons plain yogurt 2 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Cook the shells in boiling salted water until tender, 3 minutes for fresh, longer for packaged. Drain. Melt the butter in a medium saucepan over low heat. Stir in the pasta, dried tomatoes, fresh tomato, yogurt, and Parmesan cheese. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

There are two ways to dry a tomato. The first (baked) method requires any conventional home oven with a thermometer setting of 150°F, and a nylon screen drying tray. That's all. A drying tray may be improvised of nylon window screening stretched and stapled over a picture frame. Never use metal stapled over a picture frame. screening, however. The combined acids in the tomatoes and the metal's surface could cause the dried tomatoes to become toxic.

Tomatoes to be dried should be sliced thin (vertically), laid on the tray, and placed in the 150°F, oven initially for 3 hours. Then the heat should be lowered to 130°F, until the tomatoes are dry should be lowered to 130°F. until the tomatoes are dry (approximately 2 to 3 hours longer). Dried tomatoes will be tough-to-crisp in texture. Note that superacidic tomatoes should be steam-blanched whole for approximately 3 minutes prior to slicing.

The second (old-fashioned) method is to dry tomatoes in the sun. This cannot be done except on a year, but day. Slice (and/on steam blanched) very hot day. Slice (and/or steam-blanch) the tomatoes as directed above. Place the thin slices on a large unpainted board (plywood will do nicely). Care should be taken to slant the bord slightly so any surplus tomato juices will run off. Salt the tomatoes well. Prop the board agains the side of a wall (or a back porch step) so the surface will reflect heat onto the tomatoes. Place a layer of cheesecloth or mosquito netting over the drying tomatoes to keep insects off. When the tomatoes shrivel completely and are firm to the touch, they are sun-dried. Brush off excess salt before storage.

Store both oven-dried and sun-dried tomatoes in sterile dry jars and seal for keeping. Dried tomatoes may also be kept in olive oil, as the Italians do.

11/2 cups chicken broth, approximately

1/4 cup olive oil

1 small onion, halved, thinly sliced

½ cup sliced mushrooms (about 6 mushrooms) 9 tablespoons unsalted butter

1/4 pound thinly sliced prosciutto, cut into strips 2 medium tomatoes (about 1/2 pound) peeled,

2 medium tomatoes (about ½ pound) | seeded, chopped
½ cup heavy or whipping cream
1/8 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
½ pound green fettuccine noodles
Freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Place the chicken breast in a medium saucepan and add enough chicken broth to cover. Heat to boiling; reduce the heat. Simmer, covered, until tender, about 12 minutes. Remove the chicken breast and allow it to cool. Cut it into strips and set aside. Reserve broth for use at another time. Heat the oil in a large saucepan over medium heat. Add the onion, saute until golden. Add the mushrooms, cook, tossing gently, 2 minutes. Stir in 8 tablespoons of the butter, the prosciutto, and the tomatoes. Cook 6 minutes. Stir in the chicken and cream. Heat to boiling, reduce the heat to low. Add the nutmeg, and salt and pepper to taste. Keep warm over low heat. Meanwhile, cook the fettucine in boiling salted water until just tender, about 2 minutes for fresh, longer for packaged. Drain. Return the noodles to the saucepan and toss with the remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Toss the fettuccine into the chicken-prosciutto mixture. Serve with Parmesan cheese on the side. Yield: 4 servings.

A Little Man in a BIG WORLD

While driving through the countryside, I saw a sign in a churchyard which read.

"It is easier to build a child than to repair an adult."

Although he may not realize it, this smiling young man has a lot of growing up to do before he can fill this chair. On the road to adulthood, he will experience a variety of situations, conflicting emotions, and the process of maturing physically.

ership and spiritual counseling to assist in his transition from boyhood to manhood. It is our responsibility to see that he receives the guidance he needs to assure that he will continue to be smiling and well adjusted when he is old enough to fit into the role of adulthood. Proverbs 22:6 tells us to "Train up a child in the way he should go, even when he is old he will not depart from it.

You and your child will reap a lifetime of benefits.

A LYING SPIRIT September 30, 1990

Background Scripture: 1 Kings 22:1-40. Devotional Reading: Psalms 26.

A few days ago I read a column on the editorial page of our local paper. The columnist was very much disturbed because he concluded that the well-intentioned lie, not truth, had become the standard for our public and pri-vate life. If a public figure makes a mistake, we do not expect that he will ever really admit it. I get the impression that the general public does not expect that public officials will tell the truth. We even to honor people who lie on a higher level: in congress, in the counsels of government, in the courts, in city hall and in the market place.

Now, don't get me wrong, that doesn't mean large numbers of people would vote for "lying," per se. What they would probably vote for is terminology that makes lying seem like something else: promotion, advertising, propaganda, sales pitch, campaign oratory, and so forth. Teddy Roosevelt's son used to say, "Dad's all for peace-so long as it doesn't get in the way of the fighting Lots of people are for truth in much the same way.

"GO ALONG"?

The way to "get along" today is to tell people what they want to hear. That was the objection which King Ahab had against the Prophet Micaiah. "I hate him, he told King Jehoshaphat, "for he never prophesies good con-cerning me, but evil" (22:8). If,

been no enmity between them. Why couldn't Micaiah "go along" and say at least something that Ahab wanted to hear? May be Micaiah would have liked to do that, but something inside him wouldn't let him sell his soul so cheaply for the approval of others. That "something inside" was his relationship with God. So, when we lie-or by whatever other name we call it-we are violating our relationship with

Recently, I was at a seminar in which University of Pennsylvania Professor Martin Seligman reported on an extensive study that found that over the past several decades the American people have repeatedly elected as President those candidates who spoke primarily in positive terms about the country and its concerns, despite the fact that there are times when we need to be critical of where we are and where we are going as a nation. In other words, we vote for those who tell us what we want to hear. Political life is certainly an area in which it appears we do not value truth.

Micaiah played a kind of joke on King Ahab, for when he was brought before the king, he mi-micked the message that Ahab had received from all the other prophets. But, Ahab knew his leg was being pulled: "How many times shall I adjure you that you speak nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?" (22:16). So, Micaiah speaks again and this time he tells the truth as God has given it to him. Now, Ahab is upset again. Turning to Jehosha-phat, he says: "Did I not phat, he says: "Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy

with William Russ

By Amy Schmidt "NBC Monday Night At The Movies" presentation airing Oct. 1, is not only actor William Russ' first husband role, but his first "husbandfrom-hell role," jokes the Audiences will remember Russ as villain Roger Loccoco on Wiseguy, and the psycho killer on Riptide. In Promises To Keep, however, Russ will play husband to China Beach's Dana Delany in a tragic drama that could easily unfold in any American home and did. The film is based on a true story.

The Goodriches (Russ and Delany) are having a summer barbeque with Carl's sister Annie (played by Mimi Kennedy), her husband, Tom (Richard Poe), and their four children when Annie confesses to Carl that she is dying of lung cancer. She asks her brother to look after her husband and children after she is gone.

In an unexpected turn of events, Tom is then killed in a commuter train accident while Annie is dying in the hospital. After the death of their parents, the four children move in with the Goodriches and their three children, straining an income that is already severely pinched. Eventually, Carl and Jane (Delany) must make the painful decision of whether or not to split up Annie and Tom's children into separate foster homes.

"I liked his strengths and his vulnerability," says Russ of his character, Carl. It's kind of hard to do what that family had to do. But also his resilience and "stick-to-itiveness" to hang in there. And I liked his creativity, his being a composer. When you're in a creative field the muse can be kind of elusive at times. Himself being in a creative field. Russ knows what it's like when money is tight and ends are tough to meet. He reminisces about sharing a Mary Steenburgen at the prestigious Neighborhood co-star Delany, and how he

'Bonnie And Clyde' made impact on the movies

By Steven Alan McGaw Bonnie And Clyde (1967) Movies have changed a lot since 1967 and largely because of this fascinating. vivid classic. Did director Arthur Penn realize at the expanding the language of cinema itself? Probably not, and that's probably why it works so well, even today. On the surface, the movie simply seems to tell a story and it does so superbly. Warren Beatty is handsome, cocky Clyde Barrow, and Faye Dunaway is hotter 'n a pistol as Bonnie. As the thieving duo blaze a trail of crime and newspaper headlines that no legal activity could arouse, they pick up or encounter many vivid charicters along the way, ably played by Gene Hackman, Estele Parsons (she received an Oscar), Michael J. Pollard, Denver Pyle and Gene Wilder, in his film debut. Deceptively simple, movie careens across the screen, shifting from comedy to drama to social commentary without ever grinding the gears. There's no doubt that Bonnie and Clyde are criminals. And yet we, like their contemporaries who hungered for media recounting of their exploits, like them, root for taway, we help them count the loot. In the film's riveting, blood-soaked finale, we fear for their lives. It may be much about the Barrows as their audiences, now and then. What a movie

Joe Pantoliano not worried about being pidgeon holed

'Fanelli Boys'

taps actor's roots By Anne Wheeler Being pidgeon holed is one trap actor Joe Pantoliano needn't worry about. In fact his career has been so diverse he was brave enough to take on a role that closely parallels his own Italian-American upbringing. That role is as Dominic in NBC's new comedy The Fanelli Boys.

Pantoliano plays one of four brothers who move back under their mother's roof when life's problems become too overpowering. Dominic, specifically, has lost his shirt by trying every get-rich-quick scheme. Now he and his brothers are trying to get the family funeral home business back on solid ground, so to speak. Reared in the Hoboken. N.J. housing projects, Pantoliano is no stranger to the struggle to get out of the blue collar life. His father was making that struggle, ironically as the limo driver for the neighborhood funeral

The actor has no qualms about taking the role that so closely resembles his background, and rightfully so. Throughout the course of his 18-year professional acting career, Panto Pantoliano has Eternity Gino Idolmaker, Guido the killer pimp in Risky Business, as well as a punk rocker, a ed brother. This summer he starred in the HBO movie El Diablo as a gay cowboy, and in the feature film Adios

"I don't know what the '90s have in store for me," Pantoliano chuckles, "Probably La Cage Aux Folles: The

September 30 through October 6

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22) Don't shy away from the unexpected. Your dreams may come true this week if you simply listen to those trying to help. Stay calm and you will do fine

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21) Serious thought about a specific situation will result in different options. Follow your instincts and you can't go wrong this week. Plan for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21) Romance is in the air for you and you're ready for whatever comes your way. A phone call could bring about the changes you have been hoping would take place.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19) Don't be so obstinate with family members. They continually forgive your stubbornness, but it is quite possible that they have had just enough to last a lifetime

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18) Always looking out for No. 1 isn't in your best interest. Take a look around at those close to you and give them the attention they need and deserve from you.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20) Things seem crazy this week and sometimes you wonder if it is ever going to end. It will; and with some very interesting results. A loved one comes through for you. ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Family and career concerns will need equal attention this week. You will be put in the position of peacemaker for both family and co-workers. TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Communication and travel sectors are strong. A short trip on the weekend will revive your perspective on life. Be fair in disagreements with family members. GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

The domestic front could get you down this week, but don't let it. You have a hidden strength that can get you through any situation. Communication is the key. CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Talking over financial arrangements with an expert will help ease your mind and save you money at the same time. Friends need your undivided attention. LEO (July 23 - August 22) If you keep busy and stick to tasks at hand, you could avoid putting yourself in an awkward situation. Your energy will soar and you will make great changes in your life.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22) You will feel a great sense of stability this week. Things have been crazy, but it has all been for a worthy cause. Now you can take some time for yourself.

TIME OUT

Teams jump as 49ers take a week off

By Steve Paschal

Although the Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers have the fourth week of the 1990 National Football League season off, all three major networks will feature games involving former Super Bowl teams bent on dethroning the dominant professional team of the 1980s. On Sunday, Sept. 30, NBC highlights its six-game regional schedule with the Denver Broncos taking on the Buffalo Bills. Denver is trying to make it back to the Super Bowl after a humiliating loss to the 49ers last year, while the Bills, considered by many to be the team to eat in the AFC last season before losing to Cleveland in the playoffs, are looking to regain the intensity that propelled them to a 12-4 record in 1988. CBS will spotlight a legitimate Super Bowl contender against a team trying to recapture its glory days when the New York Giants host the Dallas Cowboys. Denver in Super Bowl XXI are favored to win the NFC East, while the two-time Super Bowl champion Cowboys are regrouping after suffering through a 1-15 season under new coach

Jimmy Johnson ABC's Monday Night Football will showcase the battle between the Seattle Seahawks and the Cincinnati Bengals. Cincinnati fans are still haunted by Joe Montana's heroics two years ago when he led the 49ers on a 92-yard touchdown march to pull out a 20-16 victory. With quarterback Boomer Esiason throwing to receivers Tim McGee, Eddie Brown and Rodney Holman, the Bengals may face the 49ers in a replay of Super

Fire Prevention Week Scheduled

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele is urging all Marylanders to participate in the Fire Prevention Week theme of "Make Your Place Fire Safe - Hunt for Home Hazards". Gabriele is asking Marylanders to heed this Fire Prevention Week theme, and examine their homes for fire hazards and risk, which may be alleviated to help reduce fire incidents. Fire Prevention Week 1990 will be observed October 7-13, 1990. National Fire Prevention Week was inspired by one the worst fires in the history of the nation: the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. On October 9 of that year, approximately 250 people died and more than 17,000 buildings were destroyed in the Great Chicago Fire. In 1922 President Warren Harding proclaimed National Fire Prevention Week. Since that time fire officials nationwide observe Fire Prevention Week during the second week of October, and ask all citizens to practice lifesaving fire safety

Gabriele is asking citizens to join with him by taking the necessary steps in their homes to reduce risks of fire. Some examples which the Fire Marshal has pointed out include: •Insure that each home is equipped with an operating smoke detector. When the time changes on October 28, 1990. remember to replace the battery of a battery operated smoke detector to insure the good operating condition of the smoke detector.

 Dispose of any unnecessary trash in the home, particularly the basement area, that could •Check all heating equipment in the home. Is the area around the furnace, clothes dryer and water heater clear of combustible material?

·Are all kitchen appliances in proper working condition? If they are not, do not use the appliance until it has been satisfactorily repaired.

•Remember, never leave food cooking on a stove unattended. Fires involving unattended cooking remains the leading cause of residental fires in the

Byron Backs Final Passage Of Defense Bill

An amendment shaped by Rep. Beverly Byron and the House Armed Services Committee leadership is among the provisions contained in a $284 billion Defense Authorization Bill. The bill authorizes $185 million for pay and other benefits for military personnel stationed in the Persian Gulf. The bill cuts $24 billion off the nearly $310 billion requested by the Bush Administration and includes the first post Cold War troop reduction of 129,000 active duty personnel and cancels further procurement of the B-2 bomber

Byron said she essentially agrees with the cuts the bill contains and defended the necessity of the troop reduction in remarks she made during the legislation's debate.

I have not heard Secretary Cheney change his objective of a 25 percent force reduction by 1995, and we simply can't get there from here in any sort of orderly fashion without taking a decisive step in 1991.

"It is interesting to note that with over 300,000 Air Force and Army personnel in Europe, the overwhelming majority of forces deployed to Saudi Arabia have come from the U.S., not Europe. If we haven't used these forces for an operation the size and scope of Desert Shield, then clearly, can't we begin to draw some of them down?' queried Byron.

The Western Maryland representative said she was partic-

Crime Rate Up In Maryland Say State Police

Crime in Maryland increased six percent during the first six months of 1990, according to a Uniform Crime Report prepared by the Maryland State Police Central Records Division. The 1990 January, through June crime report lists 129,474 offenses reported by law enforcement agencies statewide, compared with 122,049 offenses reported during the same period in 1989.

"The violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault as a group increased 13 percent." said John Vespa of the Uniform Crime Reporting Section.

Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Vespa said property crimes also increased during the first half of the year. "The property offenses of breaking and entering, larceny, and motor vehicle theft increased five percent," added Vespa.

The preliminary crime reports lists 240 murders in Maryland during the first six months of 1990 representing a one percent decrease from the 243 murders reported during the same period in 1989.

"Overall, 31 percent of the 240 murders reported statewide were considered drug related," Vespa stated. "In Baltimore City, 44 percent of the 133 murders were listed as drug related. In Prince George's County, police list 47 percent of the 40 murders as drug related," added Vespa.

October Declared Lupus Awareness Month In Md.

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer officially declared the month of October as Lupus Awareness Month. The Maryland Lupus Foundation urges everyone to learn more about lupus, a chronic disease that affects over 500,000 Americans.

According to health reports, lupus is an inflammatory disease that causes the body's immune system to produce antibodies that attack healthy tissues and organs.

More than 16,000 new cases of lupus are diagnosed each year. While lupus can strike anyone, it affects females nine times more frequently than males, with a higher incidence among Blacks, Hispanics, and Asians.

Since there is no known cause or cure vet, early detection and treatment are our best n the fight against lupus," stated Maryland Lupus Foundation President Bettye Mezzullo, R.N. "The purpose of our Lupus Awareness Month campaign is to raise awareness and encourage research into the cause and cure of this often misunderstood disease.

The symptoms of lupus vary considerably and frequently mimic those of other diseases making diagnosis difficult. Symptoms include extreme fatigue, joint pain, hair loss, photosensitivity, and loss of appetite.

At least 5000 Americans die with lupus each year, but the majority of cases can be controlled with early detection and proper medical treatment.

During October, the Maryland Lupus Foundation will emphasize the campaign theme. "Lupus, When Your Body Becomes Its Own Worst Enemy. 'The message vividly conveys how lupus patients are literally under attack by their own bodies." said Mezzullo. The use of this theme in all print and broadcast media will go a long way in educating the public to the seriousness of lupus and the need to find its

"The Potomac River is a major tributary of the Chesapeake Bay and needs our help. The work will be hard, but the spirit of cooperation will make it fun. In one day we will make a real difference for the Potomac and the Chesapeake Bay.

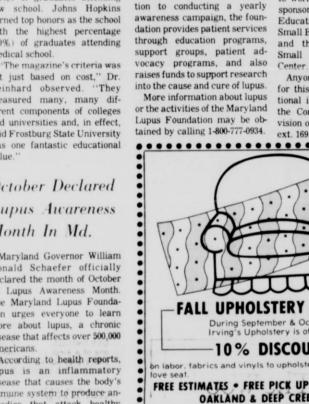

Already, 4,000 volunteers from Garrett County to St. Mary's County have agreed to participate in "Healing a River for the Life of the Chesapeake.'

Volunteer efforts include removing trash and tires, renewing fish and wildlife habitats, replenishing shorelines revitalizing the river with tree plantings, and recycling papers, plastics, and cans. Cleanup projects are being organized in counties along the Potomac River, as well as in West Virginia, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Groups and organizations who wish to participate should contact their county coordinator. (John Nelson in Garrett County at 334-1920). Interested persons may meet at the Colmar Manor Nature Center, Anacostia River Park, where 2.000 volunteers are needed from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. to pick up trash, clean up streams and beaches, and participate in a one-day recycling drop off.

Youth Suicide Prevention Month Is Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed October 1990 "Youth Suicide Prevention Month" in Maryland.

"In Maryland, suicide is the third leading cause of death of young people between the ages of 15 and 24. We must do more to stop the terrible loss of our children who are the future of our state." said the governor.

This year's observance will include the second annual Youth Suicide Prevention Conference, to be held Tuesday, October 9, 1990 at the Annapolis Holiday Inn. The conference, Developing Community Resources," is sponsored by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE), the Governor's Inter-Workgroup on Youth agency Suicide Prevention, Marylanders Against Youth Suicide (MAYS), and the Maryland State School Health Council.

"The purpose of this conference is to heighten the community's awareness of youth suicide and to assist communities in developing strategies to prevent suicide.' said Henry Westray Jr., LCSW. youth suicide prevention coordinator for the DHMH Mental Hygiene Administration. Although we have made progress in the areas of awareness and prevention, much remains to be done.

"One of the things we're most proud of is the establishment of the nation's first statewide, tollfree, 24-hour Youth Crisis Hotline in Maryland," said "By calling Westray. 1-800-422-0009 from anywhere in Maryland, young people can receive immediate assistance from trained local crisis intervention counselors.

The hotline began operating on August 1, 1990. "The hotline is designed to be used in those moments or situations when young people struggle with the idea of suicide - when a young person needs immediate help. said Westray

In 1988, 104 Marylanders between the ages of 15 and 24 took their lives. In addition, there were five deaths by suicide of children under 15. Marvland lost an average of two of its young people to suicide every week of the year in 1988.

Area Businesses Recognized In

Water Safety Plan The Corps of Engineers and the staff at Jennings Randolph Lake recently recognized the businesses and organizations that assisted with spreading the Corps' water safety message throughout the summer.

The effort began with Jennings Randolph Lake's ranger staff presenting their annual water saftey program to the local schools

The program taught the students how to be safe in and around the water, according to a Corps' spokesman.

Shedding Light On

The students then dispersed the bags to the general public throughout the Memorial Day weekend

The effort was then extended local radio stations. WKLP/WQZK, WJJB, WALI/WROG, WCBC, WTBO/WKGO and WMSG, in the form of public service water safety announcements. The radio announcements, produced by the Corps of Engineers, which the stations played throughout the summer. The next phase of the campaign involved local businesses who donated marquee space for water safety messages throughout the summer.

Those businesses included RG's of Midland, Mister Donut of Keyser, W.Va., Domino's Pizza of Keyser, Dale's Pitstop of McCoole, Browning's Foodland of Oakland and the New Creek Volunteer Fire Com-

With the help of businesses and organizations, the Corps' Water Safety Campaign was a huge success and kept safety around the water a fresh topic all summer," said a Corps spokesman.

State law limits the number of recipients at 350. Each year a substantial number of finalists accept the $3,000-per-year scholarships, which can be used for any college-related expenses, with the balance of the grants going to semi-finalists.

This year there were 436 achievement semi-finalists and Center.

All of the Distinguished Scholar finalists and semifinalists as well as the state's National Merit semi-finalists are invited to the event at UMBC, where they will be recognized for their achievements and will learn more about Maryland colleges and universities.

A MATTER OF PERSONAL TASTE!

Have you ever walked past a department store and stopped to admire the merchandise attractively displayed in the window? You can almost taste the char-broiled steaks prepared on the gas grill being ex-hibited. You imagine vourself relaxing in the hammock or lounging on the lawn furniture, alongside the resident manikin family. The merchandise seems to have magnetic appeal, pulling you into the store for an unplanned purchase.

When selling your home, it is important to make it attractive to buyers. The home should sparkle, and be inviting to all buyers who enter there. As with the department store window, however, the way your home is merchandised can encourage buyers to become interested in your personal property too.

A cozy fire in the family room might draw attention to your free-standing ornamental fire screen and heavy brass fireplace tools. A porch which displays your wrought iron outdoor furniture may excite buyers to the point of including it in their purchase offer on your home - at no extra charge.

Decisions about personal property should be made before offering the home for sale. Some owners feel it is wise to pick several items of personal property to be included in the sale which lends a "value-added" climate to the home. It is important to highlight those items, calling attention to their value and benefits. On the other hand, if certain eye-catching items of personal property will not be included in the sale, the best advise is "out-ofsight, out-of-mind." Pack and store those items which will not remain with the home. Once an item catches the attention of buyers, it may be too late to prevent them from including the item in their purchase offer - at your expense.

Although personal property does not convey with real estate, it can easily become a negotiable item. A REALTOR® can explain the best approach to take with regard to personal property when selling your home. If you need information to help you solve a real estate puzzle, call us at 387-5303. We'll be happy to share our knowledge with you at no cost or obligation.

Frederick, MD (Next Sale Held October 4). Frosted Corn Dilemma

Most of our field corn in the county was not ready for the killing frost we had last week. In fact, a good bit of the corn was still in the dough stage or very early dent. From my past experiences, once corn is frosted, the maturity process almost comes to a halt. This presents a serious problem to those of you who were after picking corn or high moisture corn. Picking corn should have a moisture content between 15-20%, 15% being ideal High moisture shelled corn should have a moisture content between 25-30% with the outer limits of 22-35%. High moisture ear corn should have a moisture content of 27-35% with outside limits

Most corn kernels continue to accumulate nutrients until they have reached 35% moisture. The presence of a black layer close to the tip of the kernel just under the outer layer is a sign of physiological maturity. If the kernel moisture is below 25%, the corn may not ferment and molding cannot occur. I believe most of you will not have to worry about being too dry. Corn stored above the recommended moisture levels may ferment satisfactorily but may present special problems, such as bridging and freezing; also, a reduced dry matter intake by livestock.

If you need any assistance in making a harvesting decision, feel free to give me a call.

Questions and Answers From time to time I am going to print some of the questions that were asked that may be helpful to you. Question: Can I still plant alfalfa's Answer: No. In Garrett County fall seeding of alfalfa should be done in mid to late August. The young alfalfa plant needs time to establish itself before a killing frost. The young buds are very susceptible to frost damage

Question: When is the latest I can plant fall barley? Answer: Actually, barley should have been planted around mid-September in our area. Rye can be planted later, generally up to October 15.

Question: Can I still take a cutting of alfalfa? Answer: Yes, but not until the alfalfa goes dormant.

Dormancy occurs after a couple of hard frosts. It is recommended that actively growing alfalfa should have a six week period after the last cutting to "harden off" the frost

Question: Is it safe to feed frosted Sudangrass and Sorghum's Answer: Absolutely not! Frosted Sudangrass and sorghum forms prussic acid which is very poisonous to animals. You can harvest and ensile in the silo. The fermentation process breaks down the prussic acid. Another word of caution! If the weather warms up and the Sorghum-Sudan makes some young regrowth, this new growth is extremely poison

Remember: Have a nutrient test of your forages.

Supplies Of Lean Beef Increase After Given "Select" Grade Name

Consumers who eat leaner beef must be happy because there is a lot more of it on the grocery shelves, according to a marketing analyst with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

'Much of the increase has happened since USDA replaced the 60-year-old 'USDA Good' label with the new 'USDA Select' quality grade standard two years ago," according to Dr. Jimmy Wise, of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Serv-

Since USDA responded to consumer and industry group petitions for the name change in November 1987, the amount of officially graded leaner beef has increased by more than 700 percent.

'Consumers told us they wanted a more positive decription of leaner meat available in grocery stores, and they got it," said Wise.

Nutrition-conscious consumers who wanted the name change maintained that the label misled buyers into thinking meat was mediocre. When the "Good" grade was first established in the 1920s, it described the amount of fat or marbling in a cut of meat. Nowadays, less fat is considered by nutritionists to be more healthy, and leaner meat is better for you than just plain "Good" sounds, consumers told USDA.

Wise said the name change was important because it was a cooperative effort to change standards and was supported by consumer, health and industry groups, as well as the federal government. In June 1986, the consumer group Public Voice for Good and Health Policy petitioned USDA to Sustainable agriculture is now a top priority in research in much of the EC and the word is out from every government on the continent to persuade farmers that farming activity must be less intensive while integrated pest management change the standard name from and organic approaches are en-"Good" to "Select." The change was supported by 12 other consumer-health organ-FRIEND'S STOCKYARD, INC.

Interest, and the Consumer Protection Federation of In response, USDA published proposal to rename the "Good" grade. The proposal also was supported widely by the beef cattle and packing

industries, including the American Meat Institute, the National Cattlemen's Association and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Select came about because of welcome coalition between industry and consumers," said Wise. "Select is selling, and that wouldn't be happening if people weren't happy with it. Industry is responding by providing more leaner beef for grading, and more retailers are product. In the three months prior to the official name change, only 49,714 pounds, or 1.7 percent of all graded beef, was graded "Good." By the final quarter of 1989, the "Select" label accounted for 433,413 pounds, or 14.3 percent of all graded beef, according to statistics kept by the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Since the 1920s, USDA has applied quality grades and standards to eight grades that span the range of beef quality -Prime, Choice, Good (now Select), Standard, Commercial, Utility, Cutter and Canner.

European Farmers Pushed Toward "Green" Agriculture

European agriculture is going 'green" because of public pressure to clean up the environment and slow down the pace of agricultural abuse of soil and

That was the message from Brian Gardner and others attending a conference in Indianapolis in collaboration with both Indiana and Purdue universities, put on by the renowned Hudson Institute.

Gardner is the director of the European Community's (EC) policy analysis. He and others that Western Europe simply has too many people on too little land and the agriculture which has been developed and expanded now must be curtailed if the environmental stress on the continent is to be alleviated.

He said the biggest agricultural expansion under EC subsidy policies had occurred in northern Italy, Germany and northern France in response to demands for better food in greater quantities.

In the process, farming in Europe has become more efficient but the impact on the environment is causing widespread concern and a counteraction. Over half of all tilled lands in Europe are now in farms of less than 125 acres, highly mechanized to use every inch of land including marshes. woodlands and hedgerows that once were the conservation shield for Europe's countryside.

Dr. Ann Sorenson, environmental and science specialist for the American Farm Bureau, recently reported from the Hudson Institute meeting that "livestock waste disposal rates on most densely populated areas in Europe contain three to four times the maximum acceptable concentration for nitrogen and, in the worst areas, the nitrogen surplus is estimated to be 10 times the quantity that plants can absorb.

"Large surpluses of phosphate and potash also are showing up. Currently, the average application rate is 90 pounds of nitrogen per acre. In the more intensively farmed areas, researchers suspect farmers may be using as much as 360 pounds per acre," she reported.

Good Things are Happening at Sacred Heart

After months of pain and misery, Melanie had her gallbladder removed on Friday, August 31 at Sacred Heart Hospital -- three days later she was enjoying a Labor Day picnic

Because of the discomfort and sickness associated with gallbladder disease, Melanie hasn't been much fun for her young son and family for months.

Thanks to the new laser laparoscopic cholecystectomy -- gallbladder removal --Melanie was back home with her family the day after surgery with only band-aids covering her tiny incisions. Melanie also thinks it's great that she was able to return to her normal work schedule on Tuesday following the long holiday weekend.

The new laser gallbladder procedure provides patients with a reduced hospital stay, a quicker return to activity, smaller surgical sites and reduced discomfort as compared to the traditional gallbladder surgery

Farmed Wetlands Deregulated By DNR Secretary

A week after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announced ta decision not to regulate some wetlands now in farmland, Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Dr. Torrey C. Brown stated this week that Maryland policy will follow suit, reportedly freeing up as much as 75 percent (or approximately 750,000 acres) of nland non-tidal wetlands in Maryland cropland.

This action will result development of those acres no longer being subjected special permits from either the state or the local level. The decision, according

Brown, was based on the fact that, although non-tidal wetlands play a significant role in the health of the Chesapeake Bay, some wetlands are of lesser ecological importance because they are virtually dry most of the time and have been altered, over the years, by Specifically, the deregulation

According to reports, those croplands can now be developed within a five-year period after the time it has been discontinued as cropland. After that time, the acreage would convert back to wetland status Arrested By and, as such, would be subject to U.S. Army Corps of "I see the regulations getting come from farmers and rural county legislators who had expressed that too much of their land was being kept from development by the regulations, but environmental groups are critical of the action, claiming that Maryland's inland wetlands are much more important to the earth's bodies of water than those located in the midwestern United States because of its terrain and its 28. relationship to the numerous

DR. FRIEND, YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL! — That was the sentiment expressed this week when Dr. Alvin P. Friend was honored as Garrett County's "Maryland You Are Beautiful" winner by the Garrett County Commissioners. An Oakland resident and retired dentist, Dr. Friend has been actively involved in Garrett County's helping organizations and is responsible for having organized a group of dentists to travel to Haiti where those services are greatly inadequate. Since 1978, he and his wife, Ann, have been making yearly trips to the mountains of Haiti, at their own expense. They are anxiously waiting for the opportunity to return there, pending the resolution of political turmoil. "Our bags are packed and we're ready to go!" he stated. Shown above, left to right, are Ernest J. Gregg Jr., county commissioner, Dr. Friend and his wife Ann, Dave Turney, Garrett County chairman of the "Maryland You Are Beautiful" selection committee; Pat Vetter, local co-ordinator and committee member; Elwood L. Dr. Friend will be featured in the Grand Feature Parade during Autumn Glory Festivities and he will be honored in Annapolis, along with the other Maryland winners, on October 30.

Potomac River Clean-Up Set For October 13

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced Monday that Maryland is planning a one-day cleanup along the Potomac River and its tributaries on Saturday, October 13. This volunteer project, entitled Healing a River for the Life of the Chesapeake," is part of Maryland's Community Service Day and the 50th anniversary celebration of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. The Potomac/Garrett State Forest in Deer Park will be participating in the event with a trail clearing scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Volunteers will re-route a section of pedestrian trail and construct revitalizing the river with tree a small footbridge to minimize soil erosion caused by foot traffic. Volunteers will also clear overgrowth from the trail. The event will be sponsored by C.A.R.E. (Concerned Area Residents for the Environment), and the group estimates that 10 to 15 volunteers will be Life of the Chesapeake" is a needed.

Interested persons may contact John Nelson, the project contact, at (301) 334-1920-Steve Hamilton, park manager, the on-site contact, at (301) Office of Planning.

"It is important that we build on the momentum from Earth Day 1990 and keep people involved in protecting the environment," Governor Schaefer said. "The Potomac River is a major tributary of the Chesapeake Bay and needs our help. The work will be hard, but the spirit of cooperation will make it fun. In one day we will make a real difference for the Potomac and the Chesapeake Bay."

Already, 6,000 volunteers from Garrett County to St. Mary's County have agreed to participate in "Healing a River for the Life of the Chesapeake." Volunteer efforts include removing trash and tires, renewing fish and wildlife habitats, replenishing shorelines, plantings, and recycling papers, plastics, and cans. Cleanup projects are being organized in counties along the Potomac River, as well as in West Virginia, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

A ten-year prison term handed down to an Oakland man for allegedly raping a 14-year-old female will now be stricken, according to a spokesman of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Robert D. Smith, 22, pleaded guilty to the second degree rape charge in a September trial, at which time Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced him to ten years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Because of an apparent flaw in the plea agreement, Attorney Robert C. Hesson filed for a motion to withdraw the plea on Monday, which Judge Thayer accepted.

According to reports, the plea agreement with the state reccommended a sentence not more than three years. However, at the sentencing, the state only recommended incarceration with no detailed stipulation concerning the length of time to be served.

A new trial will be granted to Smith, the date of which has not

The Best Choice . . .

The International Olympic Committee's recent decision to hold the 1996 Summer Games in Atlanta was certainly good news for the people of that city and the state of Georgia, and it could also be good news for us in Garrett County.

One of the events of the Games will be whitewater racing and the Olympic Committee will soon select a location for these races. Garrett County's Savage River will be among the three or four sites in the nation that are considered and, for several reasons, it may be the front-runner in the minds of the Committee.

First of all, not only is the setting of the Savage River ideal from an aesthetic point of view, but it is a site that has already been prepared and used for international competition. It is a proven site. The necessary trails and bridges are there. The seating accommodations and transportation system have

Secondly, we have the know-how. The organizers and hundreds of volunteers did an outstanding job with the 1989 World Championships, and whatever gliches that did exist will be eliminated in future events. Our citizens were also complimented profusely by visiting athletes and spectators on what great hosts we were for the 1989

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, Coach Bill Endicott of the U.S. slalom team, and most of the team members prefer the Savage River for international competition. We are told that U.S. racers Jon Lugbill and Davey Hearn, who have dominated the slalom event for a decade, are among those who would like to see the event held at the Savage. Many foreign athletes apparently share the same opinion.

One disadvantage is that Garrett County is a long way from Atlanta; but it is not unusual for Olympic events to be held hundreds of miles from the main center. Supposedly, the Oconee River in Georgia has world class whitewater potential, but the setting is not nearly as good as that of the Savage.

It was a thrill to host the 1989 World Championships, one that could only be exceeded by hosting the 1996 Olympics. We invite the Olympic Committee to visit our county and see why the Savage River is the best choice.

Facts From The Mental Health Advisory Committee

INSURANCE COVERAGE FOR MENTAL ILLNESS by Martha U. Jachowski

Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Committee

The exact coverage provided by one's health insurance policy is a subject seldom dwelt upon by the average consumer. This is especially true when it comes to mental illness. Unless the individual or a member of his family has already been confronted with the reality of facing bills for mental health treatment, the consumer more than likely assumes that his insurance coverage will pay the same for mental illness as it does for other illnesses. Such

Third-party insurance companies, including Blue Cross/Blue Shield, pay for most physical illnesses the full cost of inpatient care and at least 80% of the cost of outpatient and other "major medical expenses." They pay far less for the treatment of mental

Maryland law requires that all health insurance policies must include benefits for treatment of "acute mental illnesses and emotional disorders" at least equal to basic prescribed miniums. These n nums are inpatient service for 30 days in a hospital and 65% of the outpatient benefits provided for other illnesses. If an individual has not used his full 30 day inpatient benefit in a year, he is allowed 120 days of service, up to $30 per day, in an approved psychiatric halfway house. All of this means that privately insured individuals receiving mental health treatment may have as little as one half of their mental health treatment bills paid for by their insurance (65% of the 80% = 52%) despite the fact that they carry a health insurance policy.

People with very low incomes and no private insurance who qualify for Medical Assistance have their outpatient mental health treatment bills reimbursed at rates far below actual costs or customary charges. Medical Assistance currently pays for inpatient mental health care in general hospitals, if it is available, but does not pay for services in state hospitals for persons age 22

A new "Maryland Access to Care" program targeted for implementation in 1991, would require most Medical Assistance recipients to choose a "primary care provider" (PCP). Physicians who participate in this program would receive up to a 50% increase in their fees for most primary care service. It is uncertain at this writing whether this new Access To Care plan would include persons with mental illness.

Some states are expanding the types of mental health services that can be paid for by Medicaid by adopting a federal law that allows for a "rehabilitation services option." This option allows coverage for Medicaid-eligible persons to receive treatment wherever it is needed, even if it is in the home or on the street. Currently Maryland Medical Assistance recipients can only have their care for mental illnesses reimbursed if it is provided in a mental health center or clinic. The 1990 Maryland

Two people asked me why I hadn't written about any books recently. So in response to public demand, the following is a list of books I liked, with brief comments.

Three Blind Mice by Ed McBain (Fiction) - This is one of his Matthew Hope novels. Regardless of the dust jacket blurbs McBain is no Dashiel Hammett, but he's pretty good. Wah-To-Yah By Lewis Garrard (Nonfiction) - Interesting little book by a seventeen year old who went west for his health in 1846. He spent a year with mountain men, traders and Indians. Contains excellent descriptions of Indian life.

Hyperion and Fall of Hyperion by Dan Simmons (Science Fiction) - I loved the first line, "The Hegemony Consul sat on the balcony of his ebony spaceship and played Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C-sharp Minor on an ancient but well-maintained Steinway while great, green, saurian things surged and bellowed in the swamps below.'

Burn Marks by Sara Paretsky (Fiction) - Ms. Paretsky has written a series of mysteries featuring a female private investigator named V.I. Warshawski. This is the only one I have read. I thought it was very good and plan to read more.

Charles Goodnight: Cowman and Plainsman by J. Evetts Haley (Nonfiction) — Charles Goodnight and his partner Oliver Loving were the basis for Larry McMurtry's Lonesome Dove. Goodnight was a renowned scout, Indian fighter and rancher. He established several of the early trails which were used to drive cattle from Texas to Northern Markets.

Killing Mr. Watson by Peter Matthiessen (Fiction) - Killing Mr. Watson is the story of a Florida community of the early 1900's. Their relationship to and eventual killing of Mr. Watson, a legendary outlaw, is told from the viewpoint of various community Vacations In Hell by P.J. O'Rourke (Nonfiction) - Tales of travels to out of the way places. The only intentionally funny Republican writer that I know.

Losing Ground by Hugh Ulrich (Nonfiction) - This book is about the decline of U.S. agriculture. It is an important book, but depressing. Since 1910 the percentage of the U.S. population living on farms has declined from over 30% to less than 2%. Modern agricultural practices in this country are causing massive losses of topsoil, depleting ground water supplies, and tainting drinking water with chemical residues. #### COMMUNITY SERVICE DAY 1990 MAKING TIME FOR MARYLAND

What is Community Service Day, and why do we celebrate such a day in Maryland? This is something to think about as our second annual Community Service Day approaches on October

Strong communities are important to Maryland. And even more important are the people who volunteer their time and skills to make each community special. I meet these people everywhere go. People who work in nursing homes hospital volunteers library assistants, reading tutors, Jaycess, Girl Scouts — the list is endless and the contributions they make to each community are invaluable. On Community Service Day we want all Marylanders to join the people who regularly volunteer their time for us and Everyday, I see or hear from people who want to help make the towns they live in a better place to live and work. Marylanders want to help, and once they know how they can make a difference, they respond heartily. Last year, more than 70,000 people from all over the state took part in our first Community Service Day. They hauled trash out of streams; visited the elderly; planted trees; picked up litter along roadways; spent time with disadvantaged children -- because they care about our state and the people who live here. That isn't hard to believe when you have met as many warm and caring people in Maryland as I have.

This year, Community Service Day activities are being organized in every part of the state. Boy Scouts in Kent County will be clearing a wheelchair path at Camp Fairlee. Montgomery County residents will join other volunteers in preparing red ribbons to be tied on cars for the MADD campaign in Rockville Residents of Harford County will be cleaning up streams, and Baltimore City will sponsor a public health fair featuring 25 human service organizations. This is only a partial list of over 100

Gentle Reminder By Mary Sincell McEwen

Several months ago, I half-listened to a report on "The Morning Edition" on National Public Radio (NPR). The newscaster told of a strange phenomenon happening in some of the wheatfields of England. He explained how the wheat was being bent down in certain spots, forming various circular patterns, which ranged in size anywhere from a few feet across to four or five times that. There were no clues as to what was making these designs, although the tabloids were vigorously touting the idea of extra-terrestrials. According to the NPR person, the phenomenon was generally thought of as some sort of hoax.

I went on to work that morning, thinking only a little about the mysterious circles.

However, as I have heard more and more information on these "circles in the wheat," I find myself quite occupied with thoughts about them, feeling a mixture of perplexity and sheer delight as more and more theories by laymen and scientists alike are soundly disproved.

The most recent report I sat riveted to was on ABC's 20/20. Several of the fascinating designs were captured on film, some appearing, literally overnight, while the reporter was quite near.

In some of the patterns, a large circle is outlined by a ring of more flattened wheat, or connected to another circle by a straight line. Sometimes four small circles will form a square, connected with lines. The spectacles are perfectly geometric, yet chillingly There are some facts about the rings, albeit few. For instance, the occurrences of the wheat rings have been highly concentrated within a 50-mile radius of Stonehenge, the famous ring of monolithic stone slabs, built centuries ago by people who technically should not have been able to build such a structure. Although Stonehenge is the best known and most-intact, there are, interestingly enough, several more ancient stone circles in the same area as Stonehenge and the current wheat phenomenon.

A theory was voiced on 20/20 - could these circles have appeared in ancient times, prompting curious yet reverent people to build monuments and worship the supposed deity responsible?

More down-to-earth facts concern the wheat itself. Although the stalks have been "pushed" until they are almost completely horizontal, the wheat has not been damaged in any way and continues to grow. Stranger yet, according to one report, the actual molecular structure of the flattened wheat is different from the standing stalks, apparently altered in the curious process.

When I was explaining the events to my nearly 12-year-old nephew, he was immediately skeptical.

'Someone's just out there pushing it down at night," he said. 'Someone ought to stay up all night and just watch for it to

I quickly informed him that folks are already at it, and even have a name: crop watchers. These people do indeed sit up all night, armed with night-time cameras, microphones, and other tracking devices, waiting for even a small sign from the field. They have yet to see any.

And as far as "someone's just out there pushing it down" well, that has been tried, too. Those attempting to imitate the designs have ended up with a pattern only slightly similar, as well as a lot of mangled and crushed wheat. No one has been able to create an imitation that is even close to the real thing.

Theories have been as many and varied as one can imagine ranging from "a wild boar running amok" to an unknown wind pattern in which a "ball of air" descends to the earth, spins, and then dissipates.

The 20/20 reporter said he almost swallowed this wind idea. until he spent an entire night with the "crop watchers." He interviewed them on film, and kept his eye on the field all night, seeing nothing, only to discover in the morning that the most intricate of all the designs to date - absolutely not made by wind - had been created in the very next field. To me, this episode seemed almost whimsically planned.

As far as theories, I do have my own, although it's not so much a theory as it is a sense or feeling about the phenomenon. As remote as it may seem, I do feel a connection between the circles and our world situation.

As the tension mounts in the Persian Gulf, as we slash and burn our rain forests, as species after species of animals and plants become extinct, what better way could there be to nudge us humans, ever so gently? To grasp our attention in these turbulent times and remind us that we are not the only living beings on this

As the circles in the wheat appear again and again, I enjoy to the fullest the fact that scientists are stumped by them again and again. Perhaps something is suggesting to us that although we are wonderfully intelligent and capable beings, we simply do not know all the answers - we do not always know "what's best" for our world. We're here, the other animals and plants are here, all sharing this little globe of life.

Sometimes I think the circles in the wheat should be headlined first in newscasts - a possible message to us all to mind what we do, and to cherish our Earth.

To the Editor: The Editor's Note in last week's edition of your newspaper certainly came as a slap in the face to the Gregg family and to all the friends political supporters of Ernie Gregg. For the better part of the past two months, you have printed every word of the letters that denounced Mr. Gregg's performance as a public servant as well as his character. Quite obviously, no attempt was made on your part to verify any of the so-called "facts" or accusations which appeared in those letters. Instead, you allowed such tripe to grace your editorial page, thereby giving credibility to the lies and innuendoes that filled those letters.

Recently, it has been brought our attention by supporters of Mr. Gregg, and confirmed in conversation with you, that positive, truthful letters were indeed submitted to your news paper, but were either edited, so as to water-down the intent of the letter, or were not printed at all. This represents a "changing the rules in the middle of the game," so to speak. Fairness dictates that your letter policy should be consistent all during the course of a political campaign. While we realize that a public official, such as Mr. Gregg, is open to a certain degree of public criticism, that criticism should not be defaming. Nor should the title of "incumbent" shackle a candidate running for re-election to an office. Ideally, the campaign trail would be much cleaner if it avoided your editorial page altogether. Sincerely,

Fred & Carol Gregg Son and Daughter-in-law Of incumbent County Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. Dear Greggs.

We do not see it as our role to verify "facts" and accusations in letters to the editor. In general, letter writers express their opinions and it is the reader's choice whether or not to agree with them. If they

"facts," it is the reader's choice whether or not to believe them. We have received ONE letter as you describe in your second paragraph. We received it last week and it appears on this page today. Yes, it has been edited, but the only deletions were those which asked persons to vote for Mr. Gregg. We have never run letters that are out right endorsements for any candidates. We do not print such letters because we would most likely be inundated with them from supporters of the various candidates. So we really have not "changed the rules in the middle of the game. Yes, in a sense the incumbent candidate is shackled, because his opponents can take all kinds of pot shots at him, and he can't do likewise if his opponent has never held the office. But incumbents are "fair game" for not only criticism, but also praise, It's just part of the job.

We have always published those letters in which the county commissioners have been com-

To the Editor: I would like to comment on some of the statements made by Commissioner Ernest Gregg after he was defeated by Brenda Butscher in the primary election. But first, let me say that I believe a write-in cam-paign at this point is a farce and should not be permitted. It undermines the whole purpose of the primary election. If write-in campaigns are going to become part of the general election, we might as well do away with the primary and let every body run in November. Back to

Mr. Gregg's statements: "So after I sifted through everything and saw that only 1,400 voters had decided the fate of the county . . ." Where in the world did he get that number? He received 1,484 votes, Mrs Butscher, 1,575 and Mr. Brodak 565, making a total of 3,624 votes, not 1,400.

"The people have been telling me that it is unfair for an election to be stolen like this one.

Coastal Lumber Sawmill Reopens

Coastal Lumber Company's Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., sawmill returned to full production recently following a devastating fire in early June. The fires caused over $750,000 in damage to the facility and resulted in a total shutdown of the mill. According to Barry Cook, Coastal's vice-president for northern operations, the mill was rebuilt with a mix of outside construction forms as well as employees from the sawmill. "They all worked hard to rebuild the mill and aided in the rapid restart of the plant,' said Cook

The fire marshal's office has determined that arson was the cause of the fire, but no arrests have been made at this time.

Preston County Food Distribution Set October 18

The Preston County Office of North Central West Virginia Community Action will be coordinating the distribution of surplus food commodities on October 18. Participants are asked to bring their own bags or boxes to pick up food.

The distribution schedule and sites are as follows: Arthurdale Presbyterian Church, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Aurora Fire Hall, 9 a.m. to noon; Camp Dawson, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Newburg Senior Center, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Rowlesburg Fire Hall, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Evergreen Baptist Church, Terra Alta, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Tunnelton United Methodist Church, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and Bruceton Mills United Methodist Church, 9 a.m. to

The Preston County Senior Center can no longer be used as a distribution site because of expansion of the services being offered there. As a result, all persons with a valid green card for the Senior Center must pick up their surplus food at Camp Dawson during this distribution. After this, everyone with the Senior Center as their pick-up site must come into the Kingwood Community Action office and have their card changed to a new location for future distributions. Persons with questions are urged to call 329-1028

Mr. Gregg says he has received "a great deal of support from members of the Democratic party . . . because they feel like they have no voice in Garrett County government." Who's fault is that? It is he, not Mrs. Butscher, who has been commissioner in District 3 for the past 12 years. If I were Democratic commissioner John Braskey, I wouldn't be too happy with that statement.

"Last Tuesday evening I accepted the fact that we had lost and you have to be gracious whether you win or lose . . late Tuesday and early Wednesday word got out and the county was in a state of shock." Changing the rules just because vo lose doesn't sound ver gracious to me. It has been more than three weeks since the election and I can see no evidence of the county being in a state of shock. Judging by the total he came up with "after sifting through everything," I would say that it was he who was in a state of shock.

He blames his defeat on the low voter turnout (44%). It should be remembered that Democratic voters didn't have much of a selection of county officials to vote for. The candidates in Commissioner Districts 1 and 3 were all Republicans, as were those running for Clerk of Circuit Court. Several other office holders had no opposition in either party. As a result, many Democrats may

None of these statements made by commissioner Gregg justifies a write-in eampaign aimed at overturning results of the primary. Write-in campaigns conducted by those who lost in the primary makes a mockery of that election. The official count has been made and the results should stand.

> Yours truly, Robert F. Stewart

To the Editor: If you are a regular reader of this column, you may recall my comments, on more than one occasion, decrying the lack of open government in Garrett County and the tight control a handful of people exercise here. The foundation for such statements was laid as a direct result of my experiences in attempting to bring charges, on behalf of the thirty familie residing in Shallmar, MD, against those who directed and carried out the ILLEGAL destruction of their old town water system in March of this year

Many of you already know of the difficulties we've had in this relatively simple and straight forward case of trespass and destruction of personal prop-

Having been history major and a would be high school civics teacher (I graduated from Frostburg State in 1956 as a family of four, and quickly discovered that I literally could not afford to teach), I naturally thought of the grand jury as our 18th Century Founding Fathers conceived it: As the People's Panel, and a safeguard against governmental oppression. "The Establishment" here in Garrett County may very well be in the process of making me reassess that conception by denying me and the thirty families I repre-

Although riddled with in- win over Turkeyfoot in the last Huskies re-grouped and utilized a tenacious defensive performance Friday night to record a 19-0 shutout of visiting Turkeyfoot High School. It was the third win in four starts for the Huskies who will host East Preston this week in their homecoming contest.

The Huskies allowed Turkeyfoot just 23 yards in total offense, including a minus 12 yards on the ground. Meanwhile, the Northern offense, led by back-up quarterback Chad Anderson, finished with 294 yards of offense. Anderson passed for 135 yards and two touchdowns.

Northern scored all the points it would need in the first quarter when Jon Houser, who finished carried the ball eight yards for a touchdown.

Anderson then connected with Doug Brenneman on a 23-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and, on the Huskies' next series, he hit Chris Jenkins with a 44-yard scoring strike. None of the conversion kicks by Houser were good. Defensive standouts for the Huskies were Stacy Fike, Randy Dolan, and Jarred McKenzie, who each finished with nine

In a thriller match against the Southern Rams, the Huskies pulled out a victory that took wo hours and five games to omplete. Northern jumped out to a 2-0 lead, 15-7 and 15-7, but the Rams came back to win the next two, 15-9 and 15-7. The Rams held a 7-3 advantage in the fifth and deciding contest before the Huskies rebounded to score 12 points compared to just two by the Rams.

Pam Miller paced Northern with 16 service points and April Slagle followed with 14. Miller was also perfect at the service line with 26 good serves. Overall, the Huskies were 90 percent effective at the service line, hitting 100 good serves out

"We didn't really do anything right tonight," stated Northern Coach Vonda Yunker following the match. "Bad passes led to bad sets which foiled our hitting attack. Fort Hill has a vastly improved team this year; however, we didn't play up to our potential either. We are going back to the fundamentals during our next few practices."

Eric Biser took a Steve Prosser pass off the opening kickoff and rifled a 45-yarder that stunned the out-of-position Betz goalkeeper to give A&A a 1-0 lead five seconds into the match. Betz got on the score board 10 minutes later and again before the end of the

Mikulski Requests Extension Of Duck Hunting Season

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-Md.) has asked the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to extend the number of duck hunting days in Maryland from 30 to 34. Citing "blue" laws in Maryland which prohibit hunting on Sundays, Mikulski called the extension a basic matter of fairness.

"While hunters in other states get the full 30 days to hunt," said Mikulski, "hunters in Maryland must skip at least four Sundays. That means that Maryland hunters get 26 days at most, instead of the 30 days the that regulations intend."

In a letter to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Mikulski supported a plan suggesting that Maryland hunters be given a 34-day duck hunting season. The proposal was developed by the Atlantic Flyway Coun-

the first half, but the Southern High Rams came home from Keyser Friday evening with their third win and third shutout in four games this season, as they blanked the Golden Tornado, 18-0. The Ram defensive unit has allowed points to be scored in only two of the 16 quarters of play this year, when the powerful Musselman Applemen recorded 15 points in the second half of their game with

Southern. While the defense continued to play consistently for the Rams, the offense was plagued with turnovers in the first half, fumbling the ball three times and losing all of them. # Good Things are Happening at Sacred Heart

Riding a tractor, milking cows and doing farm chores -- they do not sound like the types of activities you would be doing immediately after gallbladder surgery. But for Delvin, a self-employed dairy farmer from Garrett County, his farm work was exactly what he was doing just three days after surgery.

Thanks to the new laser laparoscopic cholecystectomy -- gallbladder removal --Delvin only missed a couple of days of farming. Because he is self-employed and couldn't miss many days of work during the summer months, Delvin thinks this new surgical procedure is miraculous

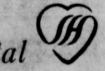

The new laser gallbladder procedure provides patients with a reduced hospital stay, a quicker return to activity, smaller surgical sites and reduced discomfort as compared to the traditional gallbladder surgery.

As an American, one who has fought for the precepts this country represents. I will ot accept the proposition that governmental agencies, be they federal, state or local, can rample the rights of individials with impunity.

On September 11, 1990, I peronally handed a stuffed manila "appointed" oreman of the Garrett County Grand Jury. It was sealed, and "The Garrett County Grand Jury, c/o Dennis Sanders, Foreman." It contained, 1.) a cover letter of our stated intentions and our request to present our grievances directly to the grand jury, 2.) an earlier letter of mine "To the Editor," outlining the charges and circumstances we are facing in our attempts to have people charged with crimes committed, 3.) Detective Sgt. Donald Tucker's Garrett County Sheriff's Office) Investigative Report clearly showing that crimes were committed, 4.) and copies of the "rejected" charging documents of the parties involved in the illegal acts described therein.

Stay tuned. I believe we are Il about to get a civics lesson in ow our government works in Garrett County; a matter of vital importance to all of us.

As parents we must make sure our local decision-makers are speaking for our children. Often times they too disagree with the decisions of the Maryand State Board of Education, but are bound by their decisions. This is an example of a time when many of our local Board members disagree with the decision of the State Board, but if the 200-day school year were to become law they would be held responsible for the implementation. We must help our elected officials by arming them with a defense to take to the Maryland State Board of Education. We cannot leave them hanging without hearing from all parents.

There are other options available such as spending these educational dollars on reduced class sizes to allow more individual time with children, more technological classrooms looking into the 21st century, or a more investigative study stead of another "quick fix"

To the Editor: As we read letters to the editor each week in your newspaper, we can not help but see all the emotional issues from animal rights, anti-timber cutting, to groups who want to take over state forest management to even what we should wear, or how we should enjoy ourselves. It seems that every aspect of our lives as humans is wrong, to one or more of these groups. Most of these emotional issues are coming from pilgrims who have not lived in this county for very long, and are the forerunners of our governor's view

My family has been in Allegany and Garrett counties prior to 1788 when the first census was taken and I for one don't like sudden changes, especially the ones being shoved down our throats. #### Mental Health Advisory

General Assembly asked the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) to conduct a cost-benefit study of this option. Since DHMH is predicting a Medicaid deficit in Fiscal Year 1991 (FY91) of $20-$40 million, it is doubtful that any measures that increase costs will be entertained by the legislature in the fore-seeable future.

Why does mental health care rate so low on insurance benefits? Unfortunately much of this treatment is a result of long time prejudicial attitudes about mental illness. Many people do not believe that mental illness is an illness. If a person only exerted his will, he could overcome his problems. If such an affliction does persist, it is presumed to be because of lack of moral fiber. Many of those individuals who are enlightened beyond these antiquated attitudes feel that mental illness is the public sector's responsibility. But who is the public? You and I.

How do we think our money would go the farthest? Studies have shown that when mental health problems are addressed early, their severity is greatly reduced. So why haven't the insurance carriers adjusted their rates accordingly?

Basically it is because of public demand. Mental health advocates have not banned together in sufficient numbers to be an effective lobbying force. We need to know our facts, then approach our elected officials with our carefully thought our rationale for increased benefits for mental health care.

What can one person do? Lots! Join a mental health advocacy group. The Maryland Mental Health Association, which provided much of the factual data in this article, monitors mental health legislation and informs and alerts its members when it is appropriate to let their views be known. Other organizations equally concerned with mental health issues are The Alliance for the Mentally III, composed of families and citizens concerned about mental illness, and On Our Own, a self-help group of mentally III patients. Any of these groups would welcome your support in the effort to make the public aware of the staggering personal costs of mental illness.

The advent of autumn and winter need not result in the loss of enjoyment of your yard or garden. You merely replace the flowers with birds and bird feeding. The increasing popularity of bird feeding has resulted in changes in the birds' habits of feeding and migration. Some species are staying longer in the north, becoming dependent on the readily available food supply, hence a few general statements are in order.

If you plan to feed birds over the winter, do so on a regular basis. Do not suddenly, and for an extended period of time, cease to provide foods. Place your feeders in a sheltered part of your yard, with trees (evergreens if possible) nearby to offer protection and a resting place for the birds. Be careful with metal containers in cold weather as the unfeathered parts of the birds can freeze to the exposed metal. And to attract your first birds, try crumbled white bread spread near your feeders. Although it is a favorite, it is nutritionally poor, so use it sparingly.

The feed you use and the feeders which contain it are determined by the feeding habits of the birds and the types of foods offered.

For the ground feeders, a feeding tray covered and raised off the ground is sufficient. For the others a hanging-type feeder or pole feeder is used. Select one with holes suitable for the size of the feed offered, e.g., small slits for thistle or niger seed. The feeding stations themselves should accommodate larger birds. The shapes are infinite — box, lantern, columnar — but all should provide sufficient protection against rain and snow. A simple suet bag or container is all that is required to hold suet pieces or cakes.

Food consists of seeds, grains, bakery products, kitchen scraps, nutmeats, suet, and fat mixtures. Wild bird seed mixes are convenient, but expensive. You can mix your own and store in galvanized steel garbage cans, tightly covered. Whatever feed you use, check carefully for spoilage and avoid using mildewed food. Some of the most successful foods are sunflower seeds; cracked or whole kernel corn (a caution: although popular, it can attract undesirable birds and it spoils quickly, particularly if cracked); canary seed, and white millet. Peanut butter is a particular favorite, but never offer it alone. Mix it with cornmeal, seeds or suet, as birds can choke to death on it.

Do try to provide water. Salt can be obtained from bakery products, bacon grease, peanut butter and nuts. Or you can pour a saline solution over a stump until crystals form. Be careful — too much can kill. Grit can be readily supplied by crushed egg shells.

As for squirrels, you can try "squirrel-proof" feeders, attach baffles to existing feeders, move feeders to more open spaces or acquire a yapping dog. Good luck!

friends and do a good deed at a giant clean-up project along the Potomac River at the Anacostia River Park in Prince George's County. The Potomac is a major tributary of the Chesapeake and needs our help. Already 4,000 volunteers from Garrett County to St. Mary's County have agreed to participate as well as residents of Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

RESPIRATORY CARE WEEK PROCLAIMED — The Garrett County Commissioners this week declared October 7-13 as Respiratory Care Week and urged citizens to be aware of the contributions made by the members of the respiratory health services. Recognized as one of the fastest growing allied health professions and an essential part of the health care system, respiratory therapy assists in diagnosing diseases of the lungs by pulmonary function studies and blood gas analysis. The American Association for Respiratory Therapy represents more than 25,000 professionals. Shown in the above photo, standing, are Lona Livengood, certified respiratory therapy technician, and Eric Tribbey, registered respiratory therapist. Seated, left to right, are county commissioners, Ernest J. Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey.

I plan to be there, too. To find out the details of how you can join in "Healing a River for the Life of the Chesapeake" on Community Service Day, call Governor's Chesapeake Bay Communications Office at (301) 974-5300.

What is so unique about Community Service Day is that there are activities for everyone. Many people are concerned about the environment. You'll see them at a tree plantings or recycling centers. Others enjoy working with people — like the people who live at the St. Mary's County Nursing Center. They plan to bake banana bread for the residents at a facility for the elderly and handicapped.

When I think of all the wonderful projects planned and all the generous people involved, I feel even more proud to live in Maryland. I hope you will make time for Maryland and join me on October 13. If you have an idea for a project on Community Service Day or want more information on what is planned in your area, please call the Secretary of State's Office at (301) 974-5521. And when it's over, I'd like to hear about what you did for Community Service Day and how you think we can keep that special volunteer spirit alive all year long. Please write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

world to be flat. Dangerous monsters and hideous creatures were said to lie in wait in unexplored seas and foreign lands. Yet one brave man, Christopher Columbus, had faith that he could conquer those fearful challenges and reach the West Indies. After six years of waiting, he convinced Queen Isabella of Spain to finance his expedition, and following two difficult months of seas, although he did not reach the Indies, he discovered the land which would later be known as America. It must have taken tremendous courage and faith for Columbus to remain true to his dream in spite of fear and discouragement. As in Columbus' time, we may find it difficult to remain true to our convictions in the face of disappointment and temptations. Yet, let us remember, as we celebrate Columbus Day, the importance of the impact of one man's faith.

As we worship this week, may we pray for strength and guidance as we encounter unforeseen challenges in our lives.

GOD CALLING! October 7, 1990

Background Scripture: 2 Kings 9:1-11 Devotional Reading: Psalms 20

This story is more than it seems It appears to be the story of God calling Jehu. But it is really much more than that. It is also about God's call to everyone-and particularly to you. The first person we encounter is

Elisha the prophet. He had been called by God to become the successor to the prophet Elijah, who symbolically had passed on his mantle to him. The message from God came first of all through Elisha. He was called to transmit that message and he did. The next person in the story is listed simply as "one of the sons of the prophets" and identified only as "a young man." He is given a vitally important and perhaps even dangerous mission. (We're not sure why Elisha warned him to deliver his message and "then open the door and flee," but he was probably fearful that either some would reject this command from God.) Although he fulfills his mission and is successful, still, his name is not recorded for us. And that's the way it is very often: it is the mission God gives us, not per sonal recognition, that is truly im-portant. How many missions for God have been performed in this world by people whose names have

The third person in this story is Jehu, the army commander. The writer is careful to indicate that Jehu was a hesitant or even reluctant candidate. When, at first, the young prophet arrives in Ramoth-gilead and approaches the army commanders, Jehu asks him: "Which of us all?" (9:5). And later, when the prophet has annointed him king and left, when the others ask him what the prophet wanted, Jehr stalls a bit: "You know the fellow and his talk" (9:11). It is only when they insist that he reveals to them that the prophet has annointed him King of Israel. Jehu was satis fied to be an army commander; he often neither are we. That is not the end of God's calling in this story: "Then in haste every man of them took his garment, and put it under him on the bare steps, and they blew his trum pet and proclaimed, 'Jehu is king' If Elisha, the anonymous proph and Jehu had all answered God' call and the people had not accept ed their new king, God's plan would have been dealt a setback. Some-that we too can know when it is God calling us!

Diane Keaton will make her debut as a prime-time TV director in an upcoming episode of ABC's China Beach. The episode will look at Nurse Colleen Mc-Murphy's (Dana Delany) life back in the States after her tour of duty in Vietnam has

The Log Lady, a familiar figure in Twin Peaks, seems to possess an extraordinary, otherworldly understanding. Catherine Coulson has known she would play the character of the Log Lady since 1972. She first met director David Lynch when he cast her in the role of the nurse in his cult classic, Eraserhead. Over the course of the four years which that movie was in production. she found herself mastering many skills. Most memorably, she created Henry's famous hairdo for the film. It was then Lynch told her: "Someday you're going to play a girl with a log in a TV series that I want to do."

Danny Elfman, who composed the memorable music for such films as Dick Tracy Batman, Beetlejuice and Pee-Wee's Big Adventure, has written the score for The Flash, the new CBS actionadventure series based on the classic DC Comics superhero. ## Ol' pea picker may join Hall of Fame

By Amy Schmidt "If this thing comes to me in The Hall of Fame, I'll thank 'em. If it doesn't I'll be the first one on my feet to applaud the one that does,' said Tennessee Ernie Ford of his nomination into The CMA Hall of Fame.

The winner will be determined during The 24th Annual Country Music Association Awards, to air live from Nashville, Monday, Oct. 8, on CBS. Nominated along with Ford are Don Gibson, George Jones, The Louvin Brothers and Webb

Hardly could one ask for a more gracious and downto-earth nominee than Ford who, himself, hosted the event three times. When asked if he has his acceptance speech written, Ford burst into a modest, almost incredulous, chuckle. "Yah, two words," he said. "Or do George M. Cohan: 'My mother thanks you, my father thanks you, my wife thanks you and good night,' he joked.

Of his success, the country music legend, who began his career in radio and went on to host one of the very first live variety shows on television, magnanimously credits others ("Some friends who really thought I had more going for me than I really did myself"). Among them is Berle Adams. "He not only thought I had some talent. but worked with me and showed me a lot of the ropes. And he was a great mentor and teacher. I still call him today and talk to him," said

Not to be neglected in that group is Merle Travis, who wrote "Sixteen Tons," Ford's biggest hit. "It was like Bing Crosby gettin' White Christmas, marked Ford. If dear Bing Crosby were workin' somewhere in July he couldn't leave the stage without sing-'White Christmas.' That kind of identity is forever."

He and his wife of a little more than a year, Beverly, (he was previously widower) enjoy spending time fishing and horseback riding in a wilderness area in central Idaho where they have a cabin. Ford speaks of her as affectionately as a man can: "Beverly has been Ford only makes about four stage appearances a year now. But this kind of rest marvelous outdoors person. a real special lady — and a beautiful lady, too," Ford and relaxation has been a long time coming, he said.

I got to show her that." Ford also has two sons, Buck and Brion, who are doing well in Nashville with their own careers, and he has four grandchildren. Whether or not Buck and Brion see the success that he has is not important, he said. What is evident from talk-his time in the limelight and that he truly appreciates life. "I'm very happy now. These years I have left. I'm thankful I'm healthy and that my family is healthy, and that means so much. And," said Ford, "It's pretty nice to be able to still jump on a horse and ride through the moun-

Actress Alley Mills stars as Norma, Mom of the Arnold family, on the hit series The Wonder Years in its third season, airing Wednesdays on ABC.

'Wonder Years' mom

not like Alley Mills

Actress contrasts with her character

If you've seen actress Alley Mills on ABC's hit series The Wonder Years, Wednes-days, you may have gotten the impression that Kevin Arnold's mom off-stage is a soft-spoken and passive woman. Not so. Alley Mills decades away from her alter-ego, Norma.

turn on the show, in real-life is a mile-a-minute talker. The vivacious actress grew up in New York City, the Jaughter of a TV writ-er/producer, and a magazine editor dedicated to providing her daughter the best education possible.

Accordingly, Mills became one of the first female attendees of Yale University, and graduated magna cum laude. By contrast, Norma is only a high-school graduate.

is single and has no children. She is currently "involved" with someone but declines to mention who. "I'd rather not say," she confesses. "We've been photographed in The Enquirer, though." This isn't much of a clue for fans diligent upon going through back issues, because she has been pictured with a number of so-called "romantic inter-ests" in the tabloid, including her Wonder Years husband Dan Lauria. Mills says the cast really is like a big family on the set, however. "I really do feel like their Mom, in a way," says Mills of her show kids Fred Savage, Jason Hervey and Olivia d'Abo. She says many mothers approach her when she's out in public, because, despite this being the age of the "new woman," many still identify with Norma. This year on the series Norma gets a job outside of the Arnold home

Fantasies, ambition fueled Steven Spielberg's career

By Polly Vonetes Q: I am a big fan of Steven Spielberg. Can you sum up his childhood background for me? Plus, if one is interested in becoming a director or a producer, what would be his first step? Is there a school for it? If there is, may I have the address? —Matt Hua, Riverside, Calif. A: Steven Spielberg was born Dec. 18, 1947, in Cincinnati, Ohio. While still in grammar school in New Jersey, he shot his first movie - a three-and-ahalf-minute western. One day he missed a Boy Scout troop excursion on which everybody spotted a UFO. Hearing about the incident prompted him, at write, direct and edit a twoand-a-half-hour movie called Firelight, an outer space invasion saga. While a film student at California State College at Long Beach, Spielberg wrote and directed a short called Amblin'. On the basis of this film he was signed by Universal Studios to a seven-year director's contract at the age of 21. He directed a number of epi-sodes of TV's Marcus Welby, M.D. before his Emmy-winning made-fortelevision movie Duel. His first feature film, The Sugarland Express starring Goldie Hawn, was hailed by critics and led to his directing Jaws. Fueled by fantasies and ambition, Spielberg is a perfectionist and a workaholic. These qualities have combined to make him a successful director and filmmaker. Living in California as you do, you are near some of the best colleges in the knows role By Candace Havens Karen Moncrieff is what the critics call an "eye-catching beauty," and she has an enormous amount of talent to complement that amazing beauty. She is one of Santa Barbara's newest shining stars as the somewhat manipulative Cassandra Benedict. "Cassie is a kind of enigma. She's been ingratiating her self into the lives of the people she knew when she was about 8 years old," commented Moncrieff in a recent interview. "She has basically assured everyone that they can trust her, and now she is going to wreak havoc in all of their lives."

While the character's ob session with Mason Capwell hasn't come full tilt, we will all soon be witness to Cas sie's undying affection for him. But the actress is certain that her character will pose no threat to super couple Mason and Julia There is just something about them and nobody else on daytime comes close to what they are doing." A few years ago on Days of Our Lives, Moncrieff found herself in the same situation. She played Gabrielle Pascal, who was obsessed with Shane (Charles Shaughnessy), who was part of another super couple.

During her time off between Days and SB, Moncrieff concentrated on "being a human being." "I got married in the interim and took the time to make home for Michael and myself. I decorated and started a garden—things that I just barely have time to maintain now," she said.

DNR Announces Green Shores Buffer Incentives

Trees planted in buffer strips along waterways remove sediment, excess nutrients and other polluntants found in runoff and subsurface groundwater, according to the Department of Natural Resources, and buffers provide many other benefits as well by serving as protected corridors for wildlife and by enhancing aquatic habitats

As Marylanders welcome the array of colors and the cool temperatures of fall, the DNR is encouraging landowners to participate in the Green Shores Buffer Incentives Program

DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Services (FPWS) will pay private landowners $200 per acre to plant and maintain forested buffers around the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Grant money will be paid to the landowner one year following the tree plantings, after inspection by a FPWS forester to ensure that there is an adequate survival rate of

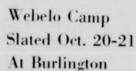

To be eligible to participate in BIP, a property owner must plant at lease one acre — and no more than 50 acres - within 300 feet of a stream, river, pond, wetland or other open water. Other eligible land would be within the 100-year flood plain. The landowner must agree to plant and maintain the buffer for ten years and follow the recommendations of plan prepared by a FPWS forester.

This incentive program does not apply to reforesting of recently harvested or recently cleared forest land, orchards, Christmas trees, or trees required to be planted by law. Applications will be accepted by DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Tawes State Office Building, 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis, MD 21401. Applications will be approved on a first-come, first-serve

To receive guidelines about the Green Shores BIP or to receive an application and a grant agreement, persons should contact FPWS forester as listed in the local telephone directory or call the forestry headquarters office in Annapolis at (301) 974-3776

FPWS Announces Cabin Reservation Procedure Change

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources-Forest, Park and Wildlife Service (DNR-FPWS) will now offer campers the opportunity to reservations one calendar year in advance of the current date for cabins at Maryland state parks.

announced that John P. Hughes, a student at NHS, has been named a commended student in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

A letter of commendation

Merit Scholarship Corporation, which conducts the program, will be presented to the outstanding senior.

About 35,000 commended students nationwide are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1989 PSAT/NMSQT, which places them in the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the 1991 Merit Program by taking the qualifying test.

Commended students scored slightly below the level required to continue in the 1991 competition for Merit Scholarships, but they have shown exceptional academic promise

An official of the Merit Program stated, "Being named a commended student in this extremely competitive program is a credit to these young people and their schools. Commended students were offered an opportunity to be referred by the Merit Program to two colleges or universities of their choice. #### State Education Board Votes To Increase School Year By 20 Days voted last week to add 20 days to the school year by adding five days a year for four years beginning in the 1992-93 school

The board's 6-3 vote was an endorsement of a major proposal first made last spring by State School Superintendent Joseph L. Shilling. The longer school year was one of 15 strategies proposed by Shilling as part of his "Schools for Success" school improvement

Shilling estimated the state's share of the cost in the first year school year 1992-93 - at $53.3 million. He said the annual cost in state aid to cover the added days would increase each of the four years. Local school systems, which would determine where in their school calendars to add the days, would also face higher costs. The State board proposal will

The State Board of Education become part of the State Department of Education's legislative package to be considered by the governor. The governor expressed his enthusiasm for the "Schools for Success" reform proposals when they were first announced.

Following the board vote, Shilling said all students would benefit from a longer school year. He said the added time would enable students having difficulty learning to catch up with other students, and gifted students would be given more time for in-depth study

In agreeing to add 20 days to the current 180-day school year. the board rejected an alternative proposal to lengthen the school day to a minimum of seven and a half hours. Currently the school day in most school systems is six and a half hours

Byron Co-Sponsors Bill To Improve Medicare Benefits

Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) said this week she is co-sponsoring legislation that will expand Medicare benefits to include four services that were part of the catastrophic health insurance package that was passed by Congress in 1988 but then repealed a year later.

The services: mammography, home health care screening, respite, and hospice care will be fully financed by an increase of 80 cents per month of the part B Medicare premium in 1991 rising to only $1.30 per month five years after the program is fully implemented.

Byron said that numerous congressional hearings and studies had confirmed the value of the benefits. Preventive mammography screening for elderly and disabled Medicare beneficiaries is estimated to save 4,000 lives a year.

Under the provisions of the proposed bill, women ages 65 and older would be eligible for biennial mammography screening. Disabled beneficiaries would be eligible for baseline screening with subse quent annual screenings for high-risk 40 to 49 year-old beneficiaries and all disabled between 50 and 64. Women between 34 and 40 will be eligible for one screening.

The home health benefit included in the bill will cover daily services for up to 38 days for Medicare patients who need home health services to recover from illness, regain strength, or improve their functional abilities. The bill will also provide up to 80 hours of respite to caregivers of chronically dependent, homebound Medicare beneficiaries, making it possible for them to remain in their homes and avoid institutionalization. "These benefits were an important part of the catastrophic legislation that Congress repealed last year. I'm glad we've found a way to put them back in the Medicare package of services without it creating an additional financial burden for our elderly," said Rep. Byron.

Grants Available To Providers Of Child Care

Grants of up to $500 are now available to individuals who qualify as family child care providers, according to Department of Housing and Community Development Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers. The grants will provide funds for expenses required to comply with State Family Child Care Provider Registration regulations.

The Family Child Care Provider Grant Program is state funded, and is a join effort between the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) and the Department of Human Resources (DHR). The program is administered by the Office of Community Services of the Community Assistance Administration within DHCD.

"More and more families are in need of child care, and registered family child care homes are an important component of child care services. We should encourage and support providers in order to assure quality care for our children," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers. These grants are intended for low-income households who may need assistance to comply with various equipment needs, safety regulations, and other expenses to meet registration

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer, last week sold $95,000,000 in General Obligation Bonds for a low interest bid of 6.9963%. The bonds are rated "Triple A," the highest possible rating by Investors' Service. Moody's Standard and Poor's Corporation, and Fitch's Investors Service, the three major bond rating agencies.

The winning bid came from a syndicate of leading financial institutions from across the country led by Chase Securities, Inc., with a number of Maryland firms including Alex Brown & Sons, Inc.; First National Bank of Maryland: Ferris, Baker, Watts, Inc.: and American Security Bank, A total of five bids were received at the Annapolis meeting of the Board.

The Board of Public Works is authorized to approve the sale of General Obligation Bonds, and to supervise the expenditure of all funds obtained from the sale of these bonds. Proceeds from the sale will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including $46.5 million for general state construction; $25 million for public school construction: and another $33.5 million for a variety of state and local projects including community college construction, water quality projects, cultural, educational and health facilities in almost every county and Baltimore City.

Maryland remains one of only a handful of states in the nation to win the coveted triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

"We received five bids from syndicates representing the most prestigious financial institutions in America. In a market described as 'kittish.' we can be very pleased that Maryland General Obligation bonds continue to be extremely attractive to investors. As economies in other eastern states run into difficulties, this is indicative of the continued confidence in Maryland's financial management, and the quality of our bonds" said Treasurer Maurer. The close and very competitive bidding for our bonds by these banks and bond dealers is a further indication of Maryland's solid reputation."

Comptroller Goldstein said, 'Given the unusual circumstances in the Persian Gulf and the fact that Congress and the President cannot agree on a federal budget, we received the best rate possible."

Governor Schaefer said of the sale, "The taxpayers can be happy we received an excellent interest rate in a tight market.

The low interest rate obtained by Maryland on general obligation bonds is important to every state taxpaver because of the significant savings in repaying the bonds. The highly regarded triple A rating ensures that Maryland taxpayers benefit from the state paying the lowest possible cost of borrowing money for capital projects. General Obligation bonds are repaid with revenue from the state real state tax and from general fund revenues.

Future Of State Libraries Topic Of Conference

Delegates to the Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services recently asked Gov. Schaefer to support better school libraries, services to the institutionalized, preservation of historical documents. marketing strategies, and a reexamination of the state funding formula for public libraries were Garrett County residents Sybilla Sharps and Dana Shirnrock. The delegates, both professional and lay library personnel, identified these isues as the top priorities for the future of Maryland libraries at the Sept. 23-25 conference in Towson.

The group debated nearly 300 issue statements submitted by citizens on the role of all types of libraries in promoting democracy, literacy, and economic development in the ests at the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services, set for July 9-19, 1991.

Delegates wanting to improve school libraries pushed their issue to the forefront, garnering the most votes among the 51 draft resolutions presented on the conference's final day. The top resolution called for state funding to bring school library collections and staffing up to established standards by 1995. In materials alone, school libraries in Maryland are 33 percent below guidelines set in Every Maryland school student deserves access to a quality school library," said delegate Irene Hildebrandt, a media specialist with Anne Arundel County Public Schools.

Delegates also agreed that the 22,000 people living in state institutions have been shut out of the information mainstream. They called for increased funding and adequate support staff for libraries in state institutions to better meet the infor-

delegates requested that the governor appoint a task force within a year to develop a statewide preservation plan for newspapers, local records, and other historical documents.

Feedback from citizens and workgroup discussions at the conference convinced delegates that the state's libraries are doing a poor job of informing citizens about their services.

To correct this situation, they called for all libraries to develop marketing strategies to promote library and information services available local-

Delegates asked that special attention be paid to citizens with economic, language, or educational limitations, so that they may be made aware of library services available to them They also asked that attempts be made to reach the physically challenged, the emotionally and mentally impaired, the business and industry sector, government and community leaders, children and youth, senior citizens, and those who are institutionalized.

While funding was part of the discussion on many of the is sues, only one of the top five resolutions addressed funding directly. Delegates called for the governor to appoint a task force within a year to evaluate the current state aid formula for Maryland's 24 public library

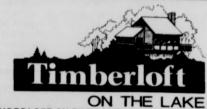

Although the top five resolutions will be highlighted in a report to the governor, a total of 38 were passed at the conference. Those with national implications will also be forwarded to the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services next summer.

The conference brought together delegates and 16 alternates representing a cross-section of Maryland citizens. library professionals, govern-ment officials, and library trustees for the first time in more than a decade.

The 1978 conference helped to build the foundation for the following year's first White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services

State Receives Federal Report On Special Ed.

A federal report on the state's special education program commends the state for parent information and training and for programs to assist handicapped youngsters make the transition from school to employment.

At the same time the report calls for improvements in the implementation of individualized education programs (IEPs) and four other areas. The State School Superintendent and other State Department of Education officials have released the report prepared by the U.S. Department of Education based on its May 1990 monitoring visit to review the state's efforts to ensure that local school systems comply with federal special education laws and regulations. The federal agency conducts monitoring reviews of state special education programs once every three or four years.

The U.S. Department of Education withdrew an earlier report based on 1986 monitoring visit to Maryland that used a process of review later found to be inadequate.

An improved process was used in the five-day monitoring visit last May. State officials said the resulting report gives valuable direction to the state in meeting its monitoring re-

Also coming in for praise from the U.S. Department of Education are the state's 14 Parent Information and Training Centers that support parents in working with their children and in obtaining the best special education programs for them.

Maryland schools sometimes serve handicapped students in separate restrictive - settings without providing adequate justification for the placements or information on alternative placements considered.

Procedural safeguards: The federal report said the State Department of Education needs to expand its monitoring of local school systems to ensure compliance with due process procedures.

The federal review that

MSTA To Sue State School Board For Lowering Of Teacher Standards

Unless the State Board of Education repeals its September 26 decision to lower entry requirements for new teachers, the 36,000-member Maryland State Teachers Association says it will seek an order from the Circuit Court to block its execution, according to a formal notice delivered to the board Monday.

"This new regulation of the state board licenses unqualified persons to teach our children. It overturns the recommendation of its own Professional Standards Advisory Board and provides a graphic example of why the standards board should be made autonomous and independent of the politicians," said MSTA President Jane R. Stern.

MSTA charges the board with violation of the open meetings law, which requires advance notice of actions to be taken. The regulation adopted by the board contradicts the meeting notice, she said.

Carl Bender Farm Is Recognized At Soil Conservation District Dinner

District held its Fifth Annual Cooperators' dinner Thursday, September 20, at the Bittinger Fire Hall. The highlight of the evening was the announcement that Carl and Martha Bender were the recipients of the Outstanding Conservation Award presented each year by the District.

Board of Supervisors chairman, welcomed those attending and thanked them for their practice of conservation to improve the soil and water and for "taking such good care of the land for future generations."

Garrett Soil Conservation District Manager Shaun Sanders took the floor to explain why the Soil Conservation District sponsored a dinner each year. "With increasing attention being focused on the environment, air quality, water quality, and groundwater," he said, "it is becoming critical that agriculture and farmers put their best foot forward and demonstrate that not all farming operations degrade the environment."

Sanders went on to say that the public needs to be made aware that many, if not most, farmers are good stewards and do practice good stewardship of the land - and they do it voluntarily. "Too often the bad or negative side of issues is highly publicized out of proportion, and this leads to public demand that laws and regulations be passed to 'correct' the perceived 'problem' " Sanders

In an effort to offset this negative publicity, the District tries to recognize the "good guys," the landowners and users who install and follow sound conservation practices. "By selecting what we call an 'Outstanding Cooperator' and sponsoring this dinner, we help to publicize the District Manager Sanders said the Benders' overall farming operation is a good example of "proper stewardship." The farm incorporates about 145 acres of contour stripcropping, and the Benders have installed 1,250 feet of waterway with a sediment control basin.

'Not only does it require a commitment to install conservation practices, but it also requires a commitment to follow and maintain these practices throughout the years," Sanders

The evening's guest speaker was Donald Spickler, director of the National Association of Conservation Districts. Spickler opened by saying that environmentalists often point toward farmers and agriculture as a cause of many environmental problems. He said, however, that farmers have been the only ones to say, "Yes, we are part of the problem, and we will be part of the solution.'

Spickler continued: "We who raise food and fiber are the reason for the good standard of living in this country today. Environmentalism means that people are living better. I firmly believe that if Soil Conservation Districts had not been established and farmers were not taking care of the land, we would not be enjoying this good standard of living.

Spickler said it has been 10 years since the first Chesapeake Bay initiatives, and "How far have we come?" He said that with the country facing a budget crunch at the state and federal levels, farmers are the only group who have said "we'll be part of the solution," and have remained committed to that. "We are aware of our liability," he said. "If we pollute a stream, the liability is ours. Agriculture will be under increasing pressure to meet environmental responsibilities as time goes on," says Spickler

Spickler said that he is one of only two farmers (the other is Maryland Agriculture Secretary Wayne Cawley) on the 33-member Governor's Committee on Growth. The group has been commissioned by Governor William Donald Schaefer to determine how to deal with growth in the state between now and the year 2020. The outcome of this committee and the governor's package will have a significant impact on agriculture, he says. "It will impact private property rights, land equity, our ability to farm and what effect noise, smell, dust, and pesticides have on our neighbors," Spickler said, and added that the issue will come to the General Assembly and advised farmers to be watch-

"Agriculture is so very diverse that what helps one farmer hurts another," Spickler said. "We need to work together so folks know about agriculture - what we're doing, how we're doing it, and its impact on society.'

He advised those present to become involved in politics - to be a part of the political process.

He asked farmers to take a critical look at their operation.

'See what you need to improve," he said, "and call your District office for help to get it done. Do this to keep the soil conservation program voluntary. Ponder where you'll be in the next 10 years. Take pride in your achievements. It's not sinful to have pride." He ended by urging farmers again to ponder their farmstead and the environment. "This decade will be the decade of the environment. Decide what you can do to help and be assured that now is the time to do it.'

Bureau Outlines Stance On Key Farm Bill Items

Neither House nor Senate versions meets that test, according to AFBF President Dean Kleckner, who said loan rates are the "first and foremost" of Farm Bureau's concerns.

A reaffirmation of the 1985 farm bill loan rate formulas would assure the competitiveness that we desire at a cost that we can afford." said Kleckner in a letter to members of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees. Loan rates, he said, should be set at 75-85 percent of the five-year average price. Kleckner also said the USDA secretary should have the authority to adjust loan rates an additional amount to assure domestic and international competitiveness.

A House-Senate conference on the farm bill could begin this week. On Friday, the administration outlined its major priorities and concerns in its socalled "red book."

'Farm Bureau,' said Kleckner, "generally agrees with USDA's broad objective of assuring that the 1990 farm bill builds upon the success of the 1985 farm bill rather than

Kleckner said Farm Bureau agrees with USDA on providing more competitive loan rates for wheat and feed grains, giving USDA more discretion in implementing crop programs, opposing the details of the bills' organic labeling standards and the need to eliminate many of the overlapping programs for conservation and water quality contained in the bills. The AFBF board of directors adopted several 1990 farm bill priority items last month, saying the final bill should provide more planting flexibility and set target prices no lower than those for the 1990 crop year. The board also said Farm Bureau oses additional payment limitations provisions or attempts to target program payments and restrict payment eligibility.

Kleckner said Farm Bureau was concerned about the inclusion of several water quality programs in both bills, and would support "limiting the number of programs to a single water quality initiative with modest acreage goals." For the conservation reserve program, Kleckner said Farm Bureau favors limiting it to 45 million acres

Also, Farm Bureau strongly opposes the Senate requirement that conservation reserve program land returning to agricultural production meet a strict "T" value erosion

Wetlands Issue Main Topic Of MASCD Conference Held At Wisp

by Kathleen Diehl MASCD Public Affairs Specialist

The non-tidal wetlands issue has been a topic of debate in many meetings throughout Maryland this summer and the recently held Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts (MASCD) annual summer meeting, at Wisp Resort, McHenry, was no exception. Members of soil conservation districts from across the state identified 20 major issues regarding non-tidal wetlands that are of concern to farmers. This was done in an effort to help guide the five federal agencies involved in wetland determination with their response to wetland protection regulations. The MASCD members - of which many are farmers themselves - represent every county in Maryland and the District of Columbia, and are knowledgeable of wetland regulation programs due to their association with soil conservation districts. In the opening session, Phil Christensen, Maryland State Conservationist from U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, and Tom Filip, Assistant Chief of the Army Corps of Engineers regulatory branch in Baltimore, fielded wetlands concerns from the audience. Twenty concerns were generated and posted and 46 members of MASCD, with wetlands on their property, voted on the issues that had a priority concern for them as landowners. A majority of MASCD members agreed that not all wetlands are created equal. They voted that the functional as well as the economic values should be considered in wetlands decisionmaking. They said inconsistencies among too many federal, state and local agencies diluted the Soil Concervation District's authority to effectively advise property owners about wetlands. The concerns generated by MASCD members was then carried by Filip to the next federal wetlands meeting in Philadelphia.

The Soil Conservation District members also seriously considered expanding the existing Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) program into all counties in Maryland. At present, there are two RC&D councils in the state: one in the Southern counties - St. Mary's. Charles, and Calvert, and the second that covers the entire Eastern Shore.

The RC&D program, offered through USDA's Soil Conservation Service, was established in 1962 with the purpose of developing, improving, and conserving natural resources and also providing employment and other economic opportunities to local communities Each RC&D Council receives some federal monies, but a majority of the funds are generated within the community for such projects as roadside stabilization, school ground stabilization, recycling plants, and other projects needed by Continued on Page C-10

Over One-Third Of Corn Grain

By September 30, 38 percent of Maryland's corn for grain acreage was harvested, ahead of last year's 24 percent, but behind the five-year average of 41 percent. An average of 5.7 days was suitable for fieldwork during this week according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the State, no topsoil was very short of moisture, five percent was short of moisture, 95 percent was adequate, and none was surplus. Subsoil moisture ended the week as follows: none very short, five percent short, 95 percent was adequate, and none was surplus. Western and North Central Mary land averaged 0.65 inch and 0.62 inch, respectively. Southern Maryland west of the Bay and Eastern Shore averaged 0.37 inch and 0.55 inch, respectively. The temperature averaged 61.2 degrees, 3.7 degrees below the normal of 64.9 degrees for September 22-28. Minimum temperatures were in the low to mid 40's in Western and North Central Maryland, and in the high 40's to low 50's in Southern Maryland west of the Bay and on the Eastern Shore. Maximum temperatures were mostly in the mid 70's to low 80's except in extreme western Maryland where maximums reached the mid 60's.

Secretary Cawley Reminds Farmers To Be Careful

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. reminds all farmers during this harvest season to take extra precautions to reduce the risks of farm accidents.

Those of us engaged in agricultural production face high risks of occupational injury. But with a little care, we can prevent many injuries and deaths caused by farm-related accidents. I urge all farm families to take the lead in establishing and maintaining safe farm practices," Cawley said.

According to national statistics, agriculture continues to lead all industries in work-related accidents nationwide.

'Quite often a little common sense can prevent serious mishaps. For example, most farm equipment accidents can be prevented by taking time to review safety precautions in the operator's manual. In addition, it is important to keep all children and the elderly away from hazardous machines," said Cawley.

'Please be careful. Know your physical limitations. And your machinery's limitations," Cawley said

> Maryland Private Pesticide Applicators License Training Test Date

I will be offering training in preparation for the pesticide test on November 5, 1990 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and repeat in the ening from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The test will be given by MDA on November 15, at 7:30 p.m. Everything will be conducted at the Extension Office, 202 S. Third Street. Reservations are necessary for training and the test. If you do not have the study manuals, call my office at 334-1990.

Condition of Field Corn

I have been checking on the condition of corn throughout the county and find that more corn than I expected is rapidly approaching the harvest stage for high-moisture corn. Likewise, a lot of the corn is ready to put in the silo as silage. Check your corn for moisture either by a moisture tester or using the microwave method. If you want, bring 5-6 ears, randomly selected, to my office and I'll check for you. Keep Newly Bought Stocker Calves Alive

There will be many weaned calves trading hands in October and November. Most of these calves will be backgrounded on farms to either be sold in the spring or next summer or early fall. One of the main keys to profit is keeping these newly purchased calves alive. If you are purchasing calves, be sure you are ready and the following points may be helpful. Move newly purchased calves from the stockyard quickly. Don't crowd them on trucks. Use covered trucks or trailers where possible in moving them back to the farm. Handle these babies gently and quickly. Once at the farm, segregate them in fairly small groups. When these calves arrive at the farm, fill them with top quality hay. Then, let them go to clean fresh water and keep water before them at all times. Close surveillance of these newly weaned calves is imperative. They need to be looked at early in the morning, at mid-day and late in the evening for at least the first three weeks. If calves are going to pasture, keep them confined for five to seven days before turning them out into small pastures. Own and use a thermometer. Digital thermometers today are cheap and very efficient in detecting abnormal temperatures. Treat sick calves early. Use a definite treatment regime of antibiotics. Consult with your veterinarian and lay this plan out before you start. There are several inoculations that calves should get and many successful operators work calves and give all of these inoculations off the truck when they first arrive at the farm. Others declare that they do better by waiting three weeks. In any event, they need to get inoculations for 7-way clostridial, IBR, P13, BRSV (perhaps BVD), Vitamin A&D and Selenium. In most instances, they should be implanted and they definitely should be dewormed.

"Get Out Alive" Week Proclaimed

In conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week, October 7-13, McDonald's Restaurants are sponsoring a nationwide 'Plan to Get Out Alive" program, which stresses informing the public, especially children, on the dangers of fire and what to do in case of a fire emergency. Recognizing the importance of fire prevention education, the Oakland City Council has proclaimed October 7-13 "Plan to Get Out Alive" week.

"More than 60,000 people will be killed or injured in home fires this year because they, like most Americans, don't know what a real fire is like until it's too late; a real fire is a pitch-black nightmare that can trap you in seconds," stated a McDonald's spokesman.

According to national statistics over 82 percent of all fires occur in the home, and 50 percent of deaths related to those fires are children ages 13 and younger. Every family member should know two escape routes from every room. Families should also decide on a place outside where they can meet to be sure everyone has escaped safely. Families should regularly practice a home fire

GCC President To Speak At

Frostburg State

Dr. Stephen J. Herman, president of Garrett Community College, will visit Frostburg State University on Monday, October 15, to speak on the topic of "Devotion, Vows and Abiding Love.'

His talk, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Room 140, Lane Center. is sponsored by the FSU Philosophy Club, Department of Philosophy and the Modern Humanities Program.

"Devotion and vows were once thought to be indispensable accompaniments of love relationships," Herman said. 'Now they have been regulated in some circles to superfluities."

Dr. Herman says these changes are proceeding almost imperceptibly without careful reflection on whether the changes are beneficial or selfdefeating, and he hopes his 11 analysis "will offer some prudential counsel to would-be lovers.'

President Herman holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in philosophy from the University of Massachusetts.

They also had the reassurance that a similar program in Potomac Edison's Hagerstown offices had already been highly successful, with 35,253 pounds of paper recycled since its start in March 1990.

Who needs mortgage approval anxiety?

So very much hinges on the approval of a mortgage loan application. One family is wondering whether its new dream home will be possible. Another family might be awaiting the answer so it can buy the vacated home. And the realtor is anxious to "tie down the deal."

There's lots of anxiety. Certainly a lengthy wait for approval of the mortgage application should not be a factor.

The folks at Garrett National Bank are keenly aware of the need for fast turnaround. When you deal with Garrett National, you will find our service to be better and quicker because we're true experts at processing mortgage loans.

But fast processing is only half our story. Garrett National also has a commitment to a great combination of low rates and flexible terms. Both fixed and variable rates are available. Payback? Ten years, 15 years, 20 years. Other terms can be arranged. And we're committed to a low point schedule.

When important home-buying decisions are being made, it's in everyone's best interest to seek out the best deal. We feel both the best deal and best service will be found at Garrett National Bank. Visit any of our 10 convenient offices today and find out for yourself.

Televised Meeting On Education

Attended By 50

Approximately 50 viewers including teachers, parents, and supervisors were in attendance at the Broad Ford Elementary School last evening for a televised "town meeting," broadcast on Maryland Public Television and shown on three televisions in the auditorium

The hour-long program highlighted Dr. Joseph Shilling, State Superintendent of Schools, who discussed at length initiatives for the future of Maryland schools, entitled "Success For All Students."

The meeting was an open forum for questions concerning the new program, which was called "the most sweeping proposal ever attempted.

Other representatives on the panel were Maureen Lamb, past president of the Md. Assn. of Counties; Paul Shelby, president of the Md. Assn. of Boards of Education; Jane Stern, Maryland State Teachers' Association president; and Del. Howard Rawlings.

Mandatory kindergarten, and extension of the existing 180-day school year to 200 days, and mandatory school attendance until age 18 were three of the ten initiatives focused on in the dis-

Some of the promises made by Shilling if the program is completely implemented include 95 percent of Maryland students will be prepared for the first grade, 100 percent will be functionally literate, 50 percent will achieve excellence, and a higher percentage of students will go on to higher education

Shilling said accountability for these improvements will be put more heavily on teachers and principals than ever before. Teachers will have to be recertified, and their performance will be evaluated more

Another aspect of the program is the installation of computers in every Maryland school. A ratio of one computer for every ten students is the

The purposes of these initiatives are varied, yet they all point toward preparing Maryland children for the future. Shilling stated The reason for the computers in every school is to raise student interest in technology

According to Shilling, of all Maryland students currently in college, one percent of the students are majoring in math, and only four percent are majoring in the sciences combined.

'The workforce in the year 2000 is going to consist of hightech workers, not factory laborers. We need to prepare the kids for the future," he said. Del. Rawlings added that our country is losing its competitive edge rapidly, and that only Belgium has a shorter school year than the United States. All other countries' children are in school anywhere from 200 to 240 days a year, he said.

WOMEN HONORED — National Business Women's Week (October 14-20) was officially proclaimed in the area by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners. The county officials commended the 44 million women now in the nation's work force. They noted that the major goals of business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economical, and political problems. The commissioners urged all citizens in Gar reff County to join in their salute to working women "by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to to our economic, civic, and cultural purposes. On hand for the proclamation signing were, left to right, Commissioner Elwood Groves II; Cosette Harman, member of the Garrett County BPW; Bea Crosco, National Business Women's Week committee member; Lisa Thayer, president of the Garrett County BPW; Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.; and Commissioner John G. Braskey.

The added twenty days, al- pleased with the turnout, and ready approved by the Maryland State Board of Education, sparked debate in the program more than any other issue. The cost of the addition will exceed $100 million, which was a sore point to many. Other protestations concerned children's time in the home, and the extention of the teachers' work year Shilling defended the added time, saying the days will significantly increase the length of learning time for students, and that at present, much learning is lost in the summer months and a remedy is needed for that loss.

Maureen Lamb stated that although the program has many worthy aspirations, the fact remains that the money needed for almost all of the initiatives is simply not available. especially to the poorer

After the panel discussion ended, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage fielded questions by those in attendance, which dealt mainly with the 20 added days and with the money availability to Garrett County, which is one of the poorer counties in Maryland school systems

The Superintendent stated that "our youngsters are simply not being treated fairly in this state because of where they live." He expressed the hope that the program may help in changing the problem. Ryscavage also discussed the mandatory testing which is already planned for January 1991, and that "a good deal more pressure" will be put upon teacher and principal per-

'One of our goals is to raise the percentage of our students who go on to higher education. Presently, 37 percent go on to college from Garrett County, but the statewide average is 50 percent," he said. Ryscavage noted that he was that there were parents and teachers alike willing to spend the evening to discuss the oncoming changes in the school system. He urged those in attendance to return on Oct. 30 for the next meeting, at which time the candidates for the local education board will speak.

Two Animals Confirmed Rabid By Health Dept.

Two more cases of rabid animals in the area have been confirmed by the Garrett County Health Department, one involving a raccoon and the other a skunk

Alice Long reported an incident to the health department that occurred on Oct. 4 at her resident on Old Morgantown Road, near the Cove.

Apparently, a raccoon come on to the Long's porch and fought with their dog. Gary Long then killed the raccoon. The pet had been vaccinated a week prior to the incident, however, because dogs do not build up a sufficient immunity to the disease for 30 days, the animal was destroyed.

Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director of the Garrett County Environmental Health Department, said that six people came into contact with the dog shortly after the encounter. Although after a physician's examination they were not required to undergo post-exposure treatment, Glotfelty stressed again that people should absolutely not handle pets for at least two hours after an encounter with a rabid animal. Two hours is the time needed for the fatal virus to die if it has been transmitted to the fur of a pet. If a person has a small cut on his hands, the virus can be transmitted to him if he handles his pet immediately after an encounter.

The 37th rabies case reportedly occurred at the Brite Warnick residence on Twin Churches Road, off of New Germany Road.

Warnick's unvaccinated dog fought with a rabid skunk on Tuesday, and the skunk was killed.

The pet will be euthanized today, Sanitarian Tina Buckel

A rising number of cases are occurring near the New Germany Road area, Glotfelty said, and residents in that area should take the proper precautions by having their pets vaccinated, and by being alert to the dangerous disease

The forum will give a local preview of a land-use planning process now being adjusted to address urgent issues. Some of these issues are: population growth, distribution and density, sustainable development, conservation of agricultural and forest lands, the environment and the impact of these factors on land values, jobs, taxes, and the quality of

The Chesapeake Bay Commission, of which Miss Swanson is executive director, is a tristate legislative advisory group composed of the governors, five delegates and senators, and one
